BOOM STARTED BY PITTSBURGH

Rivers and Harbors Committee Starts Down the Ohio to Cairo.

SPEECH BY BURTON

Banquet Concludes Entertainment by City—Trip Up the Two Rivers.

WELCOME BY OTHER CITIES

A banquet by the city at the Hotel Schenley last night and an excursion on the two rivers which form the Ohio, yesterday concluded the local entertainment of the rivers and harbors committee of congress and started the committee on its voyage to Cairo. Both were notable events. The passage of the congressional committee along the Allegheny and the Monongahela in the gaily bedecked Island Queen, was attended by a deafening whistling of boats and mills.

The 11 members of the rivers and harbors committee left with a vivid impression of the great enthusiasm in the Pittsburgh district for the proposed improvement of the waterway to the Father of Waters, and also of the mammoth extent of the tonnage of this city which cannot now find an adequate outlet by rail.

The banquet last night was attended by 375 guests, including members of the rivers and harbors committee, city officials and members of councils, county officials and local congressmen and many representative business men and manufacturers. The banquet was the crowning feature of the visit of the congressmen, and the feature of this function was the eloquent speech delivered by Congressman Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland, the chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, in whose hands practically rests the fate of the proposed improvement of the Ohio river from Pittsburgh to Cairo, for which upward of $100,000,000 are asked.

Chairman Burton Is Discreet.

Chairman Burton discreetly refused to commit himself on the subject of appropriations, but he convinced his hearers at the banquet that he is enthusiastically in favor of the improvement of the Ohio as one of the greatest streams of the country.

Mr. Burton said that the amount of money which would be expended on the Ohio depended largely upon the amount at the disposal of his committee when the next appropriation bill is drawn and upon other rivers and harvors projects of the country which demand attention. Chairman Burton talked interestingly upon the rivers of Europe and the United States, giving the main differences, but the part of his speech that excited the greatest interest and which was the most applauded was his reference to graft and local municipal government.

He declared that any city, such as Pittsburgh, with a federal form of government and the whole power vested in the mayor, had as good a government as the people deserved and wanted. The graft problem and the running of municipal governments honestly and economically, he said, were the great questions to be solved by the American people.

Mayor Hays Present but Speechless.

Former Congressman James W. Brown delivered the address of welcome in behalf of the city. He introduced himself as the "substitute of a substitute," referring to his being chosen as the proxy of Mayor Hays and City Solicitor Rodgers. Mayor Hays sat at the right hand of the toastmaster, Judge Buffington, and laughed at the remark made by the toastmaster at his expense, that the mayor had been making so many speeches that he was being given a rest. Addresses were also made by Congressmen James Francis Burke and John Dalzell, Col. John L. Vance, president of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, spoke for that organization briefly. The invocation was spoken by the Rev. Dr. Daniel Dorchester.

The decorations of the banquet hall were simple but effective. They consisted of potted plants and palms, American Beauty roses and a variety of cut flowers. The speaker's table ran the entire length of the hall and the other tables were arranged in pairs across the width of the hall. At the speaker's table sat the members of the rivers and harbors committee, Chairman Wainwright of the council committee, Mayor Hays, Director Bigelow and other city officials. The music by the orchestra was mainly patriotic and popular airs which aroused the banqueters to enthusiasm, they frequently following the instruments with the words

FLINGS GAUNTLET TO THE SENATE

GREAT CROWDS GREET TRAIN

President Roosevelt's Denver speech in which he returned to his railroad rate campaign with vigor is accepted by the senate committee on interstate commerce as a new challenge and a reopening of the contest between the president and the railroads. The speech came at a time when the issue was waning so far as the senate committee was concerned, and after it had been accepted by all who have watched the present series of hearings that there was no hope in this committee of a bill giving rate fixing power to a federal commission.

The president's speech is accepted on all sides as an indication that he intends to push his campaign through the next session and he will continue consultations on this subject through the summer. His specific mention of regulation of rates by government commission means that he will not be satisfied with a bill which only aims to correct the private car and terminal abuses.

DENVER, May 9.—President Roosevelt in his speech at the banquet here last night, concluded with the following comment on the Panama canal project:

It is, perhaps, unnecessary for me to say that I am perfectly aware that many most admirable gentlemen disagreed with me in my action toward the Panama canal, but I am in an unrepentent frame of mind. The ethical conception upon which I acted was that I did not intend that Uncle Sam should be held up. But without regard to that, when the canal comes into operation I think it will have a very important regulatory effect in connection with the transcontinental commerce of the railroads. I think when such is the case these great railroads will have to revise their way of looking at the interests of certain inland cities.

GRAND ISLAND, NEB., May 9.—Despite the rain, 5,000 people had gathered at the Union Pacific depot at 6:20 o'clock to see and hear President Roosevelt. The president, smiling and happy, stepped out upon the rear platform and lost no time in greeting the Nebraskans gathered here. He had already begun to address the throng when Miss Annie Garmes and the members of the high school graduating class worked their way through the crowd and presented the president with a fine bouquet of flowers, on behalf of the business men of Grand Island and of the schools. The president expressed his appreciation especially as coming from the school children, venturing the assurance that he needed not to call attention to his fondness for school children (laughter).

With only four stops for speeches, the trip of the presidential special from Denver to this city was uneventful.

OMAHA, May 9.—Late this afternoon it was decided to change the route of the presidential train and send it across the Missouri river at Blair, Neb., 25 miles north of Omaha. When the train reached Fremont it was turned over to the Chicago & Northwestern road, which took the train across the cut-off to Iowa. Quite a large crowd had gathered at the Union station in this city tonight in the hope of securing a glimpse of the president. Not learning of the change in route, they waited for the special train which arrived, highly decorated, with the president's car missing.

During the day the Union Pacific railroad transmitted over its wires the news of the day, which was delivered in regular bulletin form to the president, who expressed his gratification at this innovation in keeping his train in touch with the news of the world.

FIGHT FOR GREATER CITY.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—(Special.)—Ex-Gov. William A. Stone and W. C. Gun, who are contesting the constitutionality of the Cook Greater Pittsburgh bill, and City Solicitor W. B. Rodgers and his first assistant, Thomas D. Carnahan, who are sustaining the measure, are here ready to present their briefs to the supreme court.

As there are nine cases on tomorrow's calendar in advance of the Pittsburgh bill the chances are that it will not be reached.

HIGH-SPEED AUTOMOBILE RUNS DOWN SCHOOL GIRL

Child Stands Terrified Until the Machine Is Upon Her—Injuries Are Severe.

Dorothy Jane Hamilton, aged 8, of 5432 Howe street, daughter of William H. Hamilton, liveryman, of 5507 Fifth avenue, yesterday afternoon, as she was returning from school, was run over by an automobile in front of her home and seriously injured. In addition to a severe scalp wound and violent pains in her chest, the physicians last night were in doubt as to whether or not her skull was fractured.

The machine is the property of the Allegheny Automobile Company of 711 Jackson street, Allegheny, and it was being exhibited to Mrs. J. J. Virgin and H. Hammel of 620 College avenue.

G. N. Kughen of 713 Webster avenue was in charge of the automobile, and was speeding it along Howe street. The girl started across the street, but when in the center of the roadway she saw the automobile rushing toward her. She became frightened and was undecided which way to run. In her moment of indecision the car was upon her. She was knocked down and the wheels passed over her. The machine weighed about 3,000 pounds. The occupants got out. Several neighbors rushed to the scene and the child was taken home, unconscious.

Mrs. Virgin is an enthusiastic automobilist and is well known in the East End.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB TO SAIL FOR HOME TODAY

He Gives a Big Dinner in London to Prominent Steel Manufacturers.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.] (Copyright, 1905, by New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, May 9.—Charles M. Schwab arrived in London last night from Paris and is sailing today on the Baltic. I saw him at the Savoy tonight, where he was giving a big dinner to a party of guests including prominent steel manufacturers, among them Windsor Richards, Arthur Kean and Albert Vicker.

Mr. Schwab declined to discuss his Russian mission on the ground that it would be impolitic. "I can only say I am much pleased with the result."

Asked if Mr. Rothschild, the antique dealer who had a subpoena served on him on board the steamer when he arrived at Plymouth, had made an attempt to serve papers on him during the day, Mr. Schwab said: "No, I have put the matter in the hands of my lawyer and have heard no more about it."

CHICAGO, May 9.—Officials of the Armour car lines will go before the interstate commerce commission tomorrow, says the Record-Herald, with an offer to reduce icing charges from 15 to 30 per cent over the entire Michigan fruit belt, if what is known as the Michigan fruit case is dismissed. The offer was made to the attorneys for the commission men who are behind the suit, but was refused.

BANQUET TURNED INTO HOT DEBATE

STUYVESANT FISH REPLIES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Secretary Taft fairly took the breath of the 300 railway men, members of the International Railway congress, dining tonight as the guests of the American Railway association at the new Willard hotel, when, after being introduced as "the apostle of the Philippines," he emphatically declared that railway rate legislation must come; that if the railway men of the country were wise they would aid, and not hinder it; that the sentiment of the country is such that failure of proper regulation meant a campaign on the subject that would do no good to the railroads.

Absolute silence reigned as Secretary Taft spoke his mind on the subject of rates. He was positive against government ownership, he said. "But," he continued, "you cannot run railroads as you run a private business. You must respond to the public demand." The secretary saw no reason why a tribunal properly constituted could not be competent to fix a maximum rate.

President Stuyvesant Fish of the American Railway association had introduced Secretary Taft. In his capacity as toastmaster Mr. Fish was on his feet the instant the secretary concluded. He answered the secretary at length, taking the view that the law to prevent discrimination, double-dealing and secret rebates was ample, and he vigorously called for the enforcement of that law. Mr. Fish apologized for allowing himself to be diverted and as he sat down Secretary Taft, who sat next him, queried in a low tone:

"May I have 15 minutes to reply?"

This time was given and the secretary utilized it in making himself even more positive as to his position in favor of legislation which would create a tribunal with authority to make a maximum limit. "The law is now," continued the secretary, "decided by the supreme court of the United States, that first a commission and then the courts may decide whether a particular rate is reasonable or unreasonable. Now in fixing that in the very mental process in determining whether a rate is reasonable or unreasonable, one has got to fix what is a maximum rate."

Mr. Fish again took up the argument, contending it was the question of fixing the price for the seller of goods.

BIG OIL STRIKE NEAR BUTLER

Old Gasser Drilled in Is Producing 2,400 Barrels a Day.

MAD RUSH TO LEASE

ONE OWNER A PITTSBURGHER

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUTLER, May 9.—The best producing oil well in America is spouting 661 petroleum at the rate of 2,400 barrels a day on the Dr. O. K. Waldron farm about one mile west of Butler. Coal Oil Johnny's sudden leap from poverty to wealth is repeated in the case of "Spotty" McBride—formerly a street vendor, today a rich man.

The gusher is half a mile west of Dr. Waldron's homestead on a tract formerly owned by the Ehmer heirs. It is an old gasser drilled down from the 100-foot to the fourth sand. Last Thursday Isaac McBride, familiarly known throughout the oil region as "Spotty," put the drill into the fourth sand.

Long experience told him something extra good was at the bottom of the hole and the well was quietly shot down and none but the owners knew of their good fortune until today. In the meantime they had gathered up a few of the most promising leases in the immediate vicinity.

This morning the well was drilled deeper into the sand and began flowing at the rate of 40 barrels an hour. A 250-barrel tank was soon filled and the well was then shut down. Another 250-barrel tank, which had been commenced, was hastily completed and the oil turned on again. Reports this evening say the tank was filled in but little more than an hour. The well then settled down to 100 barrels an hour, according to the estimates of the most conservative and experienced oil men who visited it. Three two-inch pipes are pouring out the golden fluid, which is being wasted.

This afternoon and evening hundreds of sightseers and oil men, traveling by buggy, horseback, bicycle and on foot, visited the big gusher. The owners are Isaac McBride, Peter P. McCool and William Hinchberger of Butler, and Michael Finnegan of Pittsburgh. McBride took the lease and is said to still own three-eighths of it. McCool has one quarter, Hinchberger a sixteenth and Finnegan three-sixteenths.

Every oil man in Butler is congratulating "Spotty" McBride, who for 20 years has been running fortune's gamut sometimes well off, but mostly poor and in hard luck from dry holes, sickness, accidents, fires or business failures. Two years ago he was selling potato peelers in the street to support his family. The well is about a mile northeast of the Huselton strike of last year, and is in old territory. The extent of the new field opened must necessarily be limited, and may prove treacherous drilling.

Oil men are falling over each other in their efforts to gather up leases in the neighborhood and surprising prices are being offered. Five thousand dollars is said to have been refused this evening for a 10-acre lease within a quarter of a mile of the well.

LIVELY BRADDOCK FIRE.

A Dozen Horses Are Saved from Flames Which Do About $20,000 Damage.

Fire completely destroyed the building and contents of George Moore's feed, grain and flour store and stable at Sixth street and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, Braddock, shortly after 10 o'clock last evening.

About a dozen horses were taken through the flames in a hurry to save them from burning to death. They were but slightly scorched. The building burned was a two-story frame structure, owned by E. R. Dowler of Braddock. Its value is placed at $5,000. The contents were worth about $15,000.

CASHIER GOLL MAY TURN STATE'S EVIDENCE

MILWAUKEE, WIS., May 9.—Henry G. Goll, former assistant cashier of the First National bank, who is charged with embezzlement, was in conference today with United States District Attorney Butterfield, Bank Examiner C. H. Bosworth and Attorney George P. Miller, representing the bank. From a source that is authentic, it is learned Goll's friends think he can best serve his own interests by confessing all he knows concerning the defalcation of F. G. Bigelow, former president of the bank.

HAY PHILIPS WAS NOT THERE

Prosecutor of Pittsburgh Editors Fails to Appear at Hearing.

Attorneys for the Prosecution Admit the Man Is Just a Figurehead.

GAZETTE OFFERS A REWARD

A mysterious person, who signs himself Hay Philips, is piling up criminal libel suits in the Butler county courts against Pittsburgh editors. In this work he is supposed to be acting for the Allegheny City officials who are having troubles in the local criminal courts. Yesterday an opportunity was given the prosecutor to face one of the men he has made a defendant. Hay Philips did not appear and one of the attorneys for the prosecution, the district attorney of Butler county and the justice before whom the information was made, all said they had no personal knowledge of the prosecutor except that he represented himself to be Hay Philips.

The defendant in this case is William S. Scott, managing editor of The Gazette. He was arrested on the night of May 8 upon an information sworn to by Hay Philips before Squire H. W. Christie of Butler. He is charged with having on April 27 published an alleged libelous article concerning the disagreement of the jury in the trial of the case of Capt. James Wilson of the Allegheny police force, accused of accepting money from the keeper of a North side disorderly house. Mr. Scott gave bail for a hearing yesterday afternoon. He was present with counsel anxious to go into a full examination. Hay Philips did not appear and the attorneys representing this mysterious personage and the men behind him secured a continuance until Monday afternoon next at 2 o'clock. They admitted Philips is but a figurehead in the prosecution, but declined to name the real prosecutors, preferring to screen themselves beneath the broad cloak of the commonwealth. These lawyers even refused to promise to produce Philips at any time in the future.

Gazette Has Subpoena for Philips.

If the prosecution will not produce Hay Philips, The Gazette will make an attempt to have the person in the hearing Monday. It desires to call him as a witness. In the hope of having this apparently mythical prosecutor appear in the open and tell why he complains of a story in which he has no interest, The Gazette has had Squire Christie issue a subpoena for Philips. The summons has been placed in the hands of Gilbert B. Perkins, director of the Perkins Union Detective agency of Pittsburgh. If Philips can be found he will be served. In order to assist in the serving of the subpoena, The Gazette has offered a reward of $50 for information which will give the location of the man.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mr. Scott and his lawyers, former Judge John M. Greer and James N. Moore of Butler, went to the office of Squire Christie and announced they were ready to go into a hearing. J. D. Marshall of Butler, one of several attorneys of that town who have been retained to prosecute the libel charges, was present with District Attorney Samuel Walker. Mr. Marshall asked for a continuance of the case on the ground that S. F. Boyer and W. Z. Murrin, his associates, were in Pittsburgh attending superior court.

Would Not Produce Philips.

Judge Greer said if all of the parties to the suit lived in Butler, it would be all right to postpone the hearing, but insisted it was unfair to make the defendant travel from Pittsburgh to suit the pleasure of the prosecution. He then asked for the prosecutor and Mr. Marshall said he was not present. Judge Greer made it plain that it was his duty to be there. "This case is out of the ordinary channels," said he. "If there was any crime, it was committed in Allegheny county and the case should be tried there. The Butler taxpayers are complaining about the heavy burden being placed upon them. They would like to know and we would like to know who is bringing these prosecutions. Will you ever be able to accommodate us?"

In reply to this Mr. Marshall said: "I can't say. I have seen Philips."

"Does the 'squire know him?" was another query from Judge Greer.

"I do not know him," said Justice Christie, "except that he told me he is Hay Philips."

"Philips was in my office on May 3," said Mr. Marshall. "He came between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning and went back to the city about 11 40 o'clock that same morning."

Judge Greer said it was all right to

The Pittsburgh Gazette will pay $50.00 for information which will enable the serving of the subpoena reproduced herewith.

FAC-SIMILE OF SUBPOENA ISSUED FOR HAY PHILIPS

Subpoena No. 1417. Henry Stall, Printer, Indiana, Pa.

Butler County, ss.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to Hay Philips

Greeting:

We command you, that laying aside all business and excuses whatever, you be and appear in your proper person before H. W. Christie Esq., one of our Justices of the Peace in and for said County, at his office in Butler in said County on the 5th day of May 1905, between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock P. M., to testify your knowledge in a certain cause now at issue before him, the said Justice, wherein Commonwealth of Pa. Plaintiff, and William S. Scott, Defendant

Herein fail not at your peril.

Witness the hand and seal of said Justice, this 9th day of May A. D. 1905

make the excuse that Messrs. Murrin and Bowser were in Pittsburgh, but he thought Mr. Marshall and the district attorney were thoroughly competent to conduct the hearing for the prosecution and could see no valid reason for delay.

Thomas M. Marshall Interested.

Mr. Marshall again insisted that his associates were in Pittsburgh and it would not be fair to proceed in their absence. He brought out the fact that a telephone message had been received from Pittsburgh yesterday morning asking for a postponement. When pressed for the name of the sender of the message, he said he thought it had come from Thomas M. Marshall to the district attorney. It was suggested that Thomas M. Marshall had denied having any connection with the prosecutions. To this Mr. Marshall replied: "It may be so that he has nothing to do with the case."

District Attorney Walker was asked to give the name of the Pittsburgher who had telephoned him to continue the case. He said: "The telephone message was from Thomas M. Marshall. He told me Murrin and Bowser were in Pittsburgh and could not leave and asked that the hearing be postponed. He did not say whether the prosecutor would be here."

Judge Greer again tried to learn something about the mysterious Philips. In reply to a query, Mr. Marshall said: "He may be here at the next hearing. It is not necessary for him to be present. He is just a figurehead in the case. Philips told me he was a business man. He brought the informations to me prepared. I cannot tell whether he is Hay Philips. I have been told that is his name and he writes that signature as though he is used to it."

Greer Wants Philips Produced.

"This is an extremely unfair and unprecedented proceeding," said Judge Greer. "We do not even know if this man is able to pay the costs. We do not even know that he exists. We have a right to see him and learn whether he is a responsible person. If this prosecution were brought in good faith, the prosecutor would be here. We insist, Mr. Justice, that you either proceed to a hearing or discontinue the case."

Judge Greer next tried to learn for whom Mr. Marshall appeared. This is the information he received: "I am not retained by the prosecutor. He is a mere figurehead. I am here to speak for the great commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

"Who are the interested parties in this prosecution?" asked Judge Greer.

"The people," replied Mr. Marshall. "This is especially true when a heinous crime like this has been committed."

Mr. Moore said Philips has made this information and he has a right to face Mr. Scott. "It is the duty of the prosecution to have the man here."

District Attorney Walker was then appealed to for information about Philips and he very frankly replied that he did not know whether there is such a man.

Philips Afraid of Notoriety.

Judge Greer called attention to the fact that Philips has brought 16 informations against Pittsburgh editors in Butler county, yet fails to appear to back up his charges. The judge again requested Mr. Marshall to throw some light on these mysterious prosecutions.

"I cannot tell who is back of these prosecutions or by whom I was retained," said Mr. Marshall. "All I can tell you is that I am attorney for the commonwealth. I could tell you, judge, privately, who asked me to represent the commonwealth."

District Attorney Walker said that he did not know who was behind the cases. Squire Christie volunteered the information that when Philips brought him the informations he said he was desirous of avoiding notoriety. He told the justice that he was particularly anxious that his picture would not be printed in the newspapers. Hay Philips did not say why he was so anxious to have his picture kept out of the papers.

"There is a conspiracy here to indict," said Judge Greer, "and those behind it are afraid to uncover. There is much mystery about this fellow Hay Philips. The defendant has more rights than a prosecutor who will not attend to his duty. Mr. Justice, if you continue this case you will be establishing a very bad precedent in your court. We will agree to a postponement, however, if Mr. Marshall will promise to have Philips at the hearing."

More Taxes for Butlerites to Pay.

"I cannot promise to do that," said Mr. Marshall, "but I will see whether I can have this fellow come out. So far as I am concerned I cannot see any reason for making a mystery out of Philips. He may be here tomorrow with a dozen more informations."

Mr. Moore then brought the matter to a close by moving for the discharge of the defendant. He said the prosecutor had failed to appear and no valid reason had been given for a postponement. Justice Christie tried to compromise by adjourning until 7:30 o'clock last evening, and if Murrin and Bowser did not appear the case was to go over until this morning. The defense was willing to agree to this providing Mr. Marshall would produce Philips. This he refused to do and the 'squire finally adjourned the hearing until next Monday afternoon. He says he will not allow another continuance.

Butler county people cannot understand why the informations were brought in Butler. They have no interest in the troubles of the Allegheny officials, and object to paying hundreds of dollars in court costs.

EXPENSIVE SIGNATURE OF MR. HAY PHILIPS

It Will Cost Butler County Many Dollars If the Cases Are Brought to Trial.

The Gazette would be pleased to print a picture of Hay Philips, even though the prosecutor in the libel suits so dreads the publication of his likeness. Until Philips comes in the open, it will be impossible to give the taxpayers of Butler county an opportunity to gaze upon the countenance of the man who is piling up costs for them to pay.

The best The Gazette can do for the present is to reproduce a face simile of the signature of Hay Philips. Here it is:

Hay Philips

So far Hay Philips has written this signature to 16 informations against Pittsburgh editors. According to reports from Butler this name is to be affixed to at least another score of informations. In none of the publications complained of does the name of Hay Philips appear. He institutes all of his prosecutions upon information received, acting as a cloak for the real prosecutors who so far have not appeared in the line light. Every time this signature is written, it means a case in which the people of Butler county do not have the slightest interest, is to be tried in the Butler county courts and the Butler county taxpayers will have to foot the bill. As it costs about $100 a day to operate the legal machinery, and each case will consume several days in trial, the Butler taxpayers can figure upon a higher millage for next year.

PITTSBURGH STARTS BOOM

After the repast the members of the rivers and harbors committee left the hotel and boarded the Queen City preparatory to the long trip to the Mississippi. The ladies of the party went on board the boat early in the evening.

Eleven of the seventeen members of the rivers and harbors committee assembled in Pittsburgh to take the trip. Two of the members, Congressmen Acheson and Dovener, arrived on Monday and the other nine came early yesterday morning. The eleven members who are scheduled for Cairo are Chairman Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, B. B. Dovener of West Virginia, Roswell P. Bishop of Michigan, Ernest F. Acheson of Pennsylvania, De Alva Alexander of New York, William Lorimer of Illinois, Wesley L. Jones of Washington, James H. Davidson of Wisconsin, J. Adam Bede of Minnesota, Joseph E. Randsell of Louisiana, and Stephen M. Sparkman of Florida. Several of the members were accompanied by their wives and other members of their families.

Chairman Burton stated yesterday that he would not take the entire trip, and would leave the boat either at Louisville or Evansville. The majority of the committee will go to Cairo and several will come back as far as Cincinnati, there to go to their homes by rail.

"The proposed improvement of the Ohio contemplates an expenditure of about $100,000," said Chairman Burton. "There has already been expended on the Ohio and its tributaries $20,000,000. I will not make a guess of how much the rivers and harbors committee may appropriate because there are many other rivers and harbor projects in the country that are urgent. In the amount of tonnage the Ohio river surpasses the Mississippi and two-thirds of the tonnage of the Ohio comes from the Monongahela river."

Morning Spent on the Rivers.

Chairman Burton and his committee boarded the United States engineers' harbor boat Loma at the Brilliant pumping station at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, after making a fast run from the Hotel Schenley to Brilliant in automobiles, and inspected the dams being constructed at Brilliant and the lock and dam at Herrs island. The Loma arrived at the Monongahela wharf at 12 o'clock, where a crowd of 200, including the congressmen, boarded the Island Queen, and went up the Monongahela river as far as McKeesport. The voyage up the latter river was marked by a continual demonstration by the boats and mills. At McKeesport the congressional party took a street car and returned to the city, arriving about 6 o'clock. This was done in the hope that time might be saved, but the reverse proved to be the case for the boat beat the street car back by half an hour, the congressional party having a tiresome wait of three-quarters of an hour in McKeesport for a special car. Growing tired of waiting for a special car the party boarded one of the regular cars, it being packed with workmen, going home from the mills in McKeesport and Duquesne, and several congressmen gave up their seats to women who got on along the way.

Framing of the Bill.

Congressman de Alva Alexander of Buffalo, N. Y., who has been a member of the rivers and harbors committee since 1897, and is one of its best posted members, said that the members of the committee making the trip to Cairo must all take the chance of re-election next year and if any are defeated they cannot take part in the framing of the next appropriation bill, in which the Ohio river promoters expect to have an item of $10,000,000 or less.

"The appropriation bill for rivers and harbors is framed every three years and the next appropriation will not be made until 1908," said Mr. Alexander. "If any of the members taking this trip are defeated they will not be on the committee when the next appropriation bill is made, although I expect that all, or nearly all, will be returned to congress. The last rivers and harbors bill appropriated $35,000,000, but the engineering force of the government cannot do more than $18,000,000 of work in the time between the appropriations. You may figure from this how long it may take to get enough money to improve the Ohio and how long it would take the government to do the work at its present capacity."

He alleges that Kennedy struck him in the face, cutting his lip and bruising him about the body. The alleged assault occurred on Sunday and at that time Kennedy was arrested and the following morning was fined $100 and costs by Magistrate Moke.

CORDIAL WELCOME IS GIVEN BY JAMES W. BROWN

Speaking for Mayor Hays He Spoke Words That Well Expressed Pittsburgh's Hospitality.

Mr. Brown said that having been requested by Mayor Hays to act as his proxy and extend to the members of the committee a welcome in the name of the city, he accepted this pleasant duty cheerfully, and "not only on behalf of the government of this great city and its people, but I go a step farther, and extend a welcome to you from the entire region of what is now called the Pittsburgh district, and which we soon hope to see embraced under the name of 'Greater Pittsburgh.'" Continuing, Mr. Brown spoke in part as follows:

We are pleased that we have the opportunity to start you on this voyage of investigation and inquiry, and we are glad also of the opportunity of showing to you some of the great influences that should, we believe, affect the further improvement of this national highway. As this is the starting point of your expedition, so it is the fountain head of the great subject of the improvement of the Ohio river. From this center there is distributed probably through the United States and to other countries of the world more tonnage than any other district in the world.

I do not desire to worry you with figures or statistics, but I would simply call your attention to the fact that the report of the chamber of commerce gives the total railroad tonnage handled in this district as equal to 2,500,000 cars of freight. It would require 9,000 ships of 10,000 tons burden each to hold the entire tonnage of this district.

We do not presume to intimate that any such tonnage as this would be shipped over the Ohio river, if it were improved even to a nine-foot stage, but we do contend that it would increase very materially, and that it will take these or like figures to show conclusively that the aid of this river to move the enormous tonnage of this district will be a necessity. As it is now, under the uncertain conditions which prevail in the navigation on this river, there is today about 11,000,000 tons of freight shipped over it.

We believe today that were there a regular system of navigation on the Ohio river, that we could, by water transportation reach the great Mississippi, and the waters of the gulf beyond, and that a business west and southwest could and would be built up, entirely independent of the railroad transportation, and we are satisfied that it will be a necessity, since the business of the district will outstrip the capacity of the railroads to handle it.

Our great city is but the starting point of your journey and the headwaters of the Ohio river. You will find numerous cities of importance and enterprise themselves alive to the necessity of this great improvement on this great river, whose waters mingle with the Mississippi, forming a natural highway from Pittsburgh to the gulf of Mexico, bordered by one-fourth of the states of this union.

We do not believe that there is a more important improvement today contemplated in this country than the one which you have today in contemplation.

We are familiar with the duties of your committee and the enormous demand there are on the limited resources at your command. We recognize the claims of other parts of the country and we are thankful for what has been done in the past, but we have waited long and patiently for this improvement, which year by year becomes more important in our eyes, and it is with great pleasure that to-day we welcome you to this important errand. We thank you for the opportunity of showing you our great city or parts of it, and I extend to you a very hearty greeting and welcome from this community, which is essentially a commercial and manufacturing center, in the name of its manufacturers, bankers, merchants and workingmen, and wish you a pleasant and safe journey during the balance of your trip.

CHAIRMAN BURTON IS CLEVER AND CAREFUL

Says Nothing in His Address Which Can Be Used to Plague Him Hereafter.

Chairman Burton, speaking on behalf of the visiting committee, spoke in part as follows:

One hundred and fifty years ago William, earl of Chatham, that great statesman who did so much for the advancement of England and America, that peerless orator whose orations on behalf of the colonies are repeated wherever the English language is spoken all across the globe, looked across the trackless ocean through the dreary forest, to the junction of the Allegheny and Monongahela, and there foresaw that in the future there would be a great city which now bears his name of Pittsburgh. How much keener his view would have been, how much greater importance he would have ascribed to the location, had he known the treasures of the mines that lay dormant in the hills at the forests and in the valleys around Pittsburgh, and with what supreme satisfaction he would have been able to have foreseen his anxiety that the English nation should possess this point had he known of the development of today, the Greater Pittsburgh in this beginning of the twentieth century.

Pittsburgh's Enormous Production.

I am pleased to congratulate you on the fact that your wealth, your production here in the Pittsburgh district surpasses that of kingdoms, empires and republics. I take it for granted that these figures are correct, and they show that in coal production this district surpasses the republic of France in the quantity of coal that is mined, and in its values it is far beyond the gold of California in its most successful year, far in advance of the diamonds of Golconda's mines. Turning over, I find that in pig iron production the product of the Pittsburgh district in 1904 exceeded that of the great empire of the czar of Russia. In petroleum production it exceeded that of the kingdom of Austro-Hungary; in steel rail production it exceeded that of the great empire of Germany, the most growing of all the countries of Europe.

I wish to congratulate you members of the city government of Pittsburgh that you have the so-called federal plan of government by which the responsibility is centered in the mayor. That is also a semi-ruling expression. It is delightful to know whom to kick when anything goes wrong, and with a city government in which power and responsibility are centered in the mayor you know with whom to find fault.

If there is one problem which troubles us here in America, if there is one problem in which we have achieved doubtful success, it is in the government of our cities. There is the same development in the old world and in the new, and particularly in the new, the gathering of the population into the great centers. Cities are increasing and towns and farms, even in such growing states as Iowa, are showing a diminishing population. The question is how shall we succeed in governing these great cities judiciously, economically, honestly? How well we succeed in banishing the graft and having vice stamped.

Have Confidence of People.

Gentlemen, the citizens of Pittsburgh and the citizens of other cities and communities have confidence that you will do your best to solve this problem, that you will give good government to the city of Pittsburgh and show them an example to follow in the other cities of the Union. And I want to say to the citizens of Pittsburgh who are not in office, this government is not a great machine where you can be indifferent to your duty. Life for you should not be made up of trips uptown and downtown, of telegraf merde in the process of a corporation or business with which you are identified. You should bear in mind that the opportunities which you possess, greater in the beginning of this century than any citizen has ever enjoyed in the history of the world, are due to the fact primarily that you are citizens of this great republic of ours. And along with these opportunities there is responsibility on your part to take an interest in government. Not merely the government which sits at Washington, nor that which centers at Harrisburg, but that which is here in the city of Pittsburgh.

The future of Pittsburgh will depend not alone on the mines in the neighborhood, not on the railways which center here, not on the great manufacturing establishments, not on the great rivers, but on your alertness, on your standard of honesty, on your willingness to support and sustain good men who do their duty in the municipality.

I would like to say something further in regard to the Ohio and the improvements of the river in this neighborhood, but I want to say to you this only: We all are friendly to the improvement of these rivers and harbors. We shall be glad to have all speedily pushed to completion, but what we need is someone to tell us how, with $300,000,000 of projects staring us in the face, as it were, with thirty or forty millions coming in every year under new surveys, we are able to take care of them all on between twenty and thirty millions a year. That being the case it is necessary for us first to go slowly, second to eliminate the greater share of the projects that are before us.

Two months ago when I was here I took pleasure in puncturing that delusion so circulated among our citizens of the country that our appropriations go to the little creeks and bayous of the country, showing to you by positive figures that in the last bill which took effect just 100th part of the amount we recommended for appropriation went to the minor streams of the county, but in the opposition to the bill there was more than 150th of the noise about these little streams.

BURKE IS WITTY AND ELOQUENT IN HIS TALK

Tells What Pittsburgh Wants, and Glowingly Describes What She Has Done.

The toast to which Congressman Burke was assigned to make response, "What Pittsburgh Wants," was made the vehicle for a number of happy sayings. Mr. Burke in introducing his subject said:

The title of my toast would indicate that I am to tell you what we want. We do not want the earth, but we certainly want the water. We furnish a large volume of old Monongahela to the mouth of the Allegheny, and we think it but fair that the government should provide a sufficient amount of water in the Ohio to constitute at least a respectable "chaser."

There are quite a number of gentlemen here tonight representing river interests, and, in view of the fact that they are accustomed to suffer from so many dry spells, the committee in charge thought it would furnish them at least a little novelty tonight by making this occasion a little damp, trusting that the rivers and harbors committee, having learned how much good a little moisture can do, will arrange with alacrity to see that our Pittsburgh harbors and the Ohio river will never go dry again.

You have been permitted to feast your vision upon the world wonderland of workshops, and if in the performance of your future duties memory reminds you of all that you have seen and heard while here, we feel assured that you, too, will proclaim those benefits and blessings to which our wonderful community is so manifestly entitled at the hands of our national government.

Benefits Whole World.

It is not so much for our own good alone as for the benefit of the whole world, and the supremacy of America in the world's markets, that we desire these improvements. The progressive Pittsburgher is not a promoter of paternalism in government, nor does he measure his city's future by the charity of his country, but, since public policy has given the government power and dominion over our natural waterways, we expect the nation to display at least the same degree of enterprise and liberality in developing our streams as local industrial communities display in furnishing freight with which to feed them.

You say you must be fair to other sections. You are the advance agents of progress; your duty is to build the widest and deepest channels where the eye is loudest and the cargo largest. In determining what America shall do for Pittsburgh we only ask you to bear in mind what Pittsburgh has done for America.

When the music of her mills is silent, the great industrial orchestra of the universe is out of tune, when the smoke of her stacks is no more, the sunset will lose its golden tint, and when the blaze of her furnaces is quenched, the somber night sky will lose half its glory. By our growth and greatness we have added to the growth and greatness of the American republic. We light the Chinese pagoda with our oil; from our dynamos and generators come the brilliant light in the streets of London; we feed the fires of southern mills and southern hearthstones with the black diamonds that are permitted now and then, by the grace of God, to float away at floodtide toward the cities and states under southern skies; we ship in all directions the cork that floats and the anchor that sinks beneath the hailing vessels on the seas. We furnish the armor that girdles the battleships of the world's navies, the steel rails that span the earth, and send astronomical instruments to the water towers of the universe, where scientists peer into the planets and fathom the mysteries of the stars.

Also Produce Great Men.

And we not only produce great materials but great men. When a great war wages we furnish a Stanton to stand beside and uphold the arm of Lincoln; when a critical conflict arises between organized capital and organized government we produce a Knox to be the Cordian Knot at the behest of the righteous and rugged Roosevelt; when one of the world's greatest financial institutions, controlling over five hundreds of millions of capital, becomes involved in a controversy that imperils the vested interests of innocent ones the world over, we produce the genius and the brain of a Frick to rectify the wrong, to point the way to action, and to substitute sanity for senseless strife; while the lower house of congress wishes to inject wisdom into its rules for expediting public business, it furnishes the ripened experience of John Dalzell.

In fact, in almost every department of American progress the community whose guests you are tonight has contributed its full share to America's unbounded wealth of materials and men, and have thus become entitled to generous treatment at the hands of the nation. Give us a nine-foot stage and within five years from its completion we will increase our river and railroad tonnage fifty millions per annum, and to that extent at least add to the annual income of the American people.

Become Cheaper to World.

In addition to this products that never saw the river before would find a place among her cargoes, and thereby become cheaper not only to the American consumer, but in the more distant markets of the world, where we are seeking supremacy over our foreign rivals. Furthermore, as Pittsburgh, keeping pace with improved railway facilities, gave the world the steel car, give us improved waterways, leading directly to the markets of the world, and in a short time we will furnish the steel barges to float the rivers and sail the seas, hand reform to our port from the harbors of the world laden with the products required by us, and which are now practically beyond our reach.

The story of idle mills and idle mines and idle men in the Pittsburgh district occasioned by want of adequate transportation facilities by rail and river is long since familiar to the entire commercial world. During the long years of delay more mopey has been lost to American trade by reason of this tardiness and by the wrecks that have strewn the Ohio river in flood times than would have perfected the entire slackwater system contemplated and demanded by us many times over.

CONGRESSMAN DALZELL SPEAKS OF GREATNESS

Well-Known Congressman in a Happy Mood Was the Best Speaker of the Evening.

Mr. Dalzell spoke in part as follows:

I have recently seen emphasized two important facts: One is that the municipal, industrial and commercial life of civilized nations has invariably centered at their great river or inland water cities. The other fact is, that we have reached that stage of our national growth which is most strongly marked by municipal and industrial development in harmony with this same law. A moment's thought will furnish the proof of this statement. Think of the valley of the Hudson with its multiplied and multiplying towns; think of our own great Pennsylvania city that on the banks of the Delaware reaches out for more extensive commerce; take note of our own great city; follow the windings of the beautiful river that starts therefrom in its journey toward the gulf; think of the cities of the Missouri and the Mississippi and of many others that I do not stop to mention; call to mind the cities that stud the shores of our great lakes; think of the splendid monuments of American pluck and enterprise that hold the key to the destines—commercial, political and social of our great west and the Pacific coast.

When we bear in mind that each of our cities draws sustenance from and gives sustenance to a more or less extended area of territory; when we think of their diversified industries; the wealth of their products; their contributions to commerce, and their consequent creation and employment of continually increasing facilities for interchange, by land and water, when we think of the social and moral interests of their inhabitants, of their government, its municipal villages? What a noticeable difference what is to prevent the unloading in an oriental port of vessels loaded to bulk at Pittsburgh? Nothing at all. I venture to say that there are men within sound of my voice tonight who will see Pittsburgh fleets find remunerative markets in the Pacific by way of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, the Caribbean sea and the Panama canal. May my prophecy be realized! (Great applause.)

I said a while ago that Pittsburgh needed improved waterways and new waterways. By the latter I had in mind a ship canal to connect the waters of Lake Erie and the Ohio river at Pittsburgh. Such a canal would tap the ore fields of the northwest, the coal fields of Pennsylvania, and the coal fields of Pennsylvania, within reach of all the consumers of the northwest. It would mean millions by way of cheaper freights. Such a canal has a number of times been pronounced feasible by engineers of the highest repute. In short, a matter of national importance. It is not feasible, however, that amid the multiplicity of schemes for national canals any aid could be expected from congress toward its construction. Congress, however, can, under the interstate commerce clause of the Constitution, and the decisions of the supreme court, charter a company to construct it. Prominent citizens have advocated the use of their names as promoters, and I hope at the next session of congress to secure passage of a bill incorporating the Ohio river and Lake Erie Canal Company. If private enterprise is willing to undertake a work of such national importance, it is impossible of belief that congress will refuse its aid when the same can be secured without cost to the treasury.

In the universal progress that has characterized us as a people we think that of the city of Pittsburgh has been phenomenal. With such improved transportation facilities as it is entitled to her progress will be no less phenomenal still. I perceive the day when into her lap an extended commerce shall pour with lavish hand the wealth of many climes, when accessible from all the sources of supply the products of field, forest and mine shall be brought to test the magic of her industry, and re-created, shall go forth to minister to the needs, the tastes and the pleasures of an advancing civilization.

The comfort shall be here, let us hope, of a city where all that science can contribute to life and health shall find practical illustration, where education, art and literature shall abound, and where her men and women shall be worthy of their environment, pledges of a still more glorious future.

COL. VANCE'S WELCOME.

The duty assigned last evening to Col. John L. Vance, president of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, was the extending of a welcome on behalf of this association to Chairman Burton and his fellow-members of the committee, and this he gave "most heartily, not alone in behalf of the association, but from all the people who live in the Ohio valley, and for those residing along the banks and in the valleys of the tributaries of the Ohio—the Monongahela, Allegheny, Beaver, Muskingum, Little Kanawha, Big Kanawha, Big Sandy, Licking, Kentucky, Salt, Green, Cumberland, Tennessee and Wabash. The welcome to this valley comes from all parts of the Ohio river system, with its 4,400 miles of navigable water." Continuing Col. Vance said:

The millions of people who are embraced within the borders of the states we shall visit on this trip, and the other millions who live in contiguous states, are united in demanding the most liberal appropriation for the improvement of the rivers and the harbors of our country, knowing as they do, that the solution of the question of transportation is the most important one depending upon the lawmakers of our country.

To the city of Pittsburgh I desire to return thanks for the magnificent reception and entertainment given our honored guests. This imperial city of progress, the greatest manufacturing center in the world—is always equal to every emergency.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN DALZELL.

Who was never more eloquent in depicting the glories and greatness of Pittsburgh than he was last night.

stupendous importance of the cities of the country as factors in our civilization becomes apparent and in some respects appalling.

Of all these cities, small and great, I know of none the history and character of which are fuller of instructive lessons and certainly none that I can with more propriety speak of in this presence than Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh furnishes a subject rich in suggestion from many and varying points of view. If I deal with it from a material standpoint, it will not be because there are not intellectual and normal aspects even more interesting. What community wherein a private citizen has founded as Andrew Carnegie has, institutions devoted to practical education, to science and the liberal arts, free to all the people, at the cost of many millions, and where other generous benefactors, like Henry Phipps, have moved in the same direction, need not be ashamed to boast of its claims to intellectual and moral eminence or anticipate their disallowance.

And if passing by these inviting themes I should cast a look backward to the beginnings of our municipality, I fear I should be tempted to neglect the present for the allurements of a singularly romantic past. There has never been a time since civilization unfurled its banner west of the Alleghenies, when Pittsburgh has not been a place of commanding importance.

All County Is Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, as legally bounded, is no more the real Pittsburgh than is the London of legal definition the real London that dominates England. All Allegheny county and no little territory beyond is Pittsburgh, whether so denominated by law or not, and so in any consideration of this community's relations to the outside world, it must be regarded. Its relation to the nation is virtually that of a great manufacturing center, and as such it illustrates the highest and best development of our modern industrial system. There is nowhere else a richer field for the practical study of economic questions, but into that I must not enter lest I be led into possible controversy, and that I would avoid.

Wealth in manufactures demands two things: facility of supply and of distribution—raw material in other words and transportation. I use the term raw material, of course, in its ordinary acceptation, not intending to discount the value of human labor; with respect to both, Pittsburgh's advantages are great and yet they may be made greater. That such as they are they have been made the most of, is apparent from results.

We are producers among other things, of coal and coke, iron, steel, glass in all its forms, copper, silver, lead, brass and tin plate. We make one-fourth of the iron and one-third of the steel of the United States, and over 60 per cent of the total production of the structural shapes. I have not at hand the figures for our glass industry, which is very large. We have the largest cork factory in the world, and I must not omit to state that we have probably the largest pickle establishment. We are large manufacturers of tobacco. The presence in our midst of an iron exchange, a coal exchange, grain, brokers' and stock exchange point significantly to the variety and extent of our industries.

Figures for the year 1902 show a total movement of coal in the Pittsburgh district of nearly 20,000,000 tons. According to statistics very carefully gathered, Pittsburgh tonnage last year was 82,000,000. It exceeded the aggregate combined tonnage of New York, London, Liverpool, Hamburg and Antwerp. According to the last report of the chief engineers, our Ohio river tonnage exceeds 22,000,000. No other city, large or small on this continent or any other can make such a relative showing as this.

Many Kinds of Manufactures.

But the mere enumeration of the products of our industry will hardly convey any idea of its variety. It is necessary to stop and think of the multitudinous forms assumed in our various manufactures. We make steel small as a needle, pliant as a Damascus blade, and ponderous as the armor that protects the cruiser that carries our flag and defends our national honor.

Pittsburgh bridges span streams in many and widely separated climes. Pittsburgh electrical appliances keep abreast of the times in that marvelously advancing science. It is not an exaggeration to say that in this field England has been captured by Americans with George Westinghouse at its head.

Pittsburgh locomotives shriek along the valleys of South and Central America, in Asia, and the Islands of the sea, drawing trains equipped with Pittsburgh couplers and Pittsburgh Airbrakes. I am not attempting a catalogue. I mean only to be suggestive.

Consider now for a moment the raw materials of all these manufactures, the coal, the coke, the limestone, the sand, the thousand and one things incapable of mention, and that these have to be brought here from the place of their production; consider that the manufactured product has to be carried to market and you will appreciate the fact that Pittsburgh's greatness in the present and Pittsburgh's destiny in the future is to a very large extent a question of transportation facilities.

Manufacturing supremacy means cheap freight from the mines to the furnaces, and from the factory to the mart, and by as much as you cheapen either, by so much do you add to the ordinariness of that supremacy. Pittsburgh's possibilities as to raw materials and as to market for her finished products with adequate transportation facilities—who can measure them?

Trace the windings of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and you will find that in their journey to the sea they wash the banks of 14 great states. And these states are the seat of future empire. Their possibilities as to population and production are immeasurable. Nothing but a narrow and illiberal government policy can postpone the coming of the day when the richest of these valleys shall furnish a large home market and shall find remunerative sale for surplus products in foreign markets.

Hasten, then to the conclusion of this whole matter. Pittsburgh's case in the nation is that of a city with interests of such importance as to deserve such national care as shall make real all the advantages that nature made it possible for her to have. We need improved water ways and we need new water ways. With respect to the latter we shall have to rely upon private capital, but with respect to the former something is due to us by the government for the reason that without its aid we cannot well have them.

An Important Problem.

I know of no subject more reserving the attention of an enlightened statesmanship than that relating to such internal improvement as shall make the Ohio river the great highway that it is capable of becoming.

The last river and harbor bill extends Pittsburgh harbor to the mouth of the Beaver; provides for a survey for a nine-foot channel to the Mississippi and I see in it at least an implied, if not an express pledge of government policy in favor of what Pittsburgh wants.

Recent events have given to the improvement of the Ohio a new significance. Thanks to a wise American diplomacy and to the patriotic action of congress, we are at last on the way to realize the dream of the centuries in the possession of an isthmian canal to be constructed by American capital and to be exclusively under American control.

Is there anything extravagant in the conception of Pacific and oriental markets for the products of the factories, the mines and the fields of Pittsburgh and the Ohio and

WOMAN TELLS OF HUSBAND'S DEATH

Mrs. Annie Mickel Relates Story of Family Quarrel Which Led to the Tragedy.

INQUEST IS SET FOR TODAY

After telling the Allegheny police several conflicting stories of the family quarrel which led to the tragic death of Harry J. Mickel, the traction conductor, who was found dead at the family home, 760 Cedar avenue, Allegheny, with a bullet through his head, last Friday evening, Mrs. Annie Mickel, the widow of the dead man, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, made a statement to Acting Superintendent of Police Glenn, in which she told of the quarrel, her husband's death and her attempt to kill herself.

Mrs. Mickel has been in charge of the matron at Allegheny Central police station since she was discharged Monday afternoon from the Allegheny General hospital, where she was taken last Friday, suffering from wood alcohol, which she had taken to kill herself after her husband's death. After Mrs. Mickel told the story of the tragedy Coroner Armstrong was notified, and he set the inquest into the death of Mickel for 11 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Mickel was kept at the police station last night and today will be taken to the coroner's office for the inquest.

Beaten by Her Husband.

In her statement to Glenn Mrs. Mickel says her husband beat her severely when he returned to his home, on the afternoon of his death. She says her husband went home about 1:30 p. m. Friday, and she met him in the hall. He went into the room, where he met his death, and bolted the door. Mrs. Mickel says she hammered on the door and her husband finally opened it and let her in the room. As he did so he exclaimed, "I'll give you a d——d good beating," and grasped her by the hair and struck her in the face and on the arm. Mrs. Mickel says she screamed and her husband struck her again. She broke away from him and escaped from the room, running into the hall, and called for somebody to get an officer.

Mrs. Mickel then says she went back into the room and her husband grasped her again and tore her waist. He then got a hammer from a closet and went to her new trunk, but she told him not to touch it. Mickel broke the trunk open and his wife wrested the hammer from his grasp. She says he opened the trunk and then arose and struck her, and threw her upon the bed. She then jumped from the bed and struck him with the hammer, which he took from her and threw into the open trunk and then struck her again. She says her husband then ran to the trunk and cursing her grabbed the revolver in the trunk.

How Mickel Met His Death.

When he did this, Mrs. Mickel says, she ran and grabbed the revolver and a tussle with her husband followed, and when they reached a rocking chair she had gained possession of the revolver. She says he then struck her on the jaw with his fist and sat down in the chair. Mrs. Mickel says she had the revolver in her hand and stepped or staggered back and the revolver exploded. Mickel said "Oh," and fell out of the chair to the floor on his right side.

When the dead body of Mickel was found he had the revolver in his right hand, and when asked to explain this Mrs. Mickel replied:

"I don't know, but I suppose I put it there, as the door was locked and no one else was in the room."

Mrs. Mickel says she must have fainted, for when she revived she was lying on the floor beside her husband's body. She says she arose and on examining her husband found he was dead. Mrs. Mickel told Glenn she took the wood alcohol after she found Mickel was dead, because he had told her that if anything happened to him she must kill herself, as he did not want any one to have her, he was so jealous. She says she then drank a glass of the alcohol, which she kept in the house to clean her husband's clothes.

Mrs. Mickel says she wrote the letter to Alice Woomer and then took another glass of the alcohol and went down stairs to Mrs. Rayburn's room. Mrs. Mickel told Glenn she could not remember any more of the details, as her head had been so bad since the tragedy, but she said she feels all right now.

Marks on the woman show that she had had a struggle, as there is still a big scratch on the back of her right hand, a bruise on the left cheek, and a bruise on the right arm. Mrs. Mickel said they never had any trouble until after her husband went to work on the traction line.

SHOPLIFTER IS SENTENCED.

Charles Greaves Is Found Guilty—Bail of Annie Kelly Is Declared Forfeited.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 9.—(Special.)—Charles Greaves, alias Charles Goodman of Chicago, was convicted today in the Washington criminal court on a charge of shoplifting, and was sentenced by Judge J. F. Taylor to three years in the penitentiary with a $800 fine. Greaves and two female companions, Annie Price and Annie Kelly, alias Hannah Gregg, were arrested here more than a year ago. They gave bail and never appeared for trial. A few months ago Greaves and the Kelly woman were arrested in Chicago and brought here.

The Kelly woman secured bail and when her case was called for trial yesterday failed to put in an appearance. As a result her bail for $2,000 was declared forfeited. She is now said to be in Chicago and affidavits were produced in court declaring that she was ill. These affidavits failed, however, to secure a continuance of her case. Strenuous efforts are being made to secure her as well as Annie Price, who is still a fugitive.

PAY MORE THAN IT'S WORTH NOW

Friendship Avenue High School Site Will Be an Expensive Athletic Field.

CENTRAL BOARD SO DECIDES

The central board of education's failure as a real estate dealer was exposed last night during a lively discussion over the Friendship avenue high school site. As a result of the discussion the board decided to use the costly property as an athletic field for the High school students, thus taking the property out of the competition for High school purposes.

The Friendship avenue site was bought a few years ago for $117,000, and last night somebody at the central board's meeting disclosed the fact that the best offer ever received for the property was $77,000, and even that price cannot be secured now. An athletic field costing $117,000 is possessed by no other city. However, it is understood that those members of the board who were instrumental in buying the ground, now assert that in valuing their bargain as a field for athletics it is not fair to take the price they paid for it, but that one ought to take the price they can get for it. At any rate, the site is now taken out of the list of possible locations for a new high school, although it was bought for a high school site.

The matter was sprung on the board by William McGarey, who offered a resolution authorizing the committee on athletics to build a new fence around the property, rebuild the grandstand and rearrange the ground, transferring $4,000 from the High school permanent improvement fund to pay the expenses incurred.

John H. McIlroy emphatically objected to spending the city's money for such a purpose. He said the ground might possibly be traded in procuring a new site for the high school. W. T. Easton moved that action be postponed until the next meeting. That was the signal for a salvo of motions, and the president, D. L. Gillespie, permitting a wide range of discussion, the old question of high school sites was threshed over again, with the usual display of feeling incident to these occasions. John T. Fox moved that the matter be referred to the finance committee, George W. Gosser that the land be withdrawn from the market, S. C. Jamison that it be sold. Finally Jamison's other motion, to keep the property and spend $4,000 in improving it, was adopted by a vote of 24 ayes to 5 noes. President Gillespie giving his opinion that the adoption of the motion would not prevent the board from at any time voting to sell the property or to build on it. Easton, McIlroy, McKain, Roth, Sellers and Shaw voted in the negative.

A new fence, grandstand and dressing rooms will be built, and all the ground up to Friendship avenue taken in.

The plan of creating a system of cadet teachers, presented by the committee on teachers and salaries, was laid over for a month, so that copies of the plan can be sent to all the members of the central and local boards. The report of the committee on text books was approved. It leaves the books as they are in the sub-district schools and makes three changes in the High school list.

George Piandeck, of Homestead, was relieved of a satchel containing $600 and other articles at a late hour Monday evening. Piandeck, who formerly lived at Hays borough, had returned from Hungary, where he sold some property and had the proceeds of the sale in his valise. Arriving in Homestead he was tired and willingly paid $1 to a man who offered to carry the heavy grip for that sum.

The stranger disappeared, and Piandeck waited until the sun rose for him to appear, and then reported his loss to the police. The money was in four $100 bills and ten $20 bills.

PRESIDENT WILL HEAR BOTH SIDES

Mr. Roosevelt Agrees to Confer With Committees from Strikers and Employes.

STRUGGLE MAY BE WIDENED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, May 9.—President Roosevelt will hear both sides in the strike controversy tomorrow. Arrangements were made late this afternoon for a conference with the labor officials shortly after they had decided to send a committee to Clinton, Ia., to meet the president.

Postoffice Inspector Sutton called at labor headquarters today and informed President Charles Dodd and Secretary Edward N. Nockels that it was the wish of the president that no committees should meet him while en route to Chicago, and that the reception committees had arranged to meet the chief executive in the Northwestern railroad station.

The union labor committee has prepared an extensive document, covering the reasons for calling the strikes of garment workers and teamsters. It is a plain recital of facts. The text of the document will not be given to the public until after its presentation to the president. A committee of the Employers' association will also confer with the president.

The large department stores and the express companies today resumed business on almost a normal basis. Sixteen hundred teams were at work today and the number will be increased tomorrow.

Notwithstanding this apparent gain, there are strong indications tonight that the strike will spread within the next few days, not only among the teamsters, but among other unions as well. The drivers of the Whiting Teaming Company went out today, when one of their number was discharged for refusing to deliver flour to a boycotted house.

There were numerous clashes in the streets today. Also a number of attacks on non-union men by workmen in buildings, who pelted them with all sorts of missiles from a safe distance.

The taking of evidence relative to the granting of the injunctions issued temporarily by the United States circuit court in favor of the Employers' association and the seven express companies, commenced today before Master in Chancery Sherman.

H. B. Eddy, general agent of the United States Express Company, held the stand until the final adjournment. He said:

"After the commencement of the strike against the express companies, I held a meeting with Cornelius P. Shea, president of the Teamsters' union; J. B. Barry and Hugh McGee of the Teamsters' union. Mr. Barry suggested that inasmuch as only 37 men had voted for a strike out of the 700 involved, it would be well to call another meeting and have a referendum vote on the proposition to strike. Shea said notices were sent to all members and inasmuch as they had failed, with the exception of 37, to attend the meeting, the vote of the majority of those present was sufficient to call a strike, and the leaders must be guided by that vote.

"When the strike commenced, some of our drivers assured me," said Mr. Eddy, "they were willing to work, but would have their heads knocked off if they did so. The only union men who are still working for us are two who drive wagons containing the government money. They are working by permission of the union."

Attorney Le Boskey, who appeared for the unions, said:

"I object to the remark 'by permission.'"

"Well," said Mr. Eddy, "I saw the cards signed by the union officials giving these men permission to handle the money, and I heard that if the government was interfered with the union feared federal troops." He said that at least 40 men have been arrested in the last two days who have violated the federal injunctions.

"Why do you arm the men on your wagons?" he was asked.

"Because they are assaulted, shot and they must have some means for protecting themselves and the company's property."

The attorneys for the defense attempted to show in the cross-examination, that many of the assaults credited to strikers might have been perpetrated by robbers or other persons, and that many of the street blockades might have occurred at any time. Mr. Eddy will resume the stand in the morning.

TWO GOLDEN WEDDINGS.

Lawrenceville and Millvale Couples Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. George Huber, well-known residents of Lawrenceville, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, with their descendants and friends, at St. Augustine's Catholic church, Lawrenceville, this morning. The Rev. Father Anthony will celebrate the mass. After the services a dinner will be held at the home of Mr. Huber's son-in-law, Conrad Kleinfelder, 3918 Howley street. Mr. Huber is 71 and his wife is 67 years old. The couple had 13 children and 10 are still living.

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hagan was celebrated yesterday at their home in Lincoln avenue, Millvale, with a dinner and reception, at which relatives and friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Hagan have lived in Millvale since 1884. The marriage ceremony was repeated at 5 o'clock last evening. Besides seven grandchildren, the following children were present: Mrs. Anna Wible, W. C. Hagan, Allen H. Hagan, Mrs. Ada Vandevordt, Mrs. Robert Austen, Thomas and Clarence Hagan.

CENSURE CAUSES ACTION.

McKeesport Councils Will Demand Safety Gates at All Crossings.

As a result of a warning issued by a coroner's jury and the critics of Coroner Joseph Armstrong, a bill has been introduced into McKeesport councils for the erection of safety gates at every crossing in that city. The railroads entering McKeesport have gates at few crossings at present. The bill will go before the railroad committee next week, and will be hurried through councils.

The death of Joseph Meadwell at the Twelfth avenue crossing of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad two weeks ago, caused the jury at the inquest to censure the councils of McKeesport for not using every means to protect lives at railroad crossings.

MUST GET RID OF WARRING RIVALS

Informal Conference of Equitable Directors Is Agreed on This Point.

BANKER SIMMONS SUGGESTED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, May 9.

One result of the "informal conference" of the directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society was the decision that there can be only one way of settling the present difficulties in the society, and that is by getting rid of both the Alexander and Hyde interests.

So far as James Hazen Hyde is concerned, there is no intention on his part of relinquishing his stockholders' control of the society, and James W. Alexander will not resign, neither will Gage E. Tarbell. On the other hand, it is the first belief of those who have the interests of the Equitable at heart that both Mr. Alexander and Mr. Hyde must retire if the society is to rehabilitated in the estimation of the public and its policyholders.

In order to satisfy all factions, there is no question but that efforts are being made to select a man as the president of the Equitable who will be able to bring together the warring factions. Overtures have been made to J. Edward Simmons, president of the Fourth National bank. Mr. Simmons has been president of the stock exchange, and for 40 years has been identified with Wall street.

Mr. Simmons today refused to say whether he had been asked to accept the presidency of the Equitable. It is known, however, that Mr. Simmons comes nearer to filling the bill than any one who has been under consideration. He is not a director of a trust or any other company controlled by any of the three big insurance companies of the city, and is acceptable to both the Alexander and Hyde factions.

It is a grave question whether the board of directors of the Equitable can ask for the resignations of Alexander or Tarbell unless there be charges which would warrant such action. If the Frick investigation committee reports that the Equitable's financial affairs have been conducted in a perfectly lawful and legitimate manner, there will be no reason, it is said, for supplanting Messrs. Alexander and Tarbell.

United States Senator Depew and other prominent members of the board of directors of the Equitable visited the Equitable building today and conferred with Henry C. Frick and Messrs. Hyde and Alexander.

The reply of President Alexander to the complaint of Vice President Hyde that Mr. Alexander had not sufficiently considered the interests of the Hyde stock of which Mr. Alexander has been trustee, was made in a brief filed in the New York state supreme court in Brooklyn today. The paper was filed by counsel for the Equitable society as defendant in the suit of Franklin B. Lord to prevent the mutualization of the society, and denies Mr. Hyde's charges.

The directors of the Equitable were all being served today with the summons in the suit brought by Senator Edgar T. Brackett, in Saratoga Springs, on behalf of Mary S. Young, who sues as a policyholder and stockholder, for an accounting by all the directors of the Equitable.

CELEBRATE SCHILLER DAY.

Germans Hold Exercises Throughout Their Country—Wreaths Are Placed on His Bier.

BERLIN, May 9.—The Schiller centenary was celebrated today throughout Germany with public meetings, the tolling of bells, theatrical performances and musical entertainments. All the universities and other institutions down to the public schools observed the day.

The more interesting ceremonies occurred at Weimar, where the students of all the universities, technical institutes and mining academies assembled and marched in procession to the grand ducal vault, where they deposited a wreath on Schiller's bier. Reports reached Berlin that the day was celebrated similarly in Switzerland, Austria and the Scandinavian countries.

CENTRAL LUTHER LEAGUE MEETS AT ROCHESTER, PA.

Speakers from Pittsburgh and Allegheny Are Among Those Who Discuss Papers.

NOT SENT BY VATICAN.

Statement Issued Concerning the Mission of Polish Archbishop to United States.

ROME, May 9.—The Vatican has issued a communication stating that the mission of the Rt. Rev. Francis Albin Symon, titular archbishop of Attalia to the United States, is not from the holy see.

Archbishop Symon, it is stated, is coming to the United States to investigate the condition of the Polish Catholics in this country. The errand was undertaken as the result of the desire of the Polish Catholics to have priests of their own nationality elevated to places in the American hierarchy. The plan has been combatted by the English-speaking bishops.

Mrs. Noodle—My dear Mrs. Wiseman, really you are charming. Ten years younger than when I saw you last, and your children so hearty and happy. How do you manage it?

Mrs. Wiseman—Easiest thing on earth, my dear. You see Mr. Wiseman is so wise——

Mrs. Noodle—(doubtfully) — Em? Y-e-s.

Mrs. Wiseman—Well, after some investigation he came to the conclusion that it's the germs and bacteria that cause most of the ills that flesh is heir to, so he just went to the drug store and bought a bottle of Creolol.

Mrs. Noodle—Creo—what?

Mrs. Wiseman — C-R-E-O-L-O-L, Creolol. That is the great germicide and disinfectant, you know.

Mrs. Noodle—The same as they use in hospitals?

Mrs. Wiseman—Identically. Well, we sprayed it on the curtains and carpets and into every dark, damp, or dusty place from cellar to garret, and it is so cleansing and purifying, you know.

Mrs. Noodle—Where can I get some?

Mrs. Wiseman—At most any first class drug store or direct from the company, 1821 Bessemer Building.

Mrs. Noodle—Good.

Those we offer today are fine French Flowers, some of linen, some of silk and velvet and foliage of all velvet. Not a half a dozen styles, but hundreds of styles—at least a dozen different kinds of roses from the very large single rose for polo turbans to the bunches of tiny buds—about every flower, in fact, known to Nature and to millinery—not flowers alone, for there are fruits, grasses, foliage, hops, and everything that art can borrow from the kingdom of flora for the adornment of women's millinery.

White Chiffon Roses, with inside petals of velvet.
Bunches of Red Cherries with foliage.
Bunches of different sorts of Grasses and Wheat.
Large sprays of Hops in Nature's greens and yellows.
Handsome Silk Poppies with frosted green foliage.
Very large bunches of tiny Moss Rosebuds with foliage.
Immense bunches of pale green, downy Haws.
Long sprays of Carnations, of chiffon and velvet, different colors.
Beautiful white Chrysanthemums that look as if they came from Japan, two full blown blossoms and bud.
Bunches of Locust Blossoms—one bunch enough for a hat.
Wreaths of wild roses with foliage.
Velvet foliage in French blue.
Hyacinths in varous shades.

Many of the above are in various colors, so there will be no trouble in selecting something to harmonize with any piece of millinery.

These will be on sale today not only in the third floor Millinery Store, but in the new downstairs branch, West Store, which was once the home of Art Needlework.

Two Very Handsome Offers in Black Dress Goods.

If you asked us, from our experience, to tell you which was the most popular black dress goods, we would hesitate between broadcloth and voile. Each have thousands upon thousands of admirers. Therefore we count ourselves singularly fortunate in being able to make the two offers following—

$1.65 a Yard, Regular Value $2.25—

Fine Imported Black Chiffon Broadcloth. This is the weight that is in such high favor for the full pleated skirts which are so much worn at present. It is a rich jet black with a high lustrous finish.

50c a Yard, Regular Value $1.00—

This Voile was imported from France—a fine, even weave in medium weight, the crisp sort that retains the appearance of newness until it is almost gone. We got it for about half the usual cost, therefore we name the retail price about half usual.

Wednesday, May 10, 1905.

Judge Frazer's delineation of the duties of police officers, delivered in open court yesterday, was timely. He presented clearly the legal standing of such officers, their duty to the public and their duty to their prisoners, together with the proper limitations imposed upon their authority. It is not to be supposed that policemen shall be learned in the law, but it may reasonably be expected that when judges on the bench expound the laws, as they apply to peace officers, that every officer should note the advice and govern himself accordingly.

Mayor Dunne, who has appeared unwilling to admit the inadequacy of his police force to cope with the situation growing out of the teamsters' strike at Chicago, has, at last, shown signs of weakening. He has notified the strike leaders that unless rioting ceases, he will request the governor to send troops into the city. This notice is a rather pointed intimation that Mayor Dunne believes the labor leaders might be able to stop the acts of violence if they desired, but it is more to the point in promising that conditions which have prevailed shall not be allowed to continue. The mayor has not turned to the thought of calling for troops too soon.

Important decisions have recently been rendered by the federal courts in Chicago and Cleveland on questions involving municipal ownership of street railways and now comes another decision in Chicago, which is a step toward public control. Judge Grosscup has refused the injunction asked for by the Union Traction Company to prevent the city from appropriating the Adams street lines, thus deciding that the franchises there have expired. This will give the city a route on which to operate a short line—provided the higher court sustains the decision. It is doubtful, however, whether operation of this line will serve to test the Chicago idea.

It is said that one of the motives which influenced the nomination of Col. Thomas B. Davis as the Democratic candidate for congress in the Second West Virginia district was that it would neutralize Senator Elkins' influence, as Col. Davis is a brother of Henry G. Davis, who is father-in-law to Mr. Elkins. The same theory was aired when Henry G. Davis himself was nominated on the Democratic national ticket, but results did not reveal any perceptible effect. Barnum once advertised all over the country that he had no sons-in-law in the show business. It is pretty safe to say that Senator Elkins has no father-in-law in politics, however close and cordial their relations in private life.

Gov. Pennypacker filed two wholesome vetoes yesterday, those of the bills proposing regulation of employment agencies and the taking of carp by means of the spear. He pointed out that the first would tend more to hamper than to protect those in search of needed employment, while it would do positive injury to poor but worthy persons, eking out small incomes by aiding others to secure places. In vetoing the fish bill the governor displayed his rare sense of humor by noting that if the wrong fish should be taken by mistake it could not be restored after being speared. There are, indeed, many acts of legislature ill-considered and immaturely thrust upon the executive.

Japan's protests have had the effect of causing an announcement from Paris that vigorous orders have been issued for the protection of French neutrality. The statement includes the information that Rojestvensky and Nebogatoff will not be permitted to join forces in French waters. The French action and the French explanation are a little tardy, but may prove satisfactory. It is not easy to see, however, that Russia can be injured by this late perception of the injustice of permitting Russian craft to harbor under French jurisdiction. France has not been as neutral as Japan might reasonably have expected it to be, the Russian alliance notwithstanding.

Our Honored Guests.

Pittsburgh has done its full duty in the matter of enlightening the visiting members of congress who constituted the majority of the committee, on rivers and harbors during the past two years. Though the excursion that was not run on Monday would have given them an intimate view of some of the greatest industrial plants in the world, the excursions of yesterday did give them a glimpse of the mills and furnaces that have made Pittsburgh great beyond comparison. It gave them oportunity to note a part of the mines that lie at the base of the greatest tonnage production in the world and which now furnish directly the largest single item in a river traffic which Mr. Dalzell quotes from the government engineers as aggregating 22,000,000 tons.

At the banquet of last evening the significance of what had been seen during the day was explained. Congressman Dalzell gave a most graphic account of the interests dependent upon Ohio river improvement, with a timely reference to the Lake Erie canal. Congressman Burke eloquently formulated the request of Pittsburgh and the Ohio valley for consideration. Former Congressman Brown illuminated the interest that Pittsburgh has this project and all of them made clear the fact that Pittsburgh is not interested for itself alone and that it is not alone in interest or advantage.

Members of the committee, in reply, gave assurances of their distinguished consideration, though naturally not committing themselves to specific measures. This, however, is satisfactory. Pittsburgh desires only that these gentlemen shall be fully informed and that they shall carefully weigh the information and act accordingly.

Today the committee will start on the trip down the river, fraught with so much of importance to the great population of the Ohio valley. The members will begin to see for themselves this great natural highway of commerce and its possibilities. It was stated yesterday that all other important rivers of the country have been personally inspected by members of the committee. They have apparently left the greatest for the last. It cannot be doubted their personal inspection will be wholly convincing as to the wisdom of giving liberal treatment to this stream which occupies a position of such vast importance in relation to the Panama canal and the future supremacy of America in the markets of the world. They cannot fail to see that the large tonnage now carried by the Ohio is but a suggestion of the traffic that must develop when the river is improved.

Tariff Raising.

Senator Burrows of Michigan, who is on the senate finance committee, has been classed as a stand-patter, but he is now in favor of some tariff legislation, so that stand-pat no longer exactly defines his position. To distinguish it from tariff revision it may be described as tariff raising, but that should not be taken to mean that he necessarily favors a general raising of duties, but rather that he favors raising the tariff by putting another story upon the structure. "One thing this country needs," he said in a recent interview, "is a maximum and minimum tariff for self-protection."

The necessity of this sort of tariff raising has been brought upon this country by what other countries are doing. They have been putting an upper story upon their tariffs, into which the commerce of other nations can enter only by special agreement. As the United States has no upper story privileges to offer it is shut out of corresponding privileges. Our commerce must stay downstairs where the maximum schedule prevails, and be thus at a disadvantage with upstairs competitors. In our present relations with France we are put underneath several other nations in this way, but in the great volume of our commerce the effect has not been noticeable enough to cause much agitation. When the new German tariff gets into operation then we shall be down and out in a way that will hurt. At present Germany gets more merchandise from the United States than from any other country, $216,841,800 in 1904, the second on the list as a source of merchandise imported into Germany being Russia with $184,116,800. That would be a big parcel of trade for us to lose, and it seems certain that much of it may be transferred to other countries.

Under treaties dating back to 1828 the trade relations between this country and Germany have been governed by the provision that "if either party shall hereafter grant to any other nation any particular favor in navigation or commerce, it shall immediately become common to the other party." This lets in our products upon the same basis as those of Russia, Austria or any other nation, and that is all we desire—a fair field and no favor. But in its new tariff Germany has provided maximum and minimum schedules, and admission to the latter can be obtained only by special agreement. Such special agreements have been negotiated with Italy, Belgium, Roumania, Switzerland, Servia, Austria-Hungary and Russia. The German government holds that these special agreements have nothing to do with the most favored-nation clause, which remains intact as regards the general tariff. If we complain of the discriminations we suffer for lack of the upper story privileges Germany expresses perfect willingness to enter into arrangements with us for those too. How great a difference it will make to us the case of our trade in apples furnishes a good instance. We have sent as much as 17,000 tons a year. Under the new tariff the duty will be $2 38 per 100 kilograms; the seven nations with the upper story privileges will pay just one-half. And so it runs through a long list, which seems to have been expressly made up to reach the principal exports of this country.

These new arrangements take effect in March, 1906. The question—what are we going to do about it?—will be hard up against congress at its next session. It looks like a case for tariff raising. If we put an upper story on our own tariff Germany will have to consider the value of its privileges in the interest of her own export trade, as in 1904 she marketed goods in this country to the value of $106,909,600.

An Unusual Proceeding.

It is so very unusual that a subpoena must be asked for to secure the attendance of a prosecutor at a hearing of his case that comment is necessary. Some days ago reference was made in these columns to the filing of libel suits at Butler against The Gazette and another Pittsburgh paper by a person unknown to either. When the same prosecutor filed another suit bail was given for a hearing yesterday. The Gazette men were present, but the prosecutor was not, and the hearing was postponed. To insure the presence of the prosecutor, if possible. The Gazette representatives asked for a subpoena to compel his attendance.

In this proceeding The Gazette has surely indicated its willingness to go on with the trial of the cause. In as far as it has been informed the complaints are made against its publication of judicial proceedings. It does not believe such publication, without malice, can be construed as libellous under the law and is anxious to go to trial. Under the circumstances it cannot refrain from wonder that the prosecutor did not appear in his proper person to show cause and to explain in what manner he has been injured, or who may have been injured in whose behalf he complains.

President Roosevelt's Speech.

President Roosevelt's speech at Denver abates nothing of his demand for "a square deal for every man, no more and no less." He stands pat on regulation and control of the highways of commerce, operated by corporations. He has no apologies to offer for the policy of his administration in dealing with the great corporations doing interstate business. He opines the Panama canal will have an effect in curing some present inequalities. Thus he deals with concrete subjects.

In the abstract the president's speech concluded with a broad declaration of the principle that government must be maintained to secure universal human rights. Every ancient republic fell, he said, either because the poor plundered the rich, or because the rich exploited the poor. Always it was one class against the other. This republic has hope for continuance because there is not, and shall not be, any classes. In the eyes of the law wealth or station is not recognized in this country, and as long as Roosevelt is president, at least, the best effort of the administration will be devoted to maintaining that equality. Beyond President Roosevelt the trust is in the hands of the people, as it was before his time, and the people have kept it inviolate. There have been clashes between capital and labor. The law has never been on the side of either, but always on the side of justice. There must never be war in this country between wealth and poverty.

The True Issue Came Up.

Details of the "informal conference" of Equitable directors show that it was a fizzle so far as the purpose of getting rid of President Alexander was concerned, but the true issue in this controversy bobbed up quite unexpectedly. As the leader of the movement to end the personal proprietary control of the Equitable society's assets, Mr. Alexander has naturally made himself obnoxious to the distinguished Wall street financiers who participate in that control by the favor of Mr. Hyde. It may be that eventually a change in the presidency may be made to the advantage of the society, but the most important question to be decided is whether the policy-holders or dummy directors shall control the assets.

This question was intruded upon the conference by the appearance of a process-server in the suit of Mary S. Young of Saratoga by State Senator Brackett to compel the Equitable directors to account for the society's funds. In that suit Senator Brackett has made every one of the 50 directors a defendant, and this information caused the personal responsibility of directors to become the chief subject of discussion. This is the matter which chiefly interests the policy-holders and the public, and it is gratifying to learn that it came up at the conference, even if it was by accident.

Roy Knabenshue, navigator of the Baldwin airship, is having one of his own built at his home in Toledo. If he is as successful as a builder as he has been as a navigator, the public may soon expect to see practical aerial navigation.

President Roosevelt has not changed his mind about the regulation of railroad rates, and Mr. Bacon has not been convinced by arguments of the managers.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 9.—With the exception of Bishop Potter of the Protestant Episcopal church, who declined to discuss the subject, clergymen throughout the city of every denomination today gave unqualified expression of their commendation of the new laws which have passed the legislature at Albany and now await the signature of Gov. Higgins, so restricting the operation of Raines law hotels in this city as to minimize the evils growing out of those establishments. The Rev. Robert Stuart MacArthur, pastor of Cavalry Baptist church, was emphatic in his outspoken approval of the restrictions which the new laws are designed to accomplish.

"I am not entirely familiar with the full purport of the bills," said Dr. MacArthur, "but their object I believe to be quite commendable. The Raines law hotel is and has been a menace to every moral interest of the community, and while loopholes will undoubtedly be found by those adversely affected by the new laws, as is always the case with legislation of every kind, these laws should inaugurate needed reforms."

The priests of the Paulist church, Columbus avenue and Sixtieth street, who have been active in the past in combating sources of immorality in their parish, have followed the progress of the present legislation at Albany with keen interest. Father John Hughes, the assistant superior of the order, became very grave when he was asked for his opinion upon this subject, and his voice saddened as he referred to the fact that, prior to the establishment of Raines law hotels, the spectacle of a woman entering a saloon was quite uncommon, but that within recent years the so-called hotels had caused the life wreck of numberless girls and women who had been deceived by the pretexts afforded in the separate rooms reserved for dining and drinking.

About police headquarters the "rumor committee" was busy with matters relative to the "great schedule of changes," said to have been made up by Commissioner McAdoo a month ago and so carefully guarded by him that today no one can authoritatively speak regarding its nature. It has been laid down by the "rumor committee" that the great "jolt" given to the committee of nine bill in Albany has upset some of the intended moves on the commissioner's chess board and that a most unexpected result will be the checkmating of Acting Inspector Stephen O'Brien, chief of the detective bureau. Gloom has settled over the inner offices of this bureau, but in the outer rooms joy is unconfined, the rank and file declaring that they are safe for another year. Commissioner McAdoo's intention to reconstruct the entire police department will be materially modified in view of the failure to obtain the desired legislation.

Filching a Patent Called Larceny.

Holding that a patent is property of value within the meaning of the penal code, Magistrate Pool in the Yorkville court today refused to discharge Silas I. Atwater, and paroled him in custody of his lawyer until tomorrow, when counsel for each side will submit briefs. Atwater is accused by Charles B. Harris with grand larceny. Harris asserts he is the inventor of a process for making artificial fuel. Atwater is vice president of a fuel company of which George A. Crocker, a California millionaire, is president. According to Harris, Atwater agreed to sell his patent to the company, he (Atwater) to receive one-quarter of the selling price, which was $14,000, providing the patent was accepted at the end of six months' trial. The complainant alleges he learned that the patent had been accepted by the company, but claims he has been unable to receive any of the purchase price.

Machine Too Fast for City Streets.

Charged with speeding up Seventh avenue at the rate of 40 miles an hour, Henry Dailloux, a chauffeur, employed by William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., was arraigned in the West Side police court this afternoon and held in $300 bail for trial. Dailloux was driving Mr. Vanderbilt's 90-horse power racer and was chased 10 blocks. "Stop, or I'll shoot!" the officer finally yelled, and at that the car came to a halt.

"You seem to have no regard for life or limb," said the magistrate. "Three months' imprisonment would do you good, and I would like to see such a sentence imposed."

The driver said his machine could not be kept under 30 miles an hour, and that it was impossible for him to avoid breaking the law.

"Then it is an outrage that such a machine should be brought into a city," the magistrate responded.

Mrs. Osborn Gets Divorce.

Mrs. Josefa Nellson Osborn, well known as the former proprietor of "Mrs. Osborn's playhouse," in West Forty-fourth street, has obtained a divorce from her husband, Robert A. Osborn, to whom she was married on June 5, 1888. No provision is made for the payment of alimony and Mrs. Osborn has the privilege of marrying again. The decree does not become final for three months. Great secrecy has been observed in the prosecution of the action, which was begun almost a year ago. Mrs. Osborn has been separated from her husband for a long while. They have one child.

Tammany in Danger of Asphyxiation.

Charles F. Murphy's threat to discipline the five Tammany senators who voted against the 50-cent gas bill by denying them a renomination one year from next fall will not be allowed. The question will probably be one of the issues of the city campaign which is now beginning. R. Fulton Cutting, chairman of the Citizens Union, said this afternoon that the city committee of the Union will consider the matter at its meeting May 15. At this meeting action probably will be taken looking to the arraignment of Tammany as a friend of the gas combine.

Icebergs Glisten in Summer Sun.

Passengers on the French liner L'Aquitaine from Havre, which arrived here today, report having seen many icebergs. One of the largest, observed Friday afternoon off the Grand banks, was estimated to be about 200 feet high. It was surrounded by low ice on which were two walruses, which would slide into the water and then reappear with something in their mouths. The passengers say the beauty of the scene pictured by the floating iceberg and the fog above it was enhanced by thousands of birds flying about.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

Hoch der Schumann-Heink,

Merry Frau Ernestine—
Isn't she great?
Hark ye the voice of her!
Mark ye the poise of her!
Ach! But the joys of her!
Mother of eight.

Vas iss der fun aboudt?
Hush little child;
Mamma cavort aboudt—
Peebles go wild!
Mamma's in touch with them,
She won't do much to them!

Wonder-voiced Ernestine!
Isn't she great?
Maker of vocal chimes,
Famed in a dozen climes!
Babies to raise be-times!
Hoch! Schumann-Heink!
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

No race suicide in the Schumann-Heink family, and the popular singer does not appear to be any the worse for being motherly.

The happiest families are big families. Just as the happiest women are mothers of many children. And we may go further and say that the healthiest women are mothers of large families.

It is nature's way, and as nearly as can be found out her way is the better way.

If you want to be healthy and happy keep in nature's ways as nearly as possible. This isn't hard to do when once you know how.

In order that all should know how more attention ought to be given to practical nature studies in school. And these should be directed mainly to the study of man as an animal, his habits and the best means for developing him into a healthy, self-supporting creature.

The robber instinct is too much in evidence in man at present, and this seems to be due both to his education and the lack of it.

Among the more poorly educated are those who have devoted much time to acquiring book knowledge. This is helpful, but it isn't the whole thing. The man who knows himself, as the successful horseman knows a horse, and knows how to maintain health and to secure strength of body and mind through proper feeding and exercise, is a much better educated man than he who knows much of books and little of human nature.

The growing prevalence of nervousness among women is mainly due to their ignorance concerning themselves as human machines. If they knew more about their bodies, how they live, and what they live for, they wouldn't grow old and ugly. Very few women, and men, too, for that matter, ever study anatomy, physiology and hygiene, and practically know nothing about themselves.

Instead of studying how to secure and how to maintain shapely forms, women devote much time and endure much suffering and discomfort trying to hide defects which might have been prevented. The human body will grow shapely and well proportioned if properly cared for, but if neglected and ill treated it will grow crooked, and disproportioned. The humps and bumps, shallows and hollows, flabs and wrinkles are all, or nearly all, due to improper feeding and exercise.

Don't blame Providence because you are too fat or too lean, or not handsome in face and form, but charge it to your own ignorance and that of your forbears.

* * *

Your children may be hale, hearty and handsome, and live long and be happy, if you know how to rear and to educate them.

The trouble with mothers is that they don't know how to rear girls so that they will be healthy and handsome, nor how to rear boys so that they will become hardy and useful men. Even mothers who were highly educated are ignorant on these points.

How can we expect children to be reared properly and rightly educated, when their parents who were not thus reared and educated?

But because parents are ignorant, and through their ignorance are contributing to the sum of human failures and miseries, are we helpless to prevent it? Is there no way to change this order of things?

If there is no way then is our civilization doomed, and the day of doom is not far ahead of us.

But there is a way, and a safe and sure way. Reform our methods of education, teach the young how to live, in order to be healthy and strong, impress them with the fact that they may be happy and useful if they live simply and naturally, and that to be good and useful citizens they must be industrious and temperate.

It lies mainly with teachers and preachers to save our civilization from the impending dangers which many forsee but few are willing to admit.

Mr. Quiet Observer:—Having read much in your column on woman's work and especially her proper place in the field of labor, allow me to say that woman, as a class, should have, and will have the privilege of choosing for herself. In doing so she must be governed largely by circumstances. Just where she works is less important than the spirit in which she works.

Woman's place in the home is not always understood or appreciated, either by herself or those in a position to judge the work of the individual woman. It is not only her grand privilege but her sacred duty to make the home. To do this she must go where duty calls, whether it be to the shop, the kitchen, the parlor, or all three of these.

Too much may be demanded of her and many will say that she is unwise in meeting all these demands. But is she?

What woman most needs is not less work but more appreciation. Not more pampering but more kindly consideration from those about her. If she feels that her efforts are understood and appreciated she can maintain a happy, cheerful spirit and accomplish wonders in the way of actual work.

The wise woman does not strive so much to gain a higher social sphere, or acquire wealth, as she does to make her own particular sphere entirely satisfactory to herself and her friends, with the means at her command.

She will school herself to be satisfied with her lot, whatever it may be, and rise above the petty jealousy and competition of vain persons with whom she may have to associate as neighbors, and to whom she must show herself a friend.

It is a strange fact that some people are never happier than when they are miserable. There may be some room for doubt as to whether their happiness arises from their own misery, or from that of their associates whom they annoy.

However little we may relish this idea, ther are plenty such men and women in our land today, dissatisfied, croaking, longing to be more than they are and have more than they need.

When woman so deports herself that any member of her family can come to her at any time, exulting in success or disappointment because of failure, in greatest joy or deepest sorrow, confident of loving sympathy and gentle words, then, and then only, is she true to her Creator and worthy of her name.

TRAIN WRECKS.

Theory That Many Are Due to a Deliberate Violation of Rules.

"A satisfactory explanation of the prevalence of railway collisions in the United States can only be found by an insight into the manner and methods of American railroads as now operated," says a writer in the Boston Transcript. "The statements I shall make here are not the result of an investigation to fortify an already preconceived dogma, but rather the result of daily observation and practical experience in railroad affairs upon conditions as they are, extending over several years. A wilful disregard or at best a most shiftless obedience by the great mass of the employes to the transportation rules, is in my judgment the real secret of the appalling number of avoidable collisions and accidents in the United States.

"The few illustrations which follow, showing how to 'stand in' obliges one 'to wink' at the rules, I believe are typical. Let us begin with the case of the dispatcher and engineer. An engineer with his train is at a station and an order is given him to meet another train at a certain time at the next station beyond. He looks at his watch and figures that he cannot possibly 'clear' the other train within the limit set by the rules, which let us assume demands a clearance of 10 minutes. He figures that he can, however, clear it in 8 minutes. I believe it is a rare exception to find an engineer who will not take the chance.

Complications Obedience Might Cause.

"But suppose he is a 'company man,' or a 'grandstander' who refuses to take the chance. What effect does his compunction have upon the dispatcher? Well, in the ordinary case it makes all the difference between a highly satisfactory train-sheet upon the superintendent's desk the next day, or a long series of correspondence between the higher officials and himself as to how he happened to allow the trains to become delayed. Such 'seances' the dispatcher is extremely anxious to avoid. But the query is, how does a delay in the trains result? If this engineer should refuse to leave his station, as he has a perfect right to do and ought to do in the interests of the public, the dispatcher must notify all the trains in the class to which this particular train belongs of the change in the orders and schedule. He must reach all trains coming in both directions and warn them not to run upon the time of the other trains as originally authorized to do. As a result not only is it likely that his train sheet is completely disfigured, but his work is probably trebled. Let us return to the engineer. If he makes the station beyond within the time he calculates, everything passes off as quietly as if the rules were most strictly obeyed. If, however, any mishap occurred to his engine, preventing him from making the next station in the time limit, the other train, when the time for departure arrived, would come on, running upon the faith that the first train had been held at the station below and the chances of a collision, unless the most extraordinary precautions are taken to 'flag' the other train, are most favorable. But the average engineer, acting upon the familiar maxim 'what are the rules among friends' almost invariably takes the chance and the officials and newspapers join in singing his praises.

How the Block System Is Ignored.

"Again, the 'block system' is commonly supposed to make one kind of collision impossible—that of one train running into another from the rear between two stations. But as it is now operated, this assurance is far from well founded. Many times a day upon those railroads which have instituted the 'block system,' trains are allowed to pass into the block absolutely in defiance of the rules. I am not now speaking so much of the 'nefarious practice' by which roads, almost without exception, in time of 'rush business' sanction such a violation and practically nullify the system by giving the engineer who enters a 'closed block' a 'precaution card.' This gives him a license to break the rule but enjoins him to run only at such speed that he can shut down when he comes near to the train in front of him. Many times I have heard engineers say 'give us either a strict block system or let us go back to the old way.' Under the old system, the crew knew they had to keep their eyes open to anticipate danger, whereas now when it runs a certain portion of the trip under the block system and the rest under 'precaution cards,' confusion results and disaster is courted. But I go further than this, I contend that the telegraph operator at the station is far among the exceptions who thinks of stopping a fast limited train just because the operator at the station beyond has not authorized him to 'raise his board' and thus clear the block. All operators with any experience know the abuse which would come from the crew of the train stopped and from the dispatcher, and boldness and courage in the performance of their plain duty therefore are not commonly found. Almost without exception they take the chance that by the time the approaching train has reached the station and entered the block, the operator beyond will have authorized him to 'clear.' Every time he is 'playing with fire,' for had the first train never reached the station beyond, the second train coming from behind would more than likely cause a wreck then and there. The operator, however, much against his better judgment, acts upon the presumption that the chances for a wreck are slight, but 'good work' is sure to make a friend and win promotion.

The Causes and Remedy.

"The explanations offered for this gross violation of the rules may not, perhaps, commend themselves at once to the judgment of the reader. If they are erroneous, I have only my own eyes and ears and a practical experience in the railroad work and an intimate knowledge of the type of railroad trainmen in this country to blame. These observations have led me to the conclusion that the cause of this general departure from the rules arises first from the fact that the men labor under the mistaken impression that the rules retard rather than expedite their performance of the work, and, secondly, since this violation is so general the men feel that their only chance for success is to do as the rest do, or lose the good will of their fellow employes.

"A practical solution of these difficulties is doubtless hard to find. In the 'training schools' for railroad men, now instituted upon several of our large systems, many see immense possibilities for improvement. The graduates of these schools will pursue railroading as a profession, as a lawyer does his law and a physician his medicine, and there can be small doubt that the morals of the service will be raised and the officials, being under slight obligations to their employes for their own promotion, can meet their problems with impartiality and complete independence. Any permanent solution, however, I am convinced must go deeper. The great body of the people from which our railroad men are drawn must first learn the lessons of strict obedience to authority, to reasonable conventionality and to the law. When the American people in general learn to obey such signs as 'Keep off the grass' or 'Don't handle,' as they are obeyed in Europe, a great step will have been made toward an eradication of such violations of moral and legal duties in the sphere of transportation affairs."

Found by War Cry.

Abia Fleishman, the wealthy New Yorker, whose wife was in Washington seeking a discharge from the navy of her son, Leo Fleishman, who, after a strange absence of eight months, was this week found enlisted in the navy here under an assumed name, announced tonight that he would take no steps in dividing the reward of $1,000 offered for the finding of his boy until the family has conferred with Miss Eva Booth of the Salvation Army War Cry, publication in which resulted in the location of the missing youth.

KEY'S ANTHEM.

Attempts Made to Revise "The Star-Spangled Banner."

"The Star-Spangled Banner" has for many years been regarded as a national anthem, although its popularity depends more on a few patriotic sentences than the narration of incidents which impressed the author of the war of 1812. As in the case of "Yankee Doodle," moreover, the music played an important part in its general acceptance as a patriotic song for public occasions. It is this recognition of the verses as standard and worthy of a permanency value that has resulted in the curious attempts made to interpolate new lines in place of the third verse, which describes the overthrow of the Massachusetts contingent

"who as vauntingly swore
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion
A home and a country should leave us no more.
Their blood has washed out their foul steps' pollution."

This reference to the opposition of the New England element was distasteful and they especially objected to the words "foul steps' pollution." Another matter which gave offense to the sensitive was the taunt made about the "hireling and slave" soldier in the British army, and it was thought best to revise the language. An opportunity for this was afforded by the civil war, when it was thought that the verses could be brought "up to date" regardless of the fact that the poem was written long before that event, and under the inspiration of the attack made on Fort McHenry, so that it could not well include both wars.

The Boston interpolation made the third verse read

"When our land is illumined by Liberty's smile,
If a foe from within strikes a blow at her glory,
Down, down with the foe who dares to defile
The stars of her flag and the page of her story.
By the millions unchained who our birthright have gained
We will keep her bright blazon forever unstained."

When reconstruction days were over and the south found only freedmen singing the anthem in their states they demanded a restoration of the original lines and this was done in the text books published for that section of the country. But now objection has been renewed to the criticism of Massachusetts and the British as well, so in New York schools another verse was substituted. The change has resulted in a bill introduced in the assembly to prohibit any departure from the original text. It is probable that ultimately the sentiment of those who consider "The Star-Spangled Banner" as an heirloom to be preserved entire and unchanged will prevail. Attempts to amend historic literature have not as a rule been successful, and while the third verse may be omitted in singing by those who object to it, it should never be eliminated from the poem.

How It Was Set to Music.

The story of how "The Star-Spangled Banner" was set to music the day after it was written by Francis Scott Key was told recently to the Philadelphia Press by Mrs. Kate Durang Fisher, of 1312 Butler street, a daughter of one of the two men who found its tune. Mrs. Fisher said:

"My father, Charles Durang, and his brother, Ferdinand, were in the garrison at Fort McHenry when Key returned from the British flagship on which he had been held during the bombardment of the fort. Key handed my father a piece of paper on which he had written a poem from the impressions formed while witnessing the attack. My father and brother, who were theatrical singers, at once saw that the poem should be set to music. They began to whistle various tunes to it and tried almost every air they could remember.

"Finally they struck up an old Roman Catholic requiem to which the words fitted exactly. The next night the two brothers sang it in the Holliday Street theater, Baltimore, and it caught the audience by storm. The following day everybody in Baltimore was whistling it. The song has since become known over the entire civilized world by the tune to which it was first whistled. I well remember the story as my father told me it many times."

Charles Durang was rather a prominent actor during the time of the war of 1812, and both he and his brother, Ferdinand, played in Philadelphia. He afterward made his home here and died in 1870 at 1729 Filbert street. He wrote a history of the Philadelphia stage a few years before his death. Mrs. Fisher, his daughter, is a great-grandniece of Commodore Perry, the leading naval figure of the war which produced the "Star Spangled Banner."

The Civil War Changed Styles.

The war taught Americans to have their hair cut short, and the way in which men wear their hair has a marked influence on garmenture. The elaborately dressed hair of the ante-bellum period necessitated a more flowing style of garment. The coat of that period was long, as was the hair, and it was, without being too loose, just loose enough. There were wide trousers, and altogether the civilian was not taught that his proper sartorial caper was to look as much as possible like an army officer in plain clothes.—Boston Transcript.

Abolishing Copper Coins.

France has decided to do away with copper coins entirely after the end of the present year. This is in consequence of the repeated and vigorous warning that the copper coinage caused several diseases. A copper coin which has been for any time in circulation is covered with an oxide, which is a virulent poison. Yet people unhesitatingly handle such coins; and, of all others, most frequently give them to infant children. France will substitute smaller and neater nickel coins.—Montreal Star.

An Automobile Bank.

Cincinnati is soon to have what is said to be the first automobile bank in this country. The car is of chilled steel, with double walls and a one-inch space between. It will contain a burglar-proof safe, desk and working room for several clerks. The motive power is electricity, and the storage battery can be charged for a 50-mile run. The cost will be $7,000. The use of the car is obvious—to save depositors from sending to the bank headquarters.—Philadelphia Ledger.

CAPTAIN WILSON IS ACQUITTED

Jury Finds He Did Not Aid and Abet Sue Williams to Open a Disorderly House.

WILL TRY THE OTHER CASES

Capt. James Wilson of the Allegheny police was acquitted in criminal court yesterday of a charge of aiding and abetting in the maintenance of Sue Williams' disorderly house. The case was given to the jury at 2:25 o'clock and at 4 o'clock it returned with the verdict which clears Wilson of one charge. There are several other cases pending against Wilson, but the grand jury has not acted on some of them. The charge of extortion on which he was tried two weeks ago, the trial resulting in a disagreement, is still pending and may be tried after the district attorney and his colleagues have conferred.

Attorneys Haymaker and Marron were somewhat disappointed at the result, but both expressed determination to go ahead. Attorney Haymaker stated:

"We will certainly try the indictments pending against Capt. Wilson, one of which charges extortion of money from Neil Snyder, the other extortion of money from Jean Bennett, and the third, extortion of money from Sue Williams. These are not all. The grand jury will get a chance at several others, which have been returned to that body, and it true bills were found, we will certainly give Capt. Wilson several other chances to get verdicts of acquittal, as is his right if he is innocent.

Opportunity for Vindication.

"It would not be fair to Capt. Wilson or any other man charged with so serious offenses to nolle prosse the indictments when he should have a vindication, if the charges are not true. You can rest assured one acquittal will not stop the prosecution of these cases, and we will be perfectly satisfied with two verdicts of guilty to one of acquittal. You know juries honestly differ and every man is entitled to a fair chance. As representatives of the district attorney, we will give the juries all we have in the cases and it is then up to them. What they do does not concern us and upon them rests the peace and security of the county and the cities. Twelve men said Capt. Wilson did not aid and abet Sue Williams to open a disorderly house, and that settles it as far as that case is concerned."

Attorney Marron refused to discuss the case other than to say that they would certainly go ahead; that it was a labor of love as far as he was concerned and he proposed to pursue it if the district attorney and his colleague, Mr. Haymaker, were satisfied. How soon they would take up the other cases he could not say until after a consultation.

Jail Cases Have Preference.

District Attorney Stewart said yesterday that while the prosecution was anxious to proceed with the graft cases as soon as possible, it would not be able to do so on account of the grand jury, which is now sitting. He said the jury was returning many true bills against prisoners who are confined in the jail, and the crowded condition of that institution must be relieved before the court's time can be taken up with defendants who are out on bail, as are the defendants in the graft cases.

Capt. Wilson was again on the stand yesterday when court opened. Mr. Haymaker, on cross-examination, asked him if, when he noticed Mrs. Williams' house open after he had closed it, he had asked her why she had opened again. Wilson replied that he had not. When asked if he had closed the house for any definite time, he said he had not. He said in closing the house he meant to stop Mrs. Williams from running a disorderly house.

He said he had closed three houses on the same night, but Judge Shafer sustained an objection when the witness was asked how many he had closed in the district. The court said Wilson was charged with aiding and abetting the keeping of one particular house and it was not proper to admit anything about other houses. This was not relished by the prosecution. After some trouble Mr. Haymaker managed to get in Wilson's evidence in the former trial that he had "regulated these houses a little." The entire examination was hard fought.

Dangerous Place at Night.

John Houch, a character witness for Wilson, did not know Wilson's reputation in the First and Fourth wards. It was dangerous to go down there at nights, he said; a man might get a ride in the patrol wagon as the Allegheny police were trying to clean up those houses. Samuel McElroy, president of Allegheny common council was another witness for Wilson.

District Attorney Stewart, when asked if he, as district attorney, had told Mrs. Williams not to close her house at the orders of the Allegheny police, replied that he did not think it necessary to answer the question. Judge Shafer asked him to answer and he said: "No, I never told her that." Mr. Ferguson said that was his own opinion. Witnesses have said Mrs. Williams claimed this had been done and he thought it right for the district attorney to deny it.

Mr. Ferguson asked that the case be taken from the jury, saying that there was no such offense as aiding and abetting a misdemeanor. Judge Shafer said the charge would stand.

Mr. Ferguson addressed the jury for the defense. He gave an explanation of the charge and said that active assistance must be given in committing a misdemeanor to prove guilt. In this case, unless the jury was convinced that Mrs. Williams did obtain permission to open her house by paying Capt. Wilson $100, they could not find him guilty.

Comparison of Characters.

He attacked Mrs. Williams' testimony, pointing out discrepancies in her story as told at different times. Her course in keeping her house open and the possibility of her making herself useful to the prosecution were commented on. The commonwealth had been unable to put on a witness to assail Wilson's character, he said, and he asserted that Wilson's character is better than that of Mrs. Williams.

Mr. Marron, speaking for the prosecution, said the case represented the supreme crisis, as it brings the police forward in their relations toward crime, and the verdict would place the 12 jurors for or against the law. He arraigned Wilson vigorously and gave a scathing picture of conditions in Allegheny as he saw them. Several times Mr. Ferguson interrupted him, and when he concluded gave notice that the district attorney would be held responsible for some of Mr. Marron's words. Mr. Marron said he could placard the room with notice if he wished.

Judge Shafer told the jury to weigh the evidence carefully and use common sense rules in reaching a verdict. The principal question was, "Did Sue Williams pay Capt. Wilson $100 for permission to open her house?"

CLARK IS STILL IN SOME DOUBT

Continuing to Ponder Identity of His Running Mate on Fusion County Ticket.

JUDGE REBUKES THE POLICE

Having selected in advance all the delegates who will be "elected" at the Democratic primaries on Saturday, County Commissioner James A. Clark is still, it is asserted, in doubt about the identity of his running mate on the Citizens-Democratic ticket. It has been reported that the chief clerk of the commissioner's office, Henry T. Rowley, is to be put on the ticket by Clark. As Clark controls the Democratic party in the two cities and all over the county, and as only by his consent a fusion movement may be launched, it is generally admitted that the Citizens are wise in permitting him to name the other candidate.

It will be to Clark's interest to have a weak candidate. Republicans are confident that their ticket will win, as it did in the last county election, so that only one of the fusion candidates can be elected, the law requiring that one of the commissioners must belong to the minority party. Hence it is to the interest of Clark and of the other fusion candidate to get as many votes over the other as he can. Clark has not yet admitted that Rowley is to be the sacrificial lamb.

Dr. Adolph Koenig has been announced as a candidate for commissioner of the department of health, created by the legislature at the recent session.

Before Judge Frazer in criminal court yesterday, Edward C. Smith was tried on two charges of felonious assault and battery made by John Schnepper and T. W. Davis. In the Davis case, Smith was convicted of a charge of simple assault, and on the other charges he was acquitted. The suits were the outgrowth of the trouble in the Thirteenth ward on election day.

In charging the jury, Judge Fraser rebuked the police, as both men were under arrest when the alleged assaults were committed on them. They were election officers.

The judge said in his charge that it must be made plain that policemen should not run elections and that it was their duty to keep their hands off election officers, unless there was a bench warrant for their arrest. When an arrest had been made, it was the duty of a policeman to protect his prisoner, if need be, with his life.

"The exercise of the right to vote," said the court, "is the highest right of any citizen, and he must not be interfered with in doing so by the police or any one else, so long as he remains orderly."

Judge Fraser said his remarks had little to do with the case, but they were made for the benefit of the police and public, as a reminder of their duty at the polls.

In quarter sessions court Judge Shafer made an order refusing to approve the appointment of Charles H. Tyler, a negro, as a deputy constable of the Thirty-first ward, on the grounds that the officer was not needed in the ward. Tyler's petition was contested by Constable Joseph Thompson, of the Fifth ward. Thompson alleged Tyler was an unfit person, that he had served time in the workhouse, that the appointment was not necessary and that it was Tyler's intention to be appointed as a deputy constable in the Thirty-first ward, and then to act as constable in the Ffith ward.

SOFTENS ITS REFUSAL TO JOIN TRADE BOARDS

Chamber of Commerce Says It Will Co-Operate With, but Won't Join Proposed Federation.

On representations made by W. H. Stevenson and A. M. Hanauer the chamber of commerce yesterday softened its refusal to join the federation of all the commercial bodies in Pittsburgh. The matter came up when the report of the executive committee was read, the committee recommending that the chamber decline with thanks the invitation to join the federation.

Mr. Stevenson objected and said he understood the executive committee had based its decision on a garbled statement in a newspaper and before an official invitation to enter the federation had been received. He thought the chamber ought to accept the invitation for the good of the whole community. On Mr. Hanauer's motion an amendment to the language of the report was adopted, to the effect that while the chamber declined to federate, it would cheerfully co-operate with other commercial bodies in working for the good of the community.

The report of the committee on Greater Pittsburgh, which has already been published, was read and approved. The report of the committee on municipal affairs was adopted as read, and its chairman, H. D. W. English, reported verbally that 9,890 signatures to the Pittsburgh petition for an annexation election and 820 signatures to the Allegheny petition had been secured, but that the petitions would not be presented to the courts while the constitutionality of the Greater Pittsburgh legislation was under fire in the supreme court.

Maj. Horace L. Piper Dead.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—General Superintendent Kimball of the life saving service has received a dispatch announcing the death, at Atlantic City today, of his assistant, Maj. Horace L. Piper. He entered the civil war as a private and during his service rose to the rank of major. He had been assistant superintendent of the life saving service for about 18 years.

NO RULES FOR ROADS.

County Commissioners Did Not Meet and Farmers Are Objecting.

The county commissioners did not meet yesterday to formulate rules for the use of the roads and highways by vehicles. Commissioner James Evans, Commissioner James A. Clark said, had prepared the rules in conjunction with the road engineer, F. W. Patterson, but Mr. Evans did not return to the commissioners' office yesterday afternoon, therefore no meeting was held.

It is understood that some farmers have raised objections to the proposed new rules, as they estimate that it would cost them at least $20 for each vehicle, to provide new wheels and tires. Commissioner Clark, being a candidate for re-election, has not yet expressed himself as in favor of the new rules. The farmers have not offered many objections to the building of roads, because Allegheny and Pittsburgh pay most of the cost, but it is expected by some people that they will rise in wrath if confronted with the necessity of spending money to remodel their wagons.

AMALGAMATED FOR ADVANCED WAGES

Scales Providing Increases for Puddlers and Muck Bar Rollers Are Adopted.

REORGANIZATION FAVORED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

DETROIT, MICH., May 9.—Two scales providing for a substantial advance in the wages of puddlers and muck bar rollers to be submitted to the manufacturers were adopted at the afternoon session of the convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers today, when the recommendations presented in the report of the wage committee were approved.

The base of the puddling scale has not been decided upon, but will likely be fixed at $5, an advance of 10 cents a ton, at tomorrow's session. The wage committee also recommended that the sheet steel and tin plate workers should receive the 1903-1904 scale, which is an advance of 18 per cent in wages. Aside from the base the scales correspond to those of 1903-1904, the highest wages ever paid. These scales were only in force a few months, owing to the depression in the iron and steel industry, which resulted in the Amalgamated making concessions.

The race for the presidency of the association is becoming hotter daily. Electioneering is going on continually, although the election will not be held until some time next week. M. F. McHighe, assistant secretary-treasurer; P. J. McArdle, vice president of the Indiana district, and Walter Larkin of Wheeling, are in the contest to a finish, it appears.

New facts are leaking out concerning President Schaffer's report. It was announced today that Shaffer favors a reorganization of the association, that is to have separate heads for each branch of the trade. President Shaffer still declines to discuss his plans for the future. Rumors are prevalent as to his intentions, but Shaffer denies them.

The followers of William M. Young, delegate from New Castle, who had a large following among the tin plate workers for the presidency, and retired from the race, have not declared for any candidate. The balance of power is thought to be in the hands of the Young faction and the man they indorse for president is expected to win.

G. J. GOULD SEES BRIGHT OUTLOOK

SPEAKS FRANKLY ON PLANS

"How is Pittsburgh doing?"

With this question George J. Gould turned from the interviewer into the interviewer last evening at the Wabash station.

When told that the industries of the Pittsburgh district are tremendously busy with orders sufficient to insure activity for months to come, he said that so he had been informed and it was extremely gratifying to hear the same report on the ground.

His question gains added interest when it is recalled that in practically the same words he asked the same question when he stepped from his train in the Baltimore & Ohio station, on his first visit here about two years ago. When told then that the mills seemed busy enough, he looked closely at his informant in a doubting way and said something to indicate his prognostication of the financial and industrial troubles which actually occurred, beginning only a few months later. Last evening his attitude was entirely different, and it is certain that there is much significance in the belief of this leader in American railroads and finance.

His attention was turned to a lull in the buying and he said:

"Yes, there may be a little lull now, but it is natural and merely temporary. It will last but a little time. There is no unhealthy symptom in this fact."

In Pittsburgh But One Day.

Mr. Gould, with a party of railroad officials and financiers, reached Pittsburgh about 8 o'clock last evening. His special train had run from Cleveland during the afternoon. The special was made up of half a dozen private cars.

"We went at a rapid gait over the Wheeling & Lake Erie, easily attaining 60 miles an hour," said Mr. Gould. "But on the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal we wished to have a chance to see the new road more thoroughly and proceeded with less speed. The road is well built.

"There is a remarkable improvement in the roadbed since I was last over it. At that time it had just been opened to traffic and there was, of course, much roughness, but this has since been removed. It is a high-speed roadway now.

"Our party desires to visit some of the western lines, and as our time is limited we shall stay in Pittsburgh but the one day, leaving tomorrow evening. Mr. Delano will accompany us to Chicago and St. Louis, as we wish to go over the road together.

"Tomorrow I expect to go over the West Side Belt up to Clairton and inspect the Duquesne way and South Side branch locations. I am especially interested in having the connection with the Union railroad completed."

When asked about the Washington and Greene county line to extend through West Virginia and connect at Belington with the West Virginia Central, Mr. Gould said that there still remained some points to be settled on that project before a definite announcement could be made.

Will Buy More Rails.

"On this trip we wish to talk the plan over," he said. "The work will be under the direction of the Pittsburgh officials."

The last statement is a reply to the reports that it would be built by the engineers who had charge of the Cumberland-Cherry Run link of the Western Maryland and West Virginia Central.

"Our line from Cumberland to Cherry Run will be completed this fall and give us direct connection from the coal fields to the seaboard," he said. "This work is now well on to completion."

Mr. Gould was asked about the situation with respect to rails on the system which he controls. He said that while these roads are buying rails constantly, he expected that from 10,000 to 20,000 tons additional would be bought by them this year. He did not say what roads would make these purchases.

In regard to the general traffic outlook, he spoke hopefully, saying that it is very good.

"The winter wheat crop promises to break all records. I believe it will exceed anything the country has ever done or will do," he said. "So far as the other crops are concerned, it is too early as yet to make a prophecy, but the ground is in good condition and there are no unfavorable factors as yet.

Not Talking About Rates.

"The condition of the country is not affected by a bad crop to as great a degree as formerly," he said. "The farmers of the west have become rich and they cannot only withstand the effects of a bad year, but they can afford to hold back much of their crops to await a better market. In this way they secure an equalization of conditions."

There was one subject on which Mr. Gould made it very plain that he was not talking. He was asked if he did not care to say something concerning the railroad rate policy of President Roosevelt. He replied very firmly:

"No, I have nothing to say on that subject."

The party that came into Pittsburgh last evening included George J. Gould and his son, Jay Gould; E. A. Delano, president of the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal and the future head of all the Wabash system; F. T. Jeffrey, president of the Denver & Rio Grande; Benjamin Nicoll, the New York financier; Robert Blickensderfer, general manager of the Wheeling & Lake Erie and the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal; H. J. Booth, traffic manager of the Wheeling & Lake Erie; H. W. McMasters, superintendent at Canton, and J. W. Patterson, Jr., superintendent of the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal. The party was met at the station by J. W. Patterson, vice president and chief engineer of the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal; Col. W. D. Holliday, assistant general freight agent, and F. H. Tristram, assistant general passenger agent of the Wabash.

Spent Night on Their Train.

The big handsome station was brilliantly lighted and the entire party proceeded to inspect it. As Mr. Gould entered the waiting room of the main floor he stopped for several minutes to admire it. The first floor waiting room was also inspected as was the dining room soon to be opened. The fact that here was to have been located the now-famous alleged "Ramsey Saloon" did not escape attention. The offices of the company in the building were visited and then the party returned to their train, where they planned to spend the night.

Mr. Gould was notified by Vice President Patterson of the invitation to the banquet in honor of the rivers and harbors committee of the house of representatives at the Schenley, but stated that the evening was so far advanced that it would be impossible for him to accept.

KANSAS CYCLONE KILLS TWENTY-SIX

Thirty-Five Persons Are So Seriously Injured That Some of Them May Die.

STORM STRIKES AT MIDNIGHT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MARQUETTE, KAS., May 9.—When darkness fell upon this stricken town tonight it was known that 26 lives had been lost in the tornado that wrecked part of Marquette early today, and that 44 persons had been injured. Of the injured 35 were seriously hurt and some of them may die. During the day Carl Warnquist and Mrs. J. A. Carlson died of their injuries.

The dead are: Gus Anderson, Mrs. A. V. Anderson, Nina Roberts, Carl Warnquist, Mrs. J. A. Carlson, Clyde Norris, Willie Ellison, Mrs. Elmer Hultgren, Blanche Switzer, Lena Switzer, Nina Switzer, Anna Coulson, N. P. Nelson, wife and three children; A. Sjogren, Sr., Olaf Hanson and wife, Gottfried Nelson, wife and child; Elmer Nelson and Mrs. Postler and child.

In several cases entire families have been killed. A man named Switzer, a night watchman at the railroad yards, lost his three children. N. P. Nelson, with his wife and three children were found dead. Two other children were not at home and escaped injury. A relief committee tonight had begun dispensing aid. Among the relief sent from outside were 25 pupils from Bethany college who acted as nurses.

The tornado formed three miles south of Marquette and did not spend its force until it had passed many miles north of the town. In Marquette the residence proportion west of the main street suffered the principal damage. In this section only one home was left standing. The Swedish Lutheran and Methodist churches, and the parsonage adjoining the latter were demolished.

Yesterday afternoon was hot and oppressive. Late in the evening a terrific rain storm broke over the town and fell in torrents until midnight when the tornado struck it. Within less than five minutes it had wrought its terrible work and passed on.

It was about until 8 o'clock that physicians and surgeons began arriving from surrounding towns. In the meantime dozens of volunteers set to work to clear away the debris and extricate the dead and injured. The Swedish Lutheran parsonage and several private residences were turned into temporary hospitals. The dead were taken to a storeroom near by.

When the missing in Marquette had been accounted for, the searchers directed their attention to the surrounding country. Soon half a dozen wagon loads of dead and injured had been brought down from the district adjoining Marquette on the south.

There were many narrow escapes from death. The infant daughter of Charles Sallen was lifted in her bed and carried to the middle of the street, receiving only a few scratches. Sallen and his wife were seriously injured.

The mattress upon which the baby daughter of the Rev. Mr. Smith lay, was doubled up in such a manner as to cover the child and protect it from falling timbers. In spite of the destruction of the Smith house, the Methodist parsonage, the entire family escaped uninjured.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Elvin were carried on their bed a distance of 500 feet and laid down without being seriously injured.

Morganza Boys Are Sentenced.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 9.—(Special.)—In the Washington county criminal court Charles Jackson, a negro, of Allegheny, and George Pender, white, of Pittsburgh, the two Morganza prisoners who a few weeks ago escaped from the Reform school after seriously injuring Keeper H. W. White, and who attempted to hold up a farmer, were convicted of assault and battery and highway robbery, and each sentenced to five years in the Western penitentiary. Both pleaded guilty. An appeal for mercy was made in the case of Jackson by his mother, who stated that her son was her only support.

NATURE'S OWN HAIR RESTORER

WONDERFUL
Cream of Sage and Sulphur

Is that sulphur is one of the natural constituents of the hair. Set fire to a lock of hair and you can smell the fumes of burning sulphur. When there is not sufficient sulphur in the hair it becomes diseased, turns gray and falls out. There are many forms and combinations of sulphur—only one form of it will combine with and be assimilated and absorbed by the hair. This kind is used in preparing our Cream of Sage and Sulphur.

WE HAVE THE SECRET AND WE OFFER YOU THE BENEFIT OF IT AT AN EXCEEDINGLY LOW PRICE

BALDNESS CURED

50c at Druggists

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

PRESIDENT WILL ADDRESS MINERS

He May Take Action to Prevent Another Great Strike in the Anthracite Field.

TASK BEFORE JOHN MITCHELL

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WILKESBARRE, May 9.—President Roosevelt may take action this summer which will prevent the possibility of another great strike in the anthracite coal region when the present agreement, which was brought about through the efforts of the arbitration commission appointed by him, expires. This is the last year it had to run and already the miners and mine owners are marshalling their forces for another struggle.

John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, has secured the promise of Mr. Roosevelt to deliver an address to the convention of anthracite miners to be called here some time in August. On that occasion there is reliable authority for saying that the first steps will be taken to prevent a strike, which might bear even more hardly on the general public than did the last one. A gentleman who is acquainted with what is going on said today:

"John Mitchell is working earnestly to prevent another strike. As a preliminary he is striving to put the union in a position to fight. The organization is in better shape than it has been in years and before the present agreement expires it will be even in better shape. An adequate strike fund is being accumulated and the union membership is being rapidly increased and solidified. All this is being done, however, on the theory that the better prepared the union is to fight the less likelihood there is that it will have to fight. We have reason to believe that President Roosevelt will do all he properly can to preserve the peace. The plan which will be submitted to him and which it is hoped he will find it possible to adopt is to suggest to both the miners and the operators that, previous to the expiration of the agreement, they strive to get together and between themselves make a new contract. In the event that they are unable to get together on mutually satisfactory terms, the plan is to have the president suggest the appointment of a commission composed of men of universally recognized fairness and ability, who will take up the whole controversy before the trouble is on and the fighting spirit of all parties has been aroused, and make a settlement.

"This plan would have all the merits and none of the demerits of compulsory arbitration. It would have so solid a backing of public sentiment that if the president can be brought to take the indicated action, neither side could refuse to accept it.

"While I have reason to believe that most of the leaders of the miners will fall in with the plan willingly, the men who are back of it are neither miners nor operators. They are business men who stand to suffer serious loss, with absolutely no chance for gain in case of a strike. If they can bring about arbitration before the battle begins, a great victory for industrial peace will have been gained. If the president can be brought to see his way clear to act, the result will be accomplished."

Arthur Haserot, Son of Wealthy Cleveland Parents, Is Found Dead by His Roommate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., May 9.—Arthur Haserot, a Yale senior, living in Cleveland, O., was today found shot to death in his room in Welch hall, one of the campus dormitories. A revolver was found near Haserot's side and there was a bullet wound in his head.

Roy W. Hemingway of Syracuse, N. Y., Haserot's roommate, said tonight that not once during the time he had roomed with the Cleveland man had there been a time when he even suspected his roommate contemplated taking his life.

Medical Examiner Bartlett stated tonight that there would be no further investigation, as he was convinced the student met death by his own hand. Haserot was a quiet man with good habits, it is said, and the probability is that he was temporarily out of his head on account of overwork. He was 22 years old.

CLEVELAND, O., May 9.—Arthur Haserot was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Haserot of Cleveland. The father is a member of the wholesale grocery house of the Hascrot Company. His father intended going to New Haven tonight to visit his son when the news of his death was received by telephone.

The boy's father has no idea the case is one of suicide. A letter had been received at the family home this morning, and in it Arthur showed his mind was happy and spoke of his preparations for graduation exercises next month. An uncle of the dead student has gone to New Haven to care for the body.

EASTON OPPOSES RUSHING THE CITY ORDINANCES

At a meeting of the committee on public safety of Allegheny councils last night, Dr. Andrew Easton of the Third ward, stoutly opposed recommending favorably ordinances requiring a three-fourths vote without the measures being thoroughly investigated by members of the committee. Thomas McHenry said it was the duty of the sub-committee on streets and sewers to view the streets to be improved under such ordinances. The measures under consideration were for improvements in Herman street and Maple and Euclid avenues and Verona street. They were laid over till those interested may have an opportunity to present their claims. Several other ordinances were approved and ordered printed.

Prof. Charles Milroy, of the faculty, said this evening that three-fourths of the striking students had returned to their classes, and that no further trouble is expected. The students will not be allowed to take the spring examinations, but may return in the fall and continue work.

FRANCE DEFENDS HER GOOD FAITH

WILL MAKE FACTS PUBLIC

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, May 10.—A dispatch from Saigon to the Petit Journal says: "Nebogatoff's squadron appeared at daybreak May 9, 20 miles off Cape St. James, preparing to ascend the river to Saigon where the commander expects to find the necessary orders for effecting a junction with Rojestvensky and revictualling his fleet. He was hailed at sea by a scout belonging to the Russian second Pacific squadron which communicated to him France's desire that the junction of the Russian squadrons should occur outside of the Indo-Chinese waters. Nebogatoff then disappeared on the open sea, sailing toward the second squadron, which doubtless is awaiting off the Annam coast."

PARIS, May 9.—The arrival in Paris today of Paul Cambon, the French ambassador in London, following his conference with Foreign Secretary Lansdowne, probably will permit the authorities here to learn the sentiments in British official circles concerning French observance of neutrality. Thus far only informal representations have been made from Great Britain, but it is gathered that informal talks between officials in London and Paris have permitted the British authorities to use friendly councils with both sides toward preventing the controversy from assuming an acute form.

The announcement was made today that the French government will publish a yellow book concerning French observance of neutrality during the events in the far east. The publication will include the instructions sent to officers and agents and the telegrams exchanged. It is said these will show the minute precautions which the government has taken to prevent a violation of France's neutrality.

French naval critics maintain that Japan's real intention is to induce France to drive Admiral Rojestvensky northward, thus assisting in the execution of Admiral Togo's naval strategy.

LONDON, May 9.—The situation arising in the far east by Russian alleged violation of French neutrality in Indo-China by Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron, and the possibility of Great Britain becoming involved, formed the subject of a question to Premier Balfour in the house of commons this afternoon. Mr. Balfour in reply read a statement, supplied to the British government by the French ambassador M. Cambon, in which the ambassador set forth the efforts made by France to preserve neutrality.

Foreign Secretary Lansdowne in the house of lords read a statement to the same effect as Mr. Balfour read in the house of commons, adding with respect to the assurances of Admiral Rojestvensky that he would leave Hon Kohe bay May 8 that, the secretary, was unable to say whether the Russian squadron actually departed on that date.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 9.—The Japanese threats against France are not taken very seriously here. The Russian authorities continue to maintain that Admiral Rojestvensky has not overstepped the limits of neutrality.

NHA-TRANG, May 9.—Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron, which has been cruising for several days off Vanfoff bay, sailed this morning.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA HERE.

First Day Is Spent in Business, Sight-Seeing and Amusement.

With a street parade, in which 500 uniformed men participated, followed by an entertainment and dance at Syria temple, Washington street and Webster avenue last night, the first day's session of the thirteenth annual convention of the Grand Commandery, Order of Knights of Malta, was brought to a successful close. The business session opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in Grand Army hall, Fifth avenue, reports being read and adopted and degrees being conferred on a number of candidates.

The afternoon session was devoted to sight-seeing, the visitors, many of whom were women, making trips to industrial plants and points of historic interest throughout the city.

The program for today will be carried out exactly as has already been published in The Gazette. The grand commandery will hold a business session in Grand Army hall at 9 o'clock this morning, the afternoon will be devoted to sight-seeing and a banquet will be held at the Monongahela house tonight.

WILL FORM OWN CLASSIS.

Hungarian Reformed Churches Secure Concession They Have Long Tried For.

At yesterday's session of the Allegheny Classis of the Reformed church the different Hungarian churches in the Classis were granted the privilege of withdrawing and forming a classis of their own. The Hungarian churches have been trying for some time to secure a separate organization.

All of the morning session and part of the afternoon session were taken up with the report of ministers and elders of the church embraced in the Classis. The reports gave general statistics of the different churches, and reviewed the work done during the year.

Motion to Annul Marriage.

UNIONTOWN, May 9.—(Special.)—A motion was made in court today to annul the marriage of Joseph R. Ross to Elizabeth Ryan Beckwith, which took place at Morgantown, W. Va., September 17, 1904. It is set forth that in September the woman, whose maiden name was Ryan, was the lawful wife of Robert Beckwith and had never obtained a divorce. Beckwith is now in jail, held as a witness to testify at the June term of court, when Mrs. Ross will be arraigned on a charge of bigamy. The court granted a rule on Mrs. Ross.

Evidently Murder and Suicide.

BEDFORD, May 9.—(Special.)—The body of Harvey Rose, a farmer living near Hainsburg, was found hanging by a halter to a rafter in the wash house today, while the body of his wife was discovered in an upstairs room of the residence with two bullet holes in her head. It is supposed that Rose first shot his wife after a quarrel, and then committed suicide.

Burglar Calls a Second Time.

A masked burglar attempted to enter the residence of Mrs. Francis Parks of 48 North Main street, Sharpsburg, early Monday morning but was frightened away by Miss Isabel Parks, who fired three shots at the intruder. Mrs. Parks' house was entered by burglars on December 30, when jewelry valued at $100 was taken.

WOMAN DIES ON STEP IN STREET

ACCUSED BY HER HUSBAND

Surrounded by a large crowd of women and children who had been attracted to the scene by the appearance of a man trying to assist a woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Kopp, wife of John Kopp of 2205 East street, Allegheny, died a suicide on the front doorsteps of the house at 414 Second street, Allegheny, shortly before 9 o'clock last night. Mrs. Kopp had taken carbolic acid while despondent some blocks away from the street in which she died. Although her husband, who was with her, made every effort to save his wife's life, she expired in the street shortly after a physician reached her side.

Mrs. Kopp was aged 34 and had been married for 17 years. Her husband is employed as a tinner by Demmler Bros. at Smithfield street and Oliver avenue. The couple have a son, aged 14, who was playing with other children and did not know of his mother's death until about an hour after it had occurred. It is said that about 6 o'clock last evening Kopp went home in an angry mood and accused his wife of infidelity. She denied she had been unfaithful to him and he demanded that she face her accusers.

After supper Kopp and his wife started, ostensibly to go to the house of her accusers in East street, but Mrs. Kopp decided she would go to see her sister, Mrs. William Vocisk, of the rear of 530 Tower street, and started in that direction, and her husband followed her. While in the shadow of the Tenth United Presbyterian church at Middle and Tower streets, she drew a vial containing the poison from the bosom of her dress and drained it and then ran into her sister's house and cried: "Don't be frightened; I have taken poison."

Her husband, who had by this time reached her side, heard the remark and he asked Mrs. Vocisk to hold Mrs. Kopp while he ran to get a doctor, and rushed out of the house. Mrs. Vocisk had her baby in her arms and her sister broke away from her and ran after her husband. When Kopp and his wife reached the street Kopp took hold of her and led her up Tower street, down Middle street to Second street and was leading her down Second street toward East park, when she collapsed and fell on the doorstep, where she died. Dr. L. Hirsch was passing and he went to the woman's assistance, but she died in a few minutes.

Mrs. Kopp's body was carried into a house at Second and Moultor streets and placed upon a bed. Later the body was removed to the morgue.

Mrs. Harriet Grant, of 19 Logan street, yesterday was held by a coroner's jury to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of murdering James R. Frankel, a negro, who died April 30 from injuries received by falling down the steps of Mrs. Grant's house. Frankel became abusive and Mrs. Grant, it is alleged, pushed him out of her house. In falling his head struck the edge of a step, fracturing his skull. He died at the Passavant hospital.

INVITATIONS TO HAY.

He May Meet Foreign Ministers, Although No Decision Has Been Made.

BAD NAUHEIM, May 9.—Spencer F. Eddy, first secretary of the American embassy at St. Petersburg, arrived here today to see Secretary Hay. Most of the American ambassadors and ministers to Europe have written to inquire about Mr. Hay's health, and to invite him to their capitals. Many American friends traveling Europe have also written to Mr. Hay.

There is talk of Mr. Hay visiting Berlin, Paris and London and of his arranging to meet Chancellor von Buelow, Foreign Minister Delcasse and Foreign Secretary Lansdowne before he returns to America in June, but so far as can be learned nothing definite has been decided, and the suggestions remain only possibilities.

GERMANS HONOR SCHILLER'S NAME

Three Big Gatherings Pay Homage to Fatherland's Poet and Patriot.

SOUTH SIDERS HOLD BANQUET

German-Americans of Pittsburgh left nothing undone in celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the death of the poet and patriot of the Fatherland, Johann Christoph Friederich Schiller. The South Side Gesang and Turnverein, the Central Turnverein and the Allegheny Turnverein last night observed the anniversary with exercises appropriately recalling the memory of Schiller, while other German societies in all parts of Western Pennsylvania did not fail to do honor to his name.

There were few dry eyes in the great audience in Schiller-Glocke hall, South Twenty-sixth street, last night, when the Rev. Alfred Schramm called to mind the self-sacrificing patriotism of the poet in the days when Napoleon's armies threatened to crush out German independence. The speaker pointed out how the manly, freedom-loving spirit of the erstwhile gentle poet encouraged his countrymen to battle on for liberty. Schiller, said Mr. Schramm, was the George Washington of the German people, and left a name enrolled on the Fatherland's page of civil history quite as bright as that which is inscribed upon the roll of letters.

Dr. A. J. Barchfeld was toastmaster and was the only English speaker. Simon Seiferth, president of the society, in bidding his guests welcome, declared that even President Roosevelt sometimes added German words to his vocabulary and could quote Schiller in the poet's native tongue. This was an instance, said Mr. Seiferth, that the muse of the Fatherland's national poet was keyed to sing to all generations and to patriots in all climes.

Three hundred German-Americans sat at the tables and enjoyed a characteristic German supper, which was served by W. F. Hammel. Economy in time was gained by proceeding with the music and oratory while the repast was served. A male chorus, directed by Prof. Ernest Gotthelf, and a sextet composed of Mrs. T. Huber, Miss C. Wolf and Messrs. W. Schneider, T. Schmidt, J. Rosenkamp and L. Schuster, furnished the vocal music, with the accompaniment of the State band.

Tableau scenes from the drama of "William Tell" were produced on the stage of the Forbes street Turner hall last night by local talent in the Central Turnverein, the leading roles being essayed by W. Fischer and Miss Elizabeth Adrian. The principal address was delivered by Max Forker.

Allegheny Germans Celebrate.

The Allegheny Germans held an immense meeting in Allegheny Turner hall. On the stage, with the embellishment of elaborate scenery and costumes, all of the leading characters from the works of Schiller were faithfully impersonated by the members of the Turnverein and their ladies. With the accompaniment of Rossini's music, it seemed that the people of Schiller had been endowed with life and brought to earth to share the pride of mortals in doing homage to the memory of their creator.

Prof. H. H. Fick, assistant superintendent of the public schools in Cincinnati, made an address lauding the poet and the principles of civil liberty for which he struggled until the time of his death. H. C. Bloedel greeted the visitors on behalf of the Allegheny Turnverein. A luncheon was served at the conclusion of the stage performance.

At the chapel exercises in the Western University of Pennsylvania yesterday morning a portrait of Schiller was presented to the school by Prof. Ferdinand Berger of the department of German history.

MR. CHOATE IS NOW BENCHER

ONLY AMERICAN MEMBER

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON May 9.—Ambassador Choate was formally called to the bench of the middle temple tonight. The ceremony was strictly private, not even members of other inns of court being present. The function took the form of an ordinary dinner in the old dining hall, which Queen Elizabeth opened in 1570, and in which before Queen Elizabeth Shakespeare acted "As You Like It." Several rules were suspended tonight in honor of the American ambassador. The members, fully robed, took up places about bare oaken tables and the benchers tiled in, Mr. Choate leading the parade, although the newest member is usually last.

The benchers passed down the center of the assembly to a raised table. The usual simple meal was served. The benchers afterward retired to the parliament chamber for dessert, Mr. Choate this time walking last. As he passed the members' table, the assembly cheered continuously, many old lawyers in their enthusiasm jumping on top of the wooden tables. At the door Mr. Choate turned and faced the assembly and said they knew it was not the custom for a bencher to speak, and therefore he would not. Nevertheless, he spoke for 10 minutes, expressing appreciation of his reception and the honor of having his name enrolled among the names of the great men of the middle temple. The entire proceedings occupied only half an hour.

Mr. Choate was elected a master of the bench of the middle temple, on April 10, this being the first time in several generations that the honor has been conferred on other than an English subject. Five signers of the declaration of independence were in the middle temple, but since that time, with the exception of Mr. Choate, no American has been a member. The election took place at a full meeting on the proposal of Sir Ralph Littler, chairman of the Middlesex quarter sessions, and another member moved that all standing rules and orders be suspended for this occasion. The greatest enthusiasm was shown, and the ambassador was elected by unanimous vote.

RESCUE HOME OBSERVES ITS SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

Many Donations Are Received—Striving for Funds to Create an Industrial Department.

The sixth anniversary of the opening of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Rescue home was celebrated yesterday afternoon and evening by the board of managers, who received at the home, 12 Third avenue. During the day many donations were sent in for the work of the institution, and in the afternoon and the evening a large number of people found their way to the house in Third avenue, between Liberty street and the Wabash railroad. A building fund for the erection of a new building which may be an industrial department where the girls and women may be taught means of self-support is now the aim of the managers, and all the money which will be received, unless otherwise especially designated, will be used for this purpose. Five thousand is needed to start this work, and the donations received yesterday will be used for this purpose, but much more is needed.

There are now 12 inmates of the home, and no one is ever turned away. The managers are anxious to teach the girls cooking and sewing and other domestic arts, which will be of practical value to them, and for this purpose want to establish the industrial department as soon as possible. The home is a comfortable old house, prettily papered and furnished. On the upper floors, because of the limited space, some of the rooms have three or four beds in them. Under the encouragement given by the managers, some of the girls have become trained nurses and others are clerks in stores and maids in homes in the East End.

The managers include the president, Mrs. J. W. Sproul; Mrs. William Powers, Mrs. George Sheppard, Mrs. Henry Whitmer, Mrs. McChesney, Mrs. Drum and Mrs. Waltmyer. There is an advisory board consisting of James W. Kinnear, J. W. Sproul, William Powers, William Dunn, George Sheppard, Henry Whitmer and Mr. McChesney. A committee consisting of Mrs. Sproul, Mrs. Powers and Mrs. Sheppard went to Harrisburg a few weeks ago and presented the needs of the institution, which has since received a state appropriation. Mrs. George Sheppard is secretary and chairman of the finance committee.

CHURCH HAS LARGE CLAIM.

Government Is Charged Over $1,000,000 for Military Occupation of Catholic Property in Philippines.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Secretary Taft has been informed by Mgr. Falconia, the apostolic delegate to the United States, that a number of claims arising from the use by the United States troops of church property in the Philippines during the period of military occupation, amounting to a million or a million and a half, have been presented here.

The secretary cabled the Philippine commission for information concerning these claims, and was informed that they had been turned over to Maj.-Gen. Wade, who was in command at the time the claims were presented there. The secretary will make an inquiry of Gen. Wade, now commanding officer of the Atlantic division, with headquarters at New York, concerning them.

JEWS FIGHT CHRISTIANS.

Retaliate When Attacked, and 12 Persons Are Killed and 50 Wounded.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 9.—The report in circulation here last night that there had been a massacre of Jews at Zhitomir, government of Volhynia, Southwestern Russia, is confirmed in a dispatch to the Novosti, which says the rioting began May 7 and continued 48 hours. Orthodox Christians fell upon the Jews in the streets. The Jews were armed and fought their assailants, 12 persons being killed and 50 wounded.

Private dispatches from Zhitomir attributed the attack upon the Jews to articles in M. Kroushevan's paper. On Sunday the Jews telegraphed to friends in St. Petersburg to ask the authorities to take strong measures for their protection and orders to that effect were sent. A renewal of the fighting was expected today.

CHILD TRAINERS IN CONVENTION

Well-Attended Meeting of the Allegheny County Sabbath School Association.

SOME THOUGHTFUL SPEECHES

The sixteenth annual convention of the Allegheny County Sabbath School association was held yesterday in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church. Not a seat was unoccupied, there being an unprecedented attendance of ministers, Sunday school superintendents, teachers and visitors. There were three sessions, morning, afternoon and night.

The services began at 9:30 a. m., the Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh presiding. The devotional exercises were led by the Rev. J. A. Duff of Aspinwall. James W. Kinnear, president of the association, made an address, referring to the great interest and enthusiasm manifested all through the year and urging that even better work be done during the current twelvemonth.

Miss Antoinette Lamoreaux of Chicago, a child study specialist, spoke on "The Crisis of a Boy's Life." She warned parents to watch the nature of their boys' reading, much of the boy's "literature" scattered throughout the country being light and frivolous and even worse. Boys of 12 and 14 were highly impressionable, and if they were carefully looked after at that age much good would be accomplished.

Hymns Sung Between Speeches.

William C. Lilley spoke on "The Place Temperance Has in a Boy's Training," and the Rev. L. W. Halner on "The Sunday School in the Home." Between the speeches gospel hymns were sung, the singing being led by Oliver D. Forney. W. S. Power led the general conference, which began at noon.

The devotional exercises opening the afternoon session were led by the Rev. A. J. Turkle, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, Allegheny. Miss Lamoreaux spoke on "Habit Formation." "Just as a 'skyscraper' must have strong steel girders," she said, "so must the girders for the foundation of the living life be stout. God's time for putting these girders into character was early in the life of the child. Give the child the good thought and the good feeling would grow and in time the good habit would form."

W. G. Landess of Philadelphia, field secretary of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School association, spoke on "The Evangelistic Teacher." If Sunday school teachers would do their work well, he said, they must study the personality of the child, its likes and its dislikes.

Executive Board Enlarged.

The association adopted a constitutional amendment increasing the number of the executive board from five to six. The report of the treasurer showed receipts of the year amounting to $5,678 80, and disbursements of $5,316 64, leaving a balance of $357 16.

Short addresses on division work were made by Miss Alice R. Hamlin, Miss Anna Law and D. W. Wylie.

The following officers were elected: President, James W. Kinnear; first vice president, the Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh; second vice president, W. H. Graham; secretary, H. E. Carmack; treasurer, Peter Dick; executive board, H. J. Heinz, Samuel Young, W. S. Horner, the Rev. Dr. C. P. Wiles, the Rev. Dr. D. L. Ferris and the Rev. Dr. A. J. Turkle.

Resolutions were adopted recommending that trained Sunday school teachers be secured, that a chair be established in theological institutions to teach teachers, that each superintendent in Allegheny county ally himself with the Superintendents' association, so that there may be concert of action. One resolution read:

We recomend, that as an association we express to the honorable the judges of our courts of common please our deep sense of appreciation of their action by which we now know the relationship that may exist between those holding official positions as servants of the people and those who hold licenses to sell intoxicating liquors.

Other recommendations were that steps be taken to institute a pledge-signing campaign, and that the newspaper organ of the association be supported.

The evening session was presided over by William C. Lilley, and the Rev. Dr. D. L. Ferris, co-pastor of the Calvary Episcopal church, led the prayers. Robert E. Speer of New York, secretary of the board of foreign missions of the presbyterian church, spoke on "The Personal Relation of the Teacher to Christ."

READY FOR THE START OF THE GREAT OCEAN RACE

Commodore George Lauder, Jr., Makes a Flying Visit Home Before Crossing the Ocean.

Commodore George Lauder, Jr., of the Indian Harbor Yacht club, spent the day at his father's home yesterday, arriving in the morning and returning to Greenwich last night. Commodore Lauder is a conspicuous figure in the yachting world just now, as his yacht Endymion is entered in the great ocean race for the German emperor's cup, which starts from Sandy Hook lightship next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, in which 11 yachts are engaged. The goal is the Lizard, the southwest point of England.

Mr. Lauder said yesterday that Dr. Henry C. Rowland, the authors Jasper M. Rowland, Richard Armstrong and John R. Buchan would go as his guests. Capt. James A. Loesch will be the skipper of his yacht. After the race Mr. Lauder said he will take part in the Heligoland and Kiel races. During the latter races the German emperor will personally present the cup to the winner of the ocean race.

The road to the Lizard is familiar to Capt. Loesch, as he has been across many times. It was he who gave the Endymion the ocean record of 13 days, 20 hours. The Endymion is a dangerous one in the coming race if the winds have fair strength. Her masts have been taken out and restepped and lead to the extent of three tons has been placed inside to add to her behavior in ugly seas, while new topmasts, new gaffs and new spinnaker booms have been provided. Her gear is as capable of withstanding great strains as it is possible to have it. A victory in this quatrer is not unlooked for.

A HANDSOME ITINERARY.

Committee of American Railway Association Ready for Tours of International Railway Congress.

If every committee of the American Railway association in charge of the tour of the International Railway congress makes as great a success of its efforts as has been accomplished by the committee on itinerary, it is an easy surmise that a greatly pleased lot of men will leave to bid farewell at the last meeting. The "short tour" and the "long tour" were described in a late issue of The Gazette. A notable handsome booklet of 80 pages and a map has been prepared by the "committee on itinerary" to be the guide for both tours. The party is entire as far as Pittsburgh, arriving here on the evening of Monday, May 15, and spending Tuesday, May 16, in this city. Here they divide and on leaving Tuesday evening part of the guests go over the Panhandle and Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern to Cincinnati and St. Louis, and thence to Chicago and over the Grand Trunk to Buffalo, Albany and New York. The others leave here for Cleveland and go over the Lake Shore to Buffalo, Albany, Boston and New York.

The "committee on itinerary" has set this all forth most clearly. The members of the committee are Theodore N. Ely, chairman; George W. Boyd, vice chairman; Charles M. Hays, Fairfax Harrison and W. F. Allen.

PLANNING THE PLUMBING.

Details of the Home of the Carnegie "Tech" Are Being Settled.

Detailed plans for the plumbing and heating system of the Carnegie Technical schools' buildings were under consideration by the "Tech" committee yesterday morning. Bids will be asked in a few weeks and contracts let in time for the proper installation of the apparatus as the work of construction progresses.

It is said the contractors for the "Tech's" home are now three days ahead of the schedule. The Carnegie Steel Company has begun the delivery of the structural steel for the framework and the granite is also being placed on the ground.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Manager Clarke began a batting rally in the ninth inning which enabled Pittsburgh to tie the score and Fred's hit in the 10th, followed by singles by Beaumont, Howard and Wagner, gave the former champions a victory over the Phillies 9 to 6 in the opening game of the series today. Clarke's splendid throw to the plate of McGee's fly in the seventh inning, heading off Gleason and completing a double play, saved the day.

Howard, who replaced Clymer in right field, pending an investigation by President Pulliam, of the row with Blankenship, was a big aid in landing the victory. Howard put the ball over the right wall into Broad street for a home run in the seventh inning, and after advancing Clarke to third base by a two bagger that hit the right field screen in the ninth, scored the tying run a moment later on Clancy's two-base hit. Leever pitched the first three innings, but was wild and gave way to Lynch.

Clarke began the game by walking, Beaumont sent him to third with a two-bagger down the left foul line, and Howard walked, filling the bases. Wagner struck out. Clarke scored on Clancy's out. The Phillies gathered four runs in their half. Thomas singled to left. Clancy lost Gleason's pop fly in the sun, but caught Thomas at second. Courtney struck out. McGee was allowed to walk. Wagner fumbled Titus' hot grounder and the bases were full. Ritchey allowed Abbott's easy grounder to go through his legs and Gleason and McGee scored. Wagner attempted to stop Doolin's hard grounder on the run, but the ball bounded away from him and Doolin was safe, Titus and Abbott scoring.

Pittsburgh scored their second run in the second inning. Peitz walked, went to third on Clarke's single and scored on Doolin's wild throw of Beaumont's grounder. Howard added the third run with his home run into Broad street. The Phillies scored another run in the sixth. Doolin beat out a bunt and ran to second on Doolin's sacrifice. Doolin stole third base and scored on Peitz' wild throw to McBride trying to catch Mike napping.

With the score 5 to 3 in the ninth inning in the Phillies' favor, Clarke began with a single to right. Beaumont flied to Thomas. Howard doubled to right, sending Clarke to third base. Fred scored on Wagner's out and Howard tallied on Clancy's two-bagger to left. Pittsburgh won in the tenth. Peitz was retired, Doolin to Abbott. Lynch bunted and ran to second on Doolin's wild throw. Clarke singled. Beaumont sent Lynch home with a hit to right field. Howard scored Clarke with a single and ran to second on Thomas' return of the ball, scoring on Wagner's single to center. A wild throw by Wagner gave the Phillies a run in the tenth.

McBride was applauded for a fine stop and throw of Doolin's grounder in the eighth. Manager Clarke received notice from President Pulliam that Otis Clymer is suspended pending an investigation of the row with Blankenship at Exposition park on Monday. The score:

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Philadelphia's costly errors when men were on bases and their inability to hit Townsend at critical moments today, decided the final game of the series in Washington's favor and placed the local team at the head of the American league. Townsend received fine support. Cassidy stopped a line drive in the last inning and recovered in time to retire the runner, making one of the prettiest plays of the season. Schreck's finger was injured by a pitched ball in the second inning, and he was forced to retire. Miss Alice Roosevelt was an interested spectator. Attendance 6,149. Score:

STOLEN DIAMONDS PASS THROUGH MANY HANDS

Arrest of Negro Couple Uncovers Tale of Theft and Vile Depravity.

Maggie Bertley and William Abel, negroes, were arrested in this city yesterday by Detectives R. A. Reed, of Cincinnati, and Cole and Eagan, of this city. They are being held awaiting instructions from Cincinnati whether to take one or both back. They are wanted for the larceny of $1,000 worth of diamond rings, taken from A. E. Burkhart, at Cincinnati, March 29 last.

Lexington Emery, a negro, who is under arrest at Cincinnati, was working for Burkhart and stole the jewels. He gave them to Opal Wallace, a colored woman, who is also under arrest at Cincinnati. The Wallace woman tired of Emory, and gave the diamonds to Thomas Gibson. The latter came to this city and was arrested several weeks ago. Prior to Gibson's arrest he in turn tired of the Wallace woman and gave the jewels to Maggie Bertley, and she, in her turn, grew tired of Gibson and gave the jewels to Abel.

Abel returned to Cincinnati two weeks ago and was arrested there. He told the police that if he was taken to Pittsburgh he would assist the police to recover the diamonds. Detective Reed and Abel arrived here yesterday morning. Abel was sent out to bring in the woman. He did not make his appearance at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and Reed became uneasy and with Eagan and Cole went in search of him.

Abel was found with the Bertley woman at 24 Cherry alley, and the negroes were just leaving the house with their baggage. The diamonds were not recovered. The Bertley woman denies that Abel returned the jewels to her. Abel was promised his liberty if he recovered the diamonds, but as he failed to do so, and attempted to deceive the officers, they are holding him.

$4,000 IS VOTED TO HELP IN IMPROVING FRIENDSHIP

The Central board of education last night decided to make the improvements at Friendship park which were outlined in The Gazette some time ago. The park will be enlarged, and when completed, will be one of the very best for athletic purposes in Western Pennsylvania. At last night's meeting $4,000 was voted the athletic committee. This money will be used toward defraying the necessary expenses toward completing the improvements.

Work will be started soon on the new grandstand, which will seat 1,600 persons comfortably, and then the bleachers on either side of the field will be erected. Shower baths will be installed under the grandstand. The fence will be moved back into Friendship avenue, where there is 617 feet, which will be taken into the park.

George W. Gosser, chairman of the athletic committee, has worked for some years to get Friendship park into this state for the schoolboy athletes, and he has been ably assisted by Prof. H. B. Cooper.

The Allegheny High school won yesterday from Allegheny Prep, at Millvale, 2 to 1. Both Weger and Reiter pitched excellent ball. The light batting, however, was chiefly due to a wet ball. A triple play nipped Prep's chances in the first, when it had a man on first and second. A. H. S.'s runs came in the fourth, when R. Weger and Mason were hit by pitcher. Billinger was safe on a fielder's choice, and these three scored on slow infield outs. Score:

College and School.

Kummer will probably pitch for Pittsburgh college this afternoon against Braddock on the college campus.

The Juniors won the Harvard interclass games Monday. In the pole vault, A. G. Grant won his event at 10 feet 9 inches, and afterwards in an exhibition trial, cleared 11 feet. Another star performance was that of W. G. Howard, '07, in the two-mile run, the most exciting event of the afternoon. Howard was 30 yards behind on the last stretch, but sprinted and all but beat out Dick Grant at the tape. King, who won the event against Yale last year, was a close third. In the half mile run, W. W. Whitman, the tennis and football player, won his first race in the good time of 2 minutes 3 2-5 seconds, and in the sprints, L. P. Dodge, a Freshman, again asserted his strength, winning the 220 yards event and finished a close second to Capt. Schick in the shorter event.

"CARMEN" IN ENGLISH BY THE SAVAGE COMPANY

Bizet's opera is Carmen, the gypsy sorceress, and Carmen is the soul and body of the stage story, whether it be sung or acted. By the realization of this now famous role must the opera really stand or fall, despite its exquisite and sometimes daringly fantastic music score. There are Carmens and Carmens. Miss Marion Ivell, who sang the role first in Pittsburgh last spring, and who repeated it last night at the Nixon, is one of the Carmens in whom there is blended vast possibilities with vast crudities. This young singer has won her way to the front in critical favor. She is one of Mr. Savage's finds in the forest of American music genius, and has become one of his most brilliant stars. These things cannot be without cause, and have not been merely in response to managerial behest. The singer is a handsome bundle of contradictions. Her voice is her chief, I was almost ready to say, her only great equipment, but that would hardly be fair. In this particular her work shows decided improvement. She sings Carmen with more vocal assurance, greater depth of expression and tonal ease. Her enunciation is nearly always clear and distinct, for a voice of the peculiar timbre that she possesses. It is a contralto that uses the larynx and is brought forth with striking force and evenness of sound and melody. I cannot believe, however, that Miss Ivell's voice is all that it might become. There is a suggestion of arrested development, a rough edge here and there, and a faint echo of flatness in both the crescendo and pianissimo passages, indeed, it is only when Miss Ivell sings the middle register that the full sweetness and power of her voice is felt and appreciated. Here is wonderful in sonority and smoothness, and you are beginning to hear a really great contralto singer in your mind's eye. Then, without warning, some vocal gaucherie will break the spell, and you will wonder if it can be the same voice.

This mingled praise and blame, ecstacy of pleasure and shock of disappointment, are fund in Miss Ivell's mimetic interpretation of the role to even a greater extent. Here are found a warmth and color, a dramatic reserve power and suggestion that are truly fascinating, together with an awkwardness of movement, a crudeness of conception and an almost coarseness, at times, of posture and demeanor, that suggest either a natural and inherent lack of proper conception of the part, or else an only partially successful effort to break away from physical ungracefulness. Carmen was of Andalusian extraction, and her creator planted within her all the graces and fascinations that belong to the race of dark-eyed seducers. Miss Ivell suggests these, but always with constraint. Her stride is suggestive more of the Bowery at times than of Seville or Granada. Her voluptuousness is rich and eye-pleasing, but she gives it too frequently the mental poise of diminutive Egypt, not old Spain. These are the perplexing contradictions in the Carmen of Miss Ivell. They make it impossible that her present conception and interpretation of the role shall be regarded as either a great piece of dramatic artistry or a consummate work of vocal beauty. And yet, behind these, or, rather, seen through them and at times above them, is a fullness of vocal promise that entitles this young woman to the warmest praise, and a dramatic power and reserve that suggest dynamic possibilities when the sensuousness shall become the handmaid of art, and the psychology of Carmen shall have been assimilated in the alembic of broader and more finished stage culture.

In other respects the "Carmen" of last night was highly pleasing. Jean Lane Brooks as Micaela, displayed a voice of great clarity and beauty of tone. She sings also with rare sympathy and expression. Mr. Wegener's Don Jose was vocally effective, though dramatically a little too robust and unbending. His love song in the wine shop of Lillas Pastia was a beautifully executed piece of vocalism, showing both intense dramatic feeling and cultured vocal power. Mr. Arthur Deane, the new baritone, who sang Escamillo, lacks distinction in both his singing and acting, though his voice is a good one. He suffers from a trick of exhausting his lungs too rapidly, which weakens his crescendo passages. He has spirit and dash, though, that gave color to the role, and won a number of encores. In chorus the "Carmen" production showed improvement over the preceding night. The voices are all fresh and strong, if not always well trained. Conductor Schenck was one bright and vivid spot in last night's performance. He is an electric battery, and keeps in closest touch with his players. It was a well directed score, containing both alert intelligence and keen music discernment. This afternoon "Lohengrin" and tonight "Tosca."

HOT ELECTION IN WIMODAUSIS

Woman's Club Upheld All the Traditions of the Seventh Ward Politics.

FOUR-HOUR SESSION IS HELD

Members of the Wimodausis club danced a modest little jig last night, when they reached an adjournment in their annual meeting and election of officers. For more than four hours they sat in star-chamber session in Syria temple. The election, the counting of the ballots and the formal inauguration of the new administration, all was accomplished in a single afternoon. The Knights of Malta had the hall hired for a ball last night, and it was not until the report was spread that the knights were marching in a body from the Monongahela House, that the motion to adjourn was voted on. As the last of the women filed out of the temple, the vanguard of the merry-makers began to arrive for the joys of the dance.

It was a sharply-contested election, the struggle being centered between the candidates for the offices of president, first vice president and for membership upon the board of directors. Every eligible elector in the club was on hand, and the hall was crowded. A separate ballot box for each office was placed before the voters and about 2 o'clock the polls were opened.

It was a coincidence that the election was held in the Seventh ward, which for so long has been noted for its strenuous political battles. That the club had found the proper atmosphere for an exciting contest soon was apparent. Around the numerous ballot boxes were a multitude of tellers, watchers and inspectors. The ladies declared that it was charming to have a spirited election and that the monotony of the meeting would be relieved by jolly competition.

The fact is, that some well-seasoned old Seventh ward politicians could have profited by a course of instruction from the women voters. Every member entering the room was registered and her name checked up in business-like fashion. Then the pressing and fatal question about the payment of dues was asked. An affirmative reply was confirmed by an examination of the books. When everything was found satisfactory, the member was admitted.

It was a tedious count. The ballot boxes which were pasteboard collar receptacles with slits cut in the tops, were crammed to over-flowing when the tellers began their arduous task. Late in the afternoon the tellers reported the election of the following candidates:

President, Mrs. John H. Armstrong; first vice president, Mrs. William E. Gelston; second vice president, Mrs. John Porter; treasurer, Miss Lulu Yoder; recording secretary, Miss Mary Steel; corresponding secretary, Mrs. D. J. Evans; chaplain, Mrs. C. P. Linhart; directors, Mrs. Reese Lindsay, Mrs. Rufus Martin, Mrs. George P. Goodwin, Mrs. James Sprague, Mrs. Louis Rott, Mrs. Charles E. Smith, Mrs. J. J. Green, Mrs. S. D. Clark.

Mrs. Armstrong's opponent was Mrs. Charles Aufhammer, and opposing Mrs. Gelston for the office of first vice president, were Mrs. E. L. Hunt and Mrs. James E. Orr. Mrs. John A. Reed and Mrs. Linhart were candidates for the office of chaplain. It was 8:30 o'clock when the tellers finished the count in the directorship contest, and the 10 successful candidates were named out of the 10 who had been nominated. There were still a score of members left out of the 191 who had voted, and the motion to adjourn was greeted by the modest little jig aforesaid.

The retiring president, Mrs. W. J. Askin, was presented with a beautiful jeweled club pin, the presentation speech being made by Mrs. W. A. Lincoln, past president.

"We're just as hungry as wolves," said some of the ladies as they left the hall, "but it was such a delightfully enjoyable meeting. I never attended a meeting where there was so much harmony. It was really a treat to be here, and I only regret that we could not admit the reporters, so they could see for themselves that harmony, cordiality, friendship and bliss were the keynotes of this noble meeting."

The treasurer of the organization reported between $12,000 and $13,000 in the treasury, but the auditing of the books is not yet completed as there are still several sums of money to be turned in. During the past year 20 new members have been received into the club, making its membership roll now over 400. Under the direction of Mrs. Charles E. Smith, the chairman of the social committee, a series of very successful entertainments has been given, which has materially increased the building fund for the proposed club house. The past year altogether has been a very successful one, and under its president, Mrs. Askin, the club has reached a broader plane and is a recognized factor among the women's clubs of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, and is extending its work in civic and philanthropic directions. Yesterday it appropriated $50 to the summer playgrounds. Other appropriations have been made during the last few weeks for the juvenile court, the Soho public baths, besides the donation of trees for the recreation parks, and for other objects in which the club women are interested.

TWELVE YELLOW FEVER CASES ON ISTHMUS

Bahaman Laborers Dislike Conditions, Refuse to Work and Complain at British Consulate.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

COLON, May 9.—It is officially reported that on May 7 the percentage of various sicknesses of canal employes was 1.3. Today there are twelve cases of yellow fever in hospitals.

Fifty Bahaman contract laborers, who were brought here on the American steamer Advance last Friday and who were detailed to work at the Colon reservoir, obstinately refuse to work, claiming that they have to work in mud swamps, and that their huts are not fit to live in and that their food is unsatisfactory.

The islanders marched in a body yesterday to the British consulate and laid complaints before the vice consulate, who is looking into their alleged grievances. In the meantime the men are idle. The canal authorities are finding it difficult to obtain labor for that locality.

GOTHAM LAWYER TESTIFIES.

Defense for Gaynor and Greene Trying to Prove Offense Is Not Extraditable.

MONTREAL, May 9.—It was made known before Judge Lafontaine today that it is the purpose of the defense in the Gaynor-Greene case to show that their offense, if proven, is not extraditable. They will call a number of prominent United States lawyers, the first of whom, Abram J. Ross of New York, testified to that effect today.

They will also endeavor to prove that the defendants are charged with conspiring in Georgia, while if there was such a conspiracy they claim it was consummated in New York.

McSlay May Be Reduced.

Inspector McSlay and seven officers will be arraigned before the police trial board this morning on charges of violation of the police rules. Director Moore lodged a charge against McSlay, and it is thought that officer will be reduced in the ranks. Lieut. Werner of the South Thirteenth street station house will be appointed as inspector to succeed McSlay.

"Me, Him and I."

Next week "Me, Him and I" will again be at the Duquesne theater. The rollicking skit made a hit when here a few weeks ago, and the comedians, Nickel, Watson and Wrothe will not be forgotten. Musical comedy has had a great vogue the past few years and "Me, Him and I" is one of the best and all of new stuff.

Among the Clubs.

Celebrated Birthdays.

The Clover Leaf club, an organization of 25 little girls in Lawrenceville, yesterday held a porch party. It was conducted at the Lawrenceville branch of the Young Woman's Christian association, and was a surprise to Mrs. Fannie Siefer, the secretary in charge at the branch, as well as being a celebration of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Siefer and three of the members of the club, Marie McCracken, Harriet Nelson and Margaret Cameron. It was a very happy afternoon for the little girls and the four guests of honor, whose birthday anniversaries they were observing. To Mrs. Siefer they presented a book, Gordon's "Quiet Talks on Prayer." Tea was served with ice cream, cake and fruit. This club of girls was organized two years and a half ago, when the branch work was inaugurated in Lawrenceville. During the past year the girls have been making scrap-books to send to the hospitals, the object of the club being to help others. At Easter time they made and sent remembrances to many of the little girls and boys who are shut in by sickness.

Read Papers on Colonial Period.

The members of the Lawrenceville New Century club will continue their study of colonial and revolutionary history, particular reference being made to that history of Western Pennsylvania, during the coming year. The program for the meeting of the club yesterday afternoon, which was held in the Lawrenceville branch of the Young Women's Christian association, was devoted to history of the intercolonial wars, Miss Clementine Whyte being the leader. "Washington, the Virginia Surveyor," was pictured by Miss Katherine Hoerr; Miss Riggs read a paper on Frontenac, and Miss Carrie Ziegler discussed the French and Indian war. The president of the club, Mrs. J. J. Covert, presided. The next meeting will be the annual business meeting for the election of officers.

South During the War.

The Woman's club of Ben Avon met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. M. Lee, Church avenue, Ben Avon. The guests were Mrs. George W. Emmons and Mrs. Harry M. Giles, both of Wilkinsburg. The former, although a northern woman, was in the south during the civil war, and she gave an interesting account of experiences during that period. She spoke particularly of the life of Miss Elizabeth Van Lew of Richmond, Va., who was an active southern partizan. A paper was also read by Mrs. William Flaccus on "Student Life at Oxford."

Meeting of New Brighton Club.

The Woman's club of New Brighton will hold its annual meeting this afternoon at the home of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Wendt. Annual reports will be presented by the officers and committees and the election of officers for the coming year held. The retiring officers are the president, Miss Jessie Cuthbertson; vice president, Mrs. James D. Moorhead; recording secretary, Miss Elizabeth Wilde; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Agnes Scott Wendt; treasurer, Mrs. W. Albert Myler.

Will Hold Lawn Fete in July.

The Ladies' Aid society of the South Side hospital held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the hospital, when arrangements were made for the annual lawn fete. This will be held in Southern Park July 14.

Hackett in Two Roles.

James K. Hackett, who comes to the Nixon theater next Monday for a week's engagement, will be seen in the two new plays that he is to present, in strange, contrasting roles. In "The Fortunes of the King" Mr. Hackett will appear as the dashing, valiant, light-hearted Charles Stuart. In "The House of Silence" he will impersonate a French peasant, low-born, passionate and almost insane with his love for a woman of a higher social scale than his own.

NEWS OF THE NEARBY TOWNS AND COUNTRY

COMPANY TO SPEND TWENTY MILLIONS

Carnegie Concern Will Make Extensive Improvements at Youngstown, O.

WORK FOR 3,000 MORE MEN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 9.—Twenty million dollars is the amount which will be spent here by the Carnegie Steel Company in enlarging the Ohio plant. The plans provide for the covering of the Mahoning river front from the Trumbull county line, down the river for a distance of two miles to the Erie bridge for the Garfield branch. It covers the entire line of the company's property and will make the local plant one of the most important of the Carnegie plants. It will be larger than the ones at Braddock or South Chicago. The plans provide for five blast furnaces in addition to the four already in operation; 50 open hearth furnaces with a capacity of 100 tons a day, and five or six large mills. There will be a large slabbing mill; a plate mill, probably 12-inch, with a capacity of 200,000 tons a year, and also structural mills.

The additions to the plant will require the services of 3,000 men additional to the 2,300 now employed at the plant. It will add to the city's population 15,000 people and to the payroll of the city $150,000 a month.

The entire cost of the plant at the present time is $7,000,000. This includes the four furnaces, the Bessemer plant, with the blooming mill, bar and rail mill and the rail finishing mill. It is proposed to build four of the furnaces in a line with the four now in operation and extending towards the Trumbull county line. The fifth furnace will be placed on the other side of the stacks in operation. The open hearth furnaces will be placed in rows, parallel to the present bessemer plant. Direct process from the stacks to the open hearth furnaces will of course be used, half furnace metal and half scrap being necessary. The reason given for building these additions in Youngstown is that the Pittsburgh district is almost entirely filled up. There is no more room at Braddock, Duquesne or Homestead, and Youngstown affords an ideal location.

The company at the present time is completing its south yards in the Ohio plant, which will be an enormous addition to the handling material capacity. One of the things most desired by the company in making the proposed improvements is the rebuilding of the Credit Mobilier bridge at Manning street and throwing it across the tracks to the hill on the south side of the river in order to clear the plant. This would afford the company an opportunity to encircle the entire plant with its tracks, building them on the river front as is desired. This proposition has been made to the county commissioners, and there are many arguments why it should be adopted.

At the present time, the Ohio plant, while not so large, has many advantages over the Braddock and the South Chicago plants. It is possible to change from billets to timbar, sheetbar or rails, while at the other plants it is necessary to roll rails altogether. This is one of the reasons why the plant here has been in operation continuously.

CEMETERY COMPANY HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Incorporators of Uniondale Hear Reports for Year and Elect Officers.

At the annual meeting of the incorporators of Uniondale cemetery, Allegheny, held yesterday afternoon, reports for the year were submitted, the old officers were re-elected, and two vacancies on the board of trustees were filled. Among the improvements made was the erection of a shelter house, a chapel and a new granite gateway.

Excellent sport is assured all who take advantage of a trip to this magnificent territory which is situated 300 miles north of the city of Toronto, at an altitude of 1,000 feet above the sea. Culp, two well-known citizens of Washington county, were committed to jail here tonight, being unable to furnish bail in the sum of $500 each. Beale is a hotel keeper at New Kensington. At present he is without a license, his application having been held over at license court on account of a charge of selling liquor on Sunday. The case came up for hearing today and after an all-day trial he was found not guilty, but was required to pay the costs.

Beale alleged that his presence in court was attributable altogether to a long-standing grievance held against him by Dr. Speck and Culp. When Beale learned they were here he had them arrested on a charge of conspiracy.

Aultman Plant Is Sold.

CANTON, O., May 9.—The Canton plant of the Aultman company, which failed several months ago, was sold today to E. G. Thilosion, president of the Cleveland Trust Company, who represented the credit committee, for $262,500. The lowest for which it could have been sold, under the appraisement, was $212,824. The sale does not include $72,556 worth of machinery and outstanding claims. The total liabilities of the concern are about $4,000,000. The creditors, it is stated, will get about 5 per cent of their claims.

Grading for Additional Tracks.

GREENSBURG, May 9.—(Special.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company yesterday put a force of 200 men at grading for an additional track from Youngwood to Boyd Run Junction, on the Sewickley branch, a distance of two miles. The double tracking of the Sewickley branch is the first step in the building of a cut-off from near the County Home junction to a point near Donohoe, which will shorten the distance for eastbound coke trains and avoid the heavy grades encountered at Southwest junction.

Quiet Day on Rivers.

Aside from the excursion of the rivers and harbors committee there was but little doing along the wharf yesterday. Everybody seemed to be off on the trip on the Island Queen. The Queen is Capt. John F. Klein's new boat and she received many compliments from those who made up the big party which traveled up the Monongahela.

Only one packet got in yesterday, the Rose Hite, from Morgantown. The Kanawha, which arrived from Charleston Monday, went out at 4 o'clock.

The Sam Clark got in with a big tow of empties yesterday morning. Everything is up now which can get up on this water and there will be no more arrivals until there is another rise. There is plenty of empty craft in the harbor to keep the river tubes going for another month or more.

TELEPHONE DEAL IS MADE.

Tri-State Concern Absorbs the Interests of the Monongahela Valley Company.

CONNELLSVILLE, May 9.—(Special.)—By a deal closed today the interest of the Monongahela Valley Telephone Company passed into the hands of the Tri-State Telephone Company. The Monongahela Valley company has 45 miles of lines in Jefferson, Redstone and Menallen townships, Fayette county.

A franchise has been secured in Bridgeport and the work of extending the lines to Bridgeport, Brownsville over the poles of the West Penn Lighting Company will be commenced at once. The Monongahela Valley lines will continue to be operated under the name of the Monongahela Valley Telephone Company, which was reorganized by the Tri-State directors today, they electing Judge R. E. Umbel president, and J. M. Core secretary.

WOMAN SEEKS THE REWARD.

NEW CASTLE, May 9.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mary Stewart, whose recognition of Rosewell Waite, the slayer of Policeman Skidmore, led to the fugitive's capture last week at Columbiana, O., called on Mayor Halner today to enlist his efforts in securing for her the $500 reward offered for Waite's apprehension.

W. M. Haag, town marshal of Columbiana and his deputy, James Shahl, are claiming the reward, but the local authorities will try to have the entire amount given to Mrs. Stewart. Haag and Shahl did not know why Waite was being arrested until Waite himself told them, after being locked up. Waite today mortgaged his home for $500 in order to secure funds to pay lawyers to defend him.

REPLY TO ANTI-TRUST SUIT.

International Harvester Company Asks That Service in Case Be Set Aside.

TIFFIN, O., May 9.—Ex-Judge W. B. Sanders of Cleveland, representing the International Harvester Company, in circuit court here today argued a motion to set aside the service in the suit recently brought by the prosecuting attorney of Wyandotte county, to oust the company from doing business in Ohio under the anti-trust law. The company avers that its agents served with process are not managing agents, as contemplated under the statute.

Former Attorney General Monnett and Judge Pugh, Columbus, and the Hon. Eliza Caster, appeared for the prosecution. The decision will not be handed down for several days.

FORGER SWINDLES THE EQUITABLE

EMPLOYE IS ALSO ACCUSED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

STROUDSBURG, May 9.—William Daly was arrested here today charged with grand larceny. It is alleged he stole $27,000 from an insurance company. A letter from Robert H. Elder, assistant district attorney of Kings county, N. Y., received by Sheriff Evans of this county, led to the arrest of Daly.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The man who was arrested at Stroudsburg, Pa., under the name of William Daly today is charged with the larceny of $27,000 from the Equitabe Life Assurance society in this city, by the use of a forged signature of a holder of a $50,000 policy and by conspiracy with an employe of the Equitable society. Daly's name is said by detectives to be Samuel Lobley, but he is alleged to have operated under the aliases of Edwards, Robert C Henderson and "Father" Smith.

In a statement issued by officials of the Equitable it was explained that William C. Cotton of Brookline, Mass., is the owner of a $50,000 policy in the Equitable society. In March, 1904, he borrowed $2,000 on it, depositing it with the society as a security for the loan. A few months later the officials say the policy was stolen from the vaults of the society by a trusted employe working in conjunction with Lobley, the books of the society containing a record of the previous loan were altered and Cotton's name was forged to an application for a loan of $27,000. The second loan was made, it is declared, to Lobley.

Last January, the officials say, the operation was repeated in part and a third loan would have been made if the paying teller of a bank had not held up on the Equitable society's check, suspecting that something was wrong and insisting upon identification. Lobley, alleged to have been the holder of the check, disappeared.

The name of his alleged confederate in the employ of the society has not been made public. Detectives will go to Pennsylvania after Lobley as soon as extradition papers are prepared.

Knights of Golden Eagle Meet.

YORK, PA., May 9.—The grand castle of the Knights of the Golden Eagle of Pennsylvania opened its annual session here today. Addresses and the conferring of the past grand chief's degrees occupied the first sessions. One hundred and forty temples of the grand temple of Pennsylvania, Ladies of the Golden Eagle, were represented at the session of that body. This afternoon a parade of uniformed knights was held.

Wagner Trial Is Postponed.

LIMA, O., May 9.—Judge Cunningham, who will occupy the bench at the trial of President Wagner and other officials of the defunct German National bank at Sidney, announced today that the serious illness of President Wagner made an indefinite postponement necessary. He notified counsel on both sides that he would not be present tomorrow, and that formal notice of the continuance could be given by Judge Mathers of Sidney.

Engineer Killed in Collision.

SPRINGFIELD, O., May 9.—(Special.)—Arthur Stafford, engineer of a Detroit Southern engine, was instantly killed today by a collision of his engine with one of the Big Four road, at the Lagonda crossing, near this city. His home was at Bluefield, W. Va.

Killed by His Brother.

COLUMBUS, O., May 9.—(Special.)—Charles G. Alman of Doanville, the man who was shot by his brother, Peck Alman, while acting as peacemaker at a saloon fight in a small village near Athens, died here today. Peck Alman, who did the shooting, is under arrest.

Pennsylvania Railroad Will Place Supplemental Rail Order

The Pennsylvania railroad will give a supplemental rail order, aggregating 35,000 tons, within the next few days. With the order given last winter for 102,500 tons, the aggregate tonnage of rails for the year will be 135,000 tons, or the largest given by any railroad in the world. The supplemental order will be apportioned between the Carnegie Steel Company, the Pennsylvania Steel Company and the Cambria Steel Company. The steel will be used in work that was not provided for in the construction and equipment list approved by the directors several weeks ago. While the officials have arranged for considerable new track, yet the larger portion of the rail order will be used in place of lighter rails on main lines and important branches.

Will Not Issue Passes.

Considerable friction was developed during the St. Louis exposition between eastern and western lines in regard to free transportation, and many complications resulted. To obviate a repetition of this situation in the case of the Portland exhibition, a consultation between prominent executors of the eastern and western lines has resulted in a virtual agreement against the issue of free transportation to and from points on the Pacific coast. This understanding will become effective at once, and there is every indication of a strict adherence to its conditions.

B. R. & P. Officials Here.

The officials of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad arrived last evening on their spring inspection of the lines. In the party were President A. G. Gates, Adrian Iselin, Jr., vice president; William H. Nosman, general superintendent; J. M. Floesch, chief engineer, and W. M. Roosevelt, a director. The officials remained in the city over night, and will leave this morning for New Castle, from whence they will return to headquarters at Rochester.

B. & O. Improving Bridges.

The Baltimore & Ohio is replacing many of its old bridges with new structures. On the Philadelphia division about 14 bridges are being remodeled, and between Allegheny and New Castle, four. A new bridge will be built at Elwood City to carry two tracks. It will be 180 feet long, with approaches of 360 feet. At Port Perry the present bridge, carrying four tracks, will be widened for two additional tracks.

Railroad Notes.

A special train will be run over the Pennsylvania lines for Albany, Ore., carrying members of the general missionary society of the United Presbyterian church. The train will leave May 20.

W. C. Copley, assistant freight trainmaster of the middle division of the Pennsylvania railroad, has been appointed superintendent of the terminals of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac at Washington, D. C.

On May 18 and 19 the Freight Traffic Clerks' association of the Pennsylvania lines will hold a meeting at Buffalo.

Headache

If subject to headache, take Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills when you feel the first indication of an attack, and you will find that they rarely ever fail to stop further progress.

Pain weakens the nerves, and the longer you suffer, the more frequent will be the attacks.

On the contrary, if the nerves are relieved of this weakening influence, the attacks will be less frequent, and finally disappear altogether.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills contain no opium, cocaine, morphine or chloral in any form. They are absolutely harmless if taken as directed, and will have no other effect, except to drive out the pain.

"Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are all right, and I can recommend them to any one in need of a remedy for headache, neuralgia, or pain of any kind. My health is not very good, and I am subject to frequent attacks of severe headache, but since I began taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills I do not suffer from that trouble as I used to. They never fail to give relief in a few minutes, and if taken promptly on the approach of headache will prevent an attack from coming on. Pain Pills prevent, as well as cure.

STOCKS DULL BUT FIRM, PRICES AVERAGING HIGHER

Buying by Foreigners a Feature, but the Total Sales Were the Smallest for Weeks—Local Stocks Were Stronger.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

There was a complete change in the temper of the stock market at home and abroad yesterday. Foreign government securities recovered all of Monday's decline, and London quotations for American securities were ½@1 per cent higher. The principal feature of the New York market was the heavy purchases for London account, estimated at more than 50,000 shares, principally Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Atchison and United States Steel issues. The apprehension in Europe over the situation in the far east seem to have disappeared over night, and despite the fact that every day brings closer the crisis in the war between Russia and Japan, yesterday was one of the days when financial circles appeared to be oblivious of the situation.

Wall street responded to the higher London quotations, and nearly everything on the list opened at an advance. The most conspicuous thing about the dealings, however, was the absence of selling pressure, indicating that liquidation was complete. For the first two hours the sales fell below 350,000 shares, and for the remaining three hours approximated only 200,000 shares. The total for the day was the smallest for weeks. That the rise in values did not tempt larger sales to take profits was accepted by the bulls as evidence that stocks are in stronger hands. The character of the dealings was largely professional. Observers of the market believe that the professional leaders are short of stocks. This would explain the case with which prices were advanced.

The largest gains in the industrial list were in Tennessee Coal and Iron, Amalgamated Copper and Rubber Goods. United States Steel issues closed ¾ per cent higher than on Monday and American Locomotive 1¼ per cent higher. The gas stocks were less active and fluctuated within narrow limits. The largest advance in the railroad list was in Northern Pacific, which opened higher at 181⅞, advanced to 183¾ and closed at 183½ bid. Buying of Union Pacific was of a good character and that stock closed 1¼ per cent higher for the day. Southern Pacific closed 1⅜ per cent higher. Rumor was current that this stock would receive a dividend this summer, and as control is held by Union Pacific, such action, if taken by the directors, would benefit Union Pacific. St. Paul and Atchison were also strong and higher.

The net gain in Pennsylvania amounted to only ⅛ per cent. The stock opened at 134½ and advanced to 135¼, but did not retain the gain. The action of Pennsylvania has been a great disappointment to the bulls, and is not entirely understood. On general principles the stock should have been a leader in the advance, inasmuch as the industries which contribute the bulk of the traffic of the system are reported to be unprecedented, and should show a corresponding increase in earnings over last year. Besides this, the company has just floated $100,000,000 3½ per cent convertible bonds. The latter were underwritten by a powerful syndicate, which, of course, did not take the bonds with the intention of holding them for an investment. On the contrary, it had been generally expected that this syndicate would have made the market value of the stock appear so attractive that the stockholders would have taken their full allotment of the bonds. As a matter of fact, it is said that the stockholders took only $10,000,000 of the total. The syndicate, however, apparently made no effort to manipulate the market for the stock, and it has remained below the parity of other stocks of its class. One of the weak features of the railroad list was Rock Island preferred, which opened at 74½ and sold off to 72¼, closing at 73. The common gained ⅝ per cent. These Rock Island issues have also been a disappointment to the bulls. Just before the close of the market there was a moderate reaction from the high prices of the afternoon, but the close was steady.

Call loan rates remained easy all day at 2½ to 2¾ per cent but just before the close declined to 2 per cent, and closed offered at that figure.

The government crop report, showing the condition of winter wheat on May 1, will be published after the close of the market today. The April condition was 91.6, and this high average is believed to have been maintained throughout last month. On May 1, last year, the average condition was 78.5, and at the close of the harvest was placed at 78.7. Everything at present indicates a much higher average condition than last year, and this is a substantial bull factor on stocks and an encouraging factor in the general business situation.

Out of 7,894 shares of stock handled on the Pittsburgh stock exchange, 5,000 shares consisted of a cheap mining stock. Despite the dullness in the general list, the tone of the market was firmer and prices averaged higher. Pittsburgh Coal common advanced to 18, and the preferred to 73, being helped by the announcement that the lake competitors of the company had withdrawn their cut rate on coal and advanced the price to the figure quoted by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. Crucible Steel preferred advanced a dollar a share to 63 and the common was a fraction higher. United States Steel stocks closed firm and higher. Westinghouse Electric advanced to 85½, while Air Brake held steady at 145. Pittsburgh Brewing common advanced to 27½ for the common and 47½ for the preferred on the announcement of the declaration of the regular quarterly dividends. Independent Brewing preferred advanced to 42. The remainder of the list was steady and unchanged.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH.

Westinghouse Electric higher at 85½. Airbrake steady at 145.

IN WALL STREET.

Stock market firmer and closed at good net gains.

London was a liberal buyer of American securities.

Total sales only 542,500 shares stock and $2,585,000 bonds.

Call loans easy all day and closed offered at 2 per cent.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The falling off in transactions in the New York stock market yesterday—the total sales were the smallest for any full day since early in the year—reflected the uncertainty of the professional leaders as to the trend of prices for the immediate future, and the continued apathy of the public for stocks, when bonds may be had on relatively more favorable terms. It is almost inexplicable that Wall street should be dominated just now by London. On Monday London was credited with sales of 40,000 shares and the market declined sharply. Yesterday London was credited with purchases of 50,000 shares, and the market rallied. The percentage of London's operations is so small compared with the total that it seems to be an exaggeration to credit it with dominating the market. Today's market is likely to be a waiting one, but if the government crop report comes up to expectations, tomorrow's market may respond thereto. However, the approach of the period for going into effect of the New York stock transfer tax has some influence in discouraging new commitments, as it is generally expected that professional trading operations will be hampered by the operation of the new law. The small inclination shown by Pennsylvania stockholders to subscribe to the new convertible bond issue, the application reaching only 10 per cent, is regarded as a symptom of the present satiety of demand for investment. It is noted in the same connection that a number of recent bond flotations are quoted in the market below the underwriting price.

For the second day there were no transactions in Manufacturers Light and Heat or the National Fire Proofing issues. Considering the fact that of these two stocks alone there are 670,000 shares outstanding, that these shares are well distributed, and that they formerly occupied a prominent place on the salesboard, it is no less than remarkable that two days should elapse without transactions in them.

All told there are 500,000 shares Crucible Steel common and preferred, and yesterday the total sales amounted to only 69 shares of the common and 200 shares of he preferred. Both issues were higher, the preferred advancing a dollar a share to 63. Crucible is not so widely distributed as it was two or three years ago, when the preferred was receiving 7 per cent dividends and there was official warrant (or the expectation of a small dividend on the common, but there is a certain amount of floating stock in the market, and it is astonishing that so little of it comes out. Apparently holders of these and other prominent local stocks which have become stagnant feel that the companies have gone through their worst times and that in the long run any change in market values will be for the better.

There were sales of 5,000 shares Ohio Tonopah at the uniform price of 35 cents a share. Tonopah Extension was not even quoted.

The North Butte Mining Company has given notice that no stock will be transferred after May 15 unless accompanied by the final payment of $5 a share due May 15. After May 10 stock will be quoted full paid.

On the exchange 10 was was bid for 500 shares River Coal common and one small lot was offered at 10½ bid. The preferred was not quoted.

The advance in Independent preferred is discounting the declaration of an initial dividend, expected this month.

Just at the close of the market 100 shares Westinghouse Electric sold at 85½, the only sale of the day. The close was 85¼ bid.

A small lot of Pittsburgh Plate Glass sold at 123, a decline of 1 per cent. The other glass issues were not quoted.

The asking price for seats in the Pittsburgh stock exchange was lowered to $8,000, and the best bid remained at $8,000. The last regular sale was $8,000.

German Trust stock was offered at 187. There was no bid.

Citizens Traction 5s advanced 1 per cent to 113½, while Manchester Traction 5s declined ½ per cent to 113½, compared with the last previous sales. American Sewer Pipe 6s were unchanged at 101½ and interest.

The market for local bank and trust stocks is as dull as any other department, and prices are barely steady.

The aggregate sale of municipal bonds during April greatly exceeded those of the preceding year, being $29,674,157. One reason for the unusual figures was that New York city on April 24 sold $25,000,000. The next largest issue of bonds by any city was that of Cleveland, O., being $2,771,000.

Wall street hears that the dividend on American Smelting common, now 1¾ per cent quarterly, will within a year be increased to 2½ per cent quarterly.

Cincinnati awarded $350,000 3½ per cent 20-year sewer construction bonds at a premium of $2,345.

The net earnings of the Diamond Match Company for the first quarter of the present fiscal year, ended March 31, show an increase of approximately 60 per cent, compared with the corresponding period last year. It is also said that April maintained the showing of the preceding months. The officials believe that the earnings for the first six months will surpass those of any half yearly period in the company's history by a wide margin.

If the New York law taxing stock transfers stands the test of the courts, it is likely to be enacted by other commonwealths. A dispatch from Toronto says: "A tax similar to that of New York state, on securities sold or transferred, is under consideration by the Ontario government with a view to its adoption here. The suggestion reached Ontario by way of the Quebec government, which is likely to adopt legislation of that character for Montreal."

The regular Pittsburgh Brewing dividends are payable May 30 to stock of record May 12.

The regular semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent has been declared on Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Lake Erie preferred stock.

The Wall Street Journal says: "American Steel Foundries preferred is to be placed on a 7 per cent basis in July. At the bottom of the depression a year and a half ago the late M. Schwab holdings in the American Steel Foundries Company were sold privately to the company at practically the lowest price at which the stock ever sold. This stock still remains in the treasury. Since the stock was purchased the price was more than doubled. It is the intention of the directors to place the preferred stock on a 7 per cent basis in July. The company is turning out 14,000 tons a month as against 8,000 tons at the first of the year. Among the largest stockholders in the company are E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation and representatives of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. These latter interests control over 25,000 shares of the company's stock."

The amendment to make No. 3 corn deliverable on a penalty of 5 cents passed the Chicago board of trade by a large majority. July and September corn will be traded hereafter on the "old" and "new" styles. Trades made up to and including May 8 will be considered "old" style. Old contracts cannot be evened up with purchases or sales of the new kind. There will be no "new" style trading in the May.

SUBURBAN DEAL COMES TO $122,500

A. J. Puffinburg Buys Four Apartment Houses in Wallace Avenue, Wilkinsburg.

LONG ISLAND BUY OF $150,000

The largest deal in Wilkinsburg realty consummated since the sale of the Wallace block, was made yesterday by A. D. Harrison of the Wilkinsburg Real Estate and Trust Company. The transaction is in the nature of an exchange in which four apartments in Wallace avenue, Wilkinsburg, are sold for $92,500. Three of the apartment houses belonged to George B. Barrett, the wholesale jeweler, who owned them 6½ four years. They are known as Nos. 516-518-520 Wallace avenue, between Wood and Pitt streets. The other apartment, Nos. 512-514 was the property of A. D. Harrison, who purchased it last year. The four buildings cover a lot 191x105 feet. They are three-story brick structures, strictly modern in their construction and provided with steam heat and gas and electric lights. There are 24 suites of six rooms each in the buildings. These rent for an average of $80 a month, the total income being $10,388 annually, which pays about 11 per cent gross on the investment.

The buyer of the apartment was A. J. Puffinburg, who gave in part payment 16 houses on Duquesne Heights. Mr. Puffinburg got these houses last year in a trade with Charles Lockhart for $30,000, and they were valued in this deal at the same figure. The houses are six-room brick dwellings, 14 of them facing in Plymouth avenue and two in Sycamore street. The total frontage is 276x100 feet. The houses rent for $16 a month, or a total of $2,304 a year. Four of them go to Mr. Harrison and 12 to Mr. Barrett.

Pittsburgher Buys in Long Island.

Charles Crosby has just purchased 100 acres of Long Island property for $150,000, or $1,500 an acre. The property is on the main line of the Long Island railroad, which is now a steam road, but will shortly be provided with the third rail equipment for an electric line. It is only a short distance from Belmont park, 15 miles from New York, where August Belmont and his associates have lately spent nearly $2,000,000 in improvements. Several other local investors are now negotiating for holdings in the near vicinity and, like Mr. Crosby, are very enthusiastic over the prospect of early and large profits.

Hundreds of acres used for years for truck farms, are now coming into the market at a rapid rate. Property near the city that was sold five years ago for $500 an acre, is now worth $3,000. Three tunnels have contributed to the rapid increase in property values, the Pennsylvania railroad tunnel, now building, which starts from the station in Jersey City and will run under the Hudson river to Thirty-fourth street and again under East river to Long Island City; the New York Central tunnel and the Whitehall tunnel. There are three new bridges over the East river which are also contributing much to property enhancement on Long Island. These are the Manhattan bridge, now being built, and the Williamsburg and Blackwells Island bridges, lately completed. The total cost of these improvements, with the new Pennsylvania station, is over $200,000,000. Most of the property in the part of Long Island most affected is being bought up and held by speculators, and very little plotting has as yet been done.

Another Corner to Be Improved.

It is reported on good authority that the former Kaufmann lot at the northeast corner of Penn avenue and Seventh street, opposite the old Second Presbyterian church, will be improved shortly with a business block at least eight stories high. The site measures 88x94 feet and was bought some time ago by George E. McCague. No plans for the building have yet been drawn.

Kerr & Fox have the contract from Architect P. J. Osterling for the Bedford avenue schoolhouse to cost about $50,000. The building will contain 12 school rooms and three large assembly and office rooms. The same architect has plans for a one-story brick building for the Western Pennsylvania hospital at Dixmont.

The Duquesne Construction Company got the contract for the brick school house to be built for the church of Sts. Peter and Paul, in Larimer avenue, at a cost of $55,000.

Architects Mueller & East will prepare plans for a brick and stone church building for the Grace English Lutheran congregation at Rochester, to cost $36,000.

Architects Alden & Harlow have plans for a two-story brick exchange building for the Central District and Printing Telephone Company at Beaver Falls, Pa.

Architects MacClure & Spahr will prepare plans for the University club for a building to cost $75,000. Several sites have been considered lately, but it is probable that the club will locate on the Schenley frontage in Bellefield avenue.

Fine Improvement for the Nineteenth.

An ordinance is now pending in select council which, if passed, means a great improvement for the Highland park district. It provides for the extension of Jackson street from a point one square east of Heberton avenue around the curve by the Robert Wightman property and up to Highland park, a distance of five squares. It is proposed to make this part of Jackson street a boulevard 80 feet wide, which would afford a magnificent entrance to the eastern end of the park. The proposed route leads by a large amount of very choice frontage which would be much profited by the extension and widening of the street. Among the properties along the line are those of James H. Park and Samuel W. Black, at the entrance to the park; James J. Booth, H. M. Neale, C. M. Bilek, E. M. Bigelow and C. L. Magee holdings.

Through the agency of W. F. Heath of the Braddock Trust Company the Mrs. Mary A. Vogel property in Oak street, near Sixth street, Braddock, has been sold to Rachel A. Morgan for $14,750. The lot is 70x140 feet and is improved with a seven-room frame house.

The Moorhead grade district school has sold to George P. Evans the site that it bought some time ago for a new school house. The property measures 175x125 feet and is at the southeast corner of Grandview avenue and Enoch streets, Eleventh ward. It brought $10,000. The new site for the school house is in Miller street and is much more level than the property just sold.

FLOUR PRICES BREAK TO LEVEL OF SHADING

Local Markets Are All Dull and Summer Short Days Are Inaugurated.

It was scarcely worth while changing prices in anything in the local markets yesterday, as there was but little doing. Strawberries moved up a quarter and the quotation on flour is changed to a decidedly lower figure, but there has been plenty of shading to this figure for the past week. Dealers are a little uncertain where the bottom is, but sales are being made readily at these figures and business in that line has greatly improved.

The sugar market seems as firm as ever and there is no indication that the end of the present extremely high prices is in sight. The coffee market is also firm as the advance noted last week.

Green goods seem a drug on the market, from the slowness with which buyers are coming forward. There is comparatively little doing along the street. The Liberty street merchants have all decided to close at 2 p. m. Saturdays until next October and will do so retailing.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts of hay and grain yesterday were as follows: Pennsylvania lines—2 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 6 cars corn, 3 cars feed. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie—3 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 1 car corn. Baltimore & Ohio—4 cars oats, 1 car corn.

This is the opening day of the new home of the Pittsburgh grain exchange in the Grain Exchange building, Penn avenue and Ninth street. The dealers wound up all their affairs in the old quarters in the McClance block yesterday. Many of the brokers who had offices in the McClance block have removed to the new home and others will do so as soon as their leases expire. It is the intention to concentrate all the offices in the same building with the exchange. There was little business doing yesterday and prices were let alone. Better business is looked for as soon as the dealers get settled in their new home.

Fraught with unusual interest, not only to railroad men, but to the traveling public in general, will be the first run of the new flyer between Pittsburgh and Buffalo over the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, next Sunday. The train will be put on coincidently with the adoption of the new spring schedule. Six hours between the two cities is the time in which officials of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie promise to run their train, which is expected to share speed honors with the famous "Twentieth Century Limited" of the New York Central railroad.

When three years ago a seven-hour run was established by this road between Pittsburgh and Buffalo, the achievement was thought to be a remarkable one. Last year, however, the running time was cut 10 minutes. At 10 o'clock next Sunday morning the new train will be started on a schedule which puts all the former ones far in the shade, the average running time being over 60 miles an hour.

Starting from this city over the main line of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, the Lake Shore tracks will be reached at Ashtabula. The stretch of track then to be gone over is admitted to be the best in the entire New York Central system. The time made while running over it will be the same as that attained by the well-known Twentieth Century Limited.

The time of arrival in Buffalo is fixed by the schedule at 4:15 o'clock in the afternoon. The train will be composed of a new combination car, a new magnificent mahogany cafe dining coach, and a Pullman observation car. The return service will be an exact counterpart of that from Pittsburgh to Buffalo. The train will leave Buffalo at 9:45 a. m., and reach Pittsburgh at 4 o'clock that afternoon.

On the new schedule, night service also is to be improved greatly. Direct service to Toronto and a thorough sleeping car to Clayton, on the St. Lawrence, is being arranged.

Passenger officials of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad are now congratulating themselves on the arrangements they have made with members of the Knights of Columbus National council for their convention from June 5 to 11, at Los Angeles, Cal.

Allegheny county knights and their families will leave Pittsburgh Wednesday evening, May 31, via the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, and at Cleveland or Chicago will join the official party, consisting of Supreme Knight Edward L. Hearn, the national directors and other officers and members of the order, on a special train from the east. This official train will leave Chicago 11 p. m., June 4, on the Northwestern road to Omaha, thence over the Union Pacific railroad, arriving at Los Angeles June 4.

After enjoying an excellently-arranged program during convention week, the party will board their special train for a tour of the coast states, taking in San Francisco, Portland and the Lewis and Clark exposition, Seattle, Yellowstone National park, Grand canyon, etc. The famous Franciscan missions, of particular interest to Knights of Columbus, will also be visited while the party is in California.

The return will be made via St. Paul and Minneapolis, on a schedule which will land the party in Pittsburgh June 25. Duquesne council of Pittsburgh possesses the distinction of having among its numbers a national director and a special effort is being made on the part of local knights to encourage him by a large representation on this occasion.

NO FRAUD SHOWN.

After being out over 30 hours the jury in the case of the Guarantee Title & Trust Company, against Samuel Markowitz, returned a verdict in favor of the defendant, in the United States circuit court, yesterday afternoon. The case grew out of the bankruptcy proceedings against William Lowenstein, a storekeeper at East Pittsburgh. Markowitz had purchased the store from Lowenstein a short time before he went into bankruptcy, and it was alleged this was done for the purpose of defrauding creditors.

The suit of John F. Wilcox against the Semet-Solvay Co. of Syracuse, to recover $46,950, alleged to be due him under a contract he had entered into with the concern to remain in their employ for a period of five years at a salary of $12,000 a year, is still on trial.

The $50,000 breach of promise suit of Miss Edith Isabella Giboney of St. Louis, against Klaus J. Steiner, member of a prominent Allegheny family, will likely be called for trial today. Attorneys Shirg and Dickey, representing Steiner, filed a special plea yesterday in which an outline of the defense is given. In the plea it is set forth that in May, 1904, Miss Giboney and Steiner agreed that the promise to marry should be and remain without any time of performance, except that the same should not be performed for more than one year from May, 1904, and that it was further agreed that if at any time within the year, either party desired to change their mind they were to so notify the other and the contract was to be considered at an end. The plea stated that Steiner did change his mind about marrying Miss Giboney in July, 1904, sent her notice to that effect and considered the matter as ended. In her statement filed when the suit was entered, Miss Giboney claims that Steiner became engaged to her in June, 1903.

Robert L. Kennedy filed a petition of bankruptcy. Kennedy is a pop manufacturer at Clarion. His liabilities are $4,923.36 and his assets $4,079.50.

JAPANESE PRINCE VISITS ITALIAN KING

He and His Princess Are to Attend a Family Dinner at Quirinal This Evening.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, May 9.—Prince and Princess Arisugawa, the former a cousin of the empress of Japan, visited King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena at the quirinal today and were cordially entertained by the sovereigns for about an hour.

Prince Arisugawa said he was going to Berlin and wished to stop in Italy to pay his respects to the king and queen. He recited the fact that he and King Victor Emmanuel (then the crown prince) had met at the jubilee of Queen Victoria, on which occasion the one represented the Italian and the other the Japanese government. The king invited Prince Arisugawa to visit the barracks with him tomorrow and with the princess to attend a family dinner in the evening at the quirinal.

The prince and princess will leave Rome on May 14. They expressed regret at not being able to meet the queen mother, who is absent at present from Rome, and who is held in high regard in Japan.

WIFE WORKS NOVEL SCHEME

The Pennsylvania railroad has a right to abandon its Brushton station if it sees fit, according to the opinion of Judge Macfarlane, who yesterday dismissed the bill of Jessie Morris and others against the railroad company, to restrain it from removing the station. In the opinion of the court the railroad did not act in an arbitrary manner or in disregard of the rights of the plaintiffs. Judge Macfarlane finds that the railroad had the right to change the location of a station and the court cannot control its discretion, unless the act was done arbitrarily or corruptly, or the rights of the public were wantonly disregarded. The court finds that the railroad is, while a highway for the convenience of the public, subject to such rules in relation to the transportation of freight and passengers as its president and directors may prescribe.

Judge Macfarlane states that if this case was the abandonment of a station which resulted in a practical denial to the people of a community of a reasonable use of the road, it would indicate a wanton disregard of their rights, but he further states there is a manifest difference between a single station in a town, and one of a number of way stations in a city, as trolley cars have made the location of stations, formerly inconvenient, now safely accessible.

Soldiers' Memorial Hall Project.

In quarter sessions court Judge Shafer made an order referring the petition filed last Saturday for the erection of a Soldiers' Memorial hall, to the grand jury. The body will probably act on the petition today. Attorney Andrew S. Miller, representing the old soldiers, said that the presenting of the petition was the first step towards securing the erection of the memorial hall under the recent act of the legislature.

A demurrer was filed in the case of Harry S. Van Tine against Henry M. Atwood, and others, by the Wilson-Snyder Manufacturing Company, one of the defendants. The demurrer sets forth that the statement or claim discloses no joint promise or liability on the part of the defendants, and that it discloses that the compensation of the plaintiff was dependent upon the formation of a consolidation of the defendants which was not accomplished.

The report of the commissioner in the divorce suit of Julia O'Brien against John O'Brien has been filed and the testimony of the wife shows that she resorted to extraordinary means to secure evidence to sustain the charge of cruelty and infidelity which she brings. She alleges that she masqueraded in a suit of her brother's clothes, and accompanied by her brother, visited a house at 88 Second avenue, where she found her husband in company with a woman named Mamie Harris. She avers that she urged him to go home with her, but that he denied knowing her, and when she insisted that he was her lawful husband, he denied his name, saying he was "Jimmie Jacobs." She alleges that he refused to leave the house and that the proprietress threatened to cause her arrest for masquerading in men's clothes if she did not leave.

On another occasion she alleges she found him at the home of his sister in Carpenter's alley, Allegheny, in company with another woman.

A decree of divorce was granted William A. Cornman, from Amanda Cornman. Infidelity was charged.

Ben Scott, a colored boy, pleaded guilty to a charge of entering the building of George Harris, 318 Fifth avenue, and with stealing a cash register. He was sent to the Huntingdon reformatory.

Superior Court Hears Arguments.

Superior court heard arguments in Butler county cases. The case of the commonwealth against Lizzie Nailor is an appeal of the defendant, who was found guilty as indicted in procuring a criminal operation on Annie Phillips, who died at her home. The appellant alleges that it was proved at the trial that the woman died of tuberculosis and that no criminal operation was performed.

The case of Karl Shay against the Phoenix Accident and Sick Benefit association is an action to recover on a policy. The case of James Follett against the county of Butler is an action to collect taxes on 75 acres of farm property after it had been taken into the borough of Bruin.

In the appeal of Eliza J. and Isaac S. Winans against Robert A. Whiteside, the question of the power of a court of equity to a decree of specific performance of a contract for the sale of real estate, where purchase money was never paid, is raised.

The case of Armour & Co., against the Penryn Valley Produce Company is an appeal from the judgment of the court below where the jury found for the defendant. The suit of Elmer E. Winkle against Frederick Meaney is an appeal in a replevin suit for farm produce.

A bill in equity was filed by John Yenny through his attorney T. L. Gartner, against the German Beneficial Union, Louis Volz, Louis Thurman and G. A. Ende, asking that pending the bill the defendants be enjoined from refusing to accept his monthly payments. He claims that he was dropped from membership, although he was not in default of payments and knows of no reason why he should have been dropped.

Returns Made By the Grand Jury.

The grand jury returned several true bills, among them being one against Henry Weinstock, Abraham Fusan, Sophie Sloan and Jacob Sloan, charging conspiracy. The information is made by Alexander Stewart, representing the Arbuthnot-Stephenson Company. He alleges the defendants committed unlawful acts to the prejudice of Weinstock's creditors. Weinstock conducted a furniture store in Fifth avenue and sold it to Sloan for a sum alleged to be far below the actual value. Later bankruptcy proceedings were commenced in the United States district court and Sloan was alleged to have removed goods from the premises in an effort to cheat the creditors. Criminal proceedings were also commenced in this connection, but the case was held over until the October term, when it will be tried.

The other bills returned are: Burglary, John Hurley, Edward Jones; robbery, John Mauley, Pat Hughes, Albert McCurdy; entering a building, etc., Jack Glenn, T. E. Malley, Frank Gibson, John Jasper, John King, Harvey Neveroid, Jacob Gillingham, Joseph Rogers; larceny, William Ford, Earl Fullerton, Alex Hersh, Henry Herman, William Hopkins, Edward Koleshl, Thomas Malley; felonious assault and battery, William Jones, 2; aggravated assault and battery, William Jones; assault and battery, Joseph Gulliams, Jacob Galloway, William Jones; bigamy, Alice E. Van Horn; false pretense, John Gordon, 2, A. E. Heinze; misdemeanor, C. H. Fink, Harman Johansen, Garfield Perry.

Executrix issued: E. B. D. Reese vs. H. M. Whittington, $100; L. Leonard Aaronson vs. Herman Pettigrew, $565.50; B. Sunstein & Sons vs. H. M. Whittington, $1,272.71; J. C. Hill & Sons vs. Mary A. English and Joseph Brown, $222.05; Westinghouse Airbrake Company vs. Anabel Snowden, $2,721.96.

ASKS FOR PARTICULARS.

Railway Company Wants District Attorney to Name Councilmen Whose Votes Were Corruptly Influenced.

The Grant and Liberty Street Railway Company wants to know what evidence it will have to combat in the suits of the Voters' Civic league, through the district attorney, to have the ordinance granting the railway company rights over the Grant boulevard set aside on the ground that corrupt means were employed to secure the passage of the ordinance.

The defendant company yesterday filed a petition to compel those who have filed these charges, to file with them a bill of particulars specifying persons alleged to have been corrupted or influenced in their votes, and the matters charged against such persons. The petition is directed against the district attorney, E. E. Stewart, and the court granted it. The district attorney asked in his suit that the company be restrained from laying the tracks on the boulevard. The rule is returnable Saturday, May 12, at 8:30 o'clock.

The charge was made that the ordinances is void by reason of corrupt means being employed, and that at least 12 votes in select council and 16 in common council were secured by this corrupt solicitation.

GOVERNOR VETOES EMPLOYMENT BILL

FISHING ACT DISAPPROVED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
HARRISBURG, PA., May 9.

"To find employment for a servant out of a place and to do it without a license is not such a crime and ought not to be so considered, however desirable it may be to put the business under proper regulations," says Gov. Pennypacker in vetoing the Hamilton bill to license and regulate employment agencies in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Scranton.

The governor also vetoed the bill making it lawful to catch and kill carp in the public waters of the state, in which brook and other trout are not established, with a gig or spear having a space of not less than one and one-half inches between the prongs.

The governor says it is to be regretted that the Hamilton bill, which has for its object the "very worthy purpose of protecting those who are brought into relation with employment agencies, should fail, but it has been prepared with such want of care and displays so much crudity of thought that it could not, with safety, be permitted to become a law."

After pointing out the numerous defects in the bill, the governor says that it would require a woman of meager means, who tries to support her family by getting places for household servants, to understand all modern languages or have a corps of interpreters. "The bill goes even further," he continues, "since the paper to be furnished must be written in a language which another person understands. How can she be expected to measure the capacity to write and the ability to read and the understanding of that other person?

"Section 10 provides that complaints shall be made before the commissioners and continues: 'Said commissioners shall keep a record of all companies and bearings.' The word 'companies' is probably a mistake for 'complaints.' Section 12 provides that 'any violations of the provisions of this act shall constitute a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than $200 or imprisonment for not more than one year.'

"The information given by the commissioner of fisheries," says the governor in his veto of the fish bill, "is that a gig or spear is one of the most destructive implements which can be used by persons engaged in the sport or business of fishing. Killing fish with gigs or spears is generally done at night, and, therefore, at a time when what is done is less subject to supervision.

"It is true the bill makes it unlawful to use the gig or spear for the catching of any species of fish other than carp, but in the darkness of the night and when the fish is under water it may be often difficult to determine to what species the fish belong, and after it is killed and taken out it is too late to make the determination of that question of much importance."

INDEPENDENT GLASS MEN DECLINE TO LOSE MONEY

Manufacturers and Jobbers' Window Glass Association Not to Meet Prices of American.

The Manufacturers and Jobbers' Window Glass association declined yesterday to meet the prices of the American Window Glass Company by reducing the selling prices of window glass. Nearly 50 per cent of the independent manufacturers of window glass belong to the association. They make glass in the old traditional way, by hand; the American company makes much window glass with machines, against which, it asserts, the hand-made glass cannot compete.

The meeting of the association was held in the office of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, Frick building, with a view to the meeting in the open market the prices quoted by the American company. It was denied that it was in use to try to meet these prices, as to make glass by hand seems to cost more than to make it with machines if the American company's prices are a criterion.

The independent manufacturers do not admit, however, that they cannot actually compete with their big rival. It is intimated that if the prices are intended to drive the independents out of the market the movement will fail, for it is not generally believed by the independents that the American is able to furnish sufficient output of machine-made glass to supply the market, consequently they expect to do business.

The Glass Bottle Blowers' association and the National Association of Vial and Bottle Manufacturers met at the Hotel Lincoln to list new designs, most of which are made by machine. Another meeting will be held today to complete the listing, and tomorrow the wage scale will be discussed.

LAWYERS OFF TO ARGUE.

Will Talk Greater Pittsburgh Before Supreme Court—Apple Crops Bet on the Court's Decision.

All the lawyers who will appear before the supreme court to argue for and against the constitutionality of the Greater Pittsburgh law, left yesterday for Philadelphia. The case is scheduled for argument tomorrow, but in case other cases should fall through, it may be brought up today, consequently the attorneys wanted to be on hand in case of emergency.

Those who departed were City Solicitor William B. Rodgers and his assistant, Thomas D. Carnahan, who will appear for the act, and ex-Gov. William A. Stone and Attorney W. C. Gill, who will argue against it. A. Leo Weil, counsel for the chamber of commerce, also went to Philadelphia, and if the supreme court permits, he also will argue for the constitutionality of the act.

State Factory Inspector George I. Rudolph and Thomas C. Waite of the Allegheny assessors' office, yesterday bet their respective apple crops on the result of the supreme court's decision. Rudolph bet that the bill would be declared unconstitutional, Waite took the other end of the bet. Each man has what he calls an orchard, which produces about 50 bushels of fruit in good years.

New Steam Shovel Arrives.

The second steam shovel has been delivered at the site of the filtration plant, and will be put in operation at once. Six men are at work making filter patterns and over 700 men are at present employed on the construction work.

The Truth about Whiskey.

In the United States whiskey is made under the strictest government surveillance. Internal Revenue inspectors watch the grain from the time it is taken from the car, through the process of mashing and distillation, until the raw whiskey is put in the barrel and is locked in the bonded warehouse, and then the Government storekeeper keeps the key. At all distilleries the inspectors are shifted every two months, thus doing away with any chance of collusion or corruption. ADULTERATION of straight bottled in bond whiskey is practically impossible. But the quality of that pure whiskey! That is where Gibson's Pure Rye surpasses others. Light weight rye will make as much but not as good whiskey as standard weight. Light weight malt will make as much but not as good whiskey as standard malt—6 per cent. of malt will make as much but not as good whiskey as 20 per cent.—Gibson's pure rye whiskey is made of standard weight rye, and 20 per cent. of barley malt. The highest grade rye and malt that can be obtained in the market. That is why for 50 years Gibson's Pure Rye Whiskey, whether "blended" or "straight," has been the standard not only of Purity, but of Quality. That standard has been expensive to maintain, but it has made the Gibson's distillery the largest producer of high-grade rye whiskey in the world.
